Staff: Ebony Lee
Attendee List:
Elaine Wynn, Trustee, Elaine P. Wynn & Family Foundation, Chairman, Communities In Schools
Bill Milliken, Founder and Vice-Chairman, Communities In Schools
Dale Erquiaga, President & CEO, Communities In Schools

Purpose of the Meeting: The purpose of the meeting is to introduce the Secretary to the Communities In Schools model, discuss potential partnerships around ESSA implementation, and to learn more about her vision.

Background Information on Communities In Schools: Working directly in more than 2,300 schools—district, charter, and private—across 25 states and the District of Columbia, Communities In Schools is in schools full-time, building relationships with students to empower them to stay in school and succeed in life. During the 2015-2016 school year, Communities In Schools served nearly 1.5 million students and successfully helped 99 percent case-managed students stay in school. We believe ESSA gives CIS a great opportunity to partner with the Department, especially around ESSA implementation and Integrated Student Supports. We look forward to discussing our model and being a resource in whatever way the Secretary may need us.

Should you seek any further information on Communities In Schools you can find it here.

5/16 Update - A recent, high priority addition to Joe Conaty' s calendar prevents him from attending the QPR on Thursday and we need to reschedule this meeting. We will aim to identify a new date and time and resend the calendar invitation soon. Thank you!

Hello! Please see attached for pre-read materials for next week's Quarterly Performance Review (QPR) on P-12 (FY14-18 Goals 2-4 // FY18-22 Proposed Goal 1).
We will NOT be reviewing these documents in detail during the meeting. However, given the purpose of this meeting is to conduct a strategic review of ED's performance, these materials are provided for your reference and preparation for the discussion.
Attached are:

* The QPR agenda – Recommend reviewing in advance as this document includes optional pre-reads for the research discussion and topics you identified for discussion in the Q2 data call.
* 2014-15 APR Performance Benchmarking – Provides benchmarking that shows how ED has performed on its Strategic Plan (SP) compared to how other CFO Act agencies perform on their SPs.
* ED Performance FY14-16 Trend – Provides the overall snapshot of the portfolio both from a metrics and progress assessment perspective.
* Goal Handout – Provides the same as the overall trend (above bullet) except it is specific to the goal.
* Quarterly metrics performance to date – Provides information on quarterly performance metric data as of Q2.
* Q2 FY17 FY-18 SP Linked to FY18-22 SP – Identifies connections between the current SP and the proposed framework for the FY2018-22 SP.
* Data call timeline – For reference.

Please hold this time for our Quarterly Performance Review (QPR). This QPR will focus on P-12 (FY14-18 Goals 2-4 // FY18-22 Proposed Goal 1).
Materials and agenda to follow. Thank you!

Connecting the Work in the Current FY14-18 Strategic Plan (SP) to the New FY18-22 Design Framework

FY18-22 Strategic Plan Goal 1: Support state and local efforts to improve learning outcomes for all students, including underserved students and preschoolers.

Alignment to Current FY14-18 Strategic Plan (SP)
Example:

- GOAL 2: ELEMENTARY AND SECONDARY EDUCATION. Improve the elementary and secondary education system's ability to consistently deliver excellent instruction aligned with rigorous academic standards while providing effective support services to close achievement and opportunity gaps, and ensure all students graduate high school college- and career-ready.
- Current performance metrics focus on states' college- and career-ready standards; disparity in out-of-school suspensions for students with disabilities and youths of color; persistently low graduation-rate high schools; STEM course completion among high school graduates.

Implementation Strategy and Results:

The new FY18-22 SP Goal 1's implementation strategy would encompass details related to high-quality education options; equal access to high-quality educational opportunities; students' access to rigorous course work.

Identifying Performance Metrics:

- Progress on how well we are implementing our strategies and executing against our SP to achieve the desired results are measured by the identification of performance metrics that are both a mix of ambitious and attainable goals.
- A review of the current portfolio of SP metrics in this goal area would help gauge if any are still meaningful in driving the Department's work forward.

FY18-22 Strategic Plan Goal 3: Support educational institutions, parents and communities in developing their capacity to improve outcomes for all students.

Alignment to Current FY14-18 Strategic Plan (SP)
Example:

- GOAL 5: CONTINUOUS IMPROVEMENT OF THE U.S. EDUCATION SYSTEM. Enhance the education system's ability to continuously improve through better and more widespread use of data, research and evaluation, evidence, transparency, innovation, and technology.
- Current performance metrics focus on states linking to ED data; datasets in the ED data inventory; unique page-views to the education.data.gov site.

Implementation Strategy and Results:

The new FY18-22 SP Goal 3's implementation strategy would encompass details related to the different types of consumers of ED data and how they are accessing and using ED data.

Identifying Performance Metrics:

- Progress on how well we are implementing our strategies and executing against our SP to achieve the desired results are measured by the identification of performance metrics that are both a mix of ambitious and attainable goals.
- A review of the current portfolio of SP metrics in this goal area would help gauge if any are still meaningful in driving the Department's work forward.
  *Two examples include current metrics focused on the College Scorecard and states actively using data systems to support and inform improvements.

Colleagues

This is the kick off meeting for one of the FY 2019 Budget work group meeting. As you saw in my email (attached), we are setting up four work groups made up of political and career staff that will review proposals and develop options papers around the following areas: FY 2019 proposed eliminations or reductions, school choice-related activities, higher education programs, and career and technical education programs.

Please see the attached document which describes the timeline for this work group as well as key questions that will impact the final options that we will recommend to the Secretary for potential inclusion in the Department's FY 2019 request to OMB. During this meeting, we will discuss key issues in this area, policy and budget options that could address these issues, and work assignments for finalizing our recommendations.

While we tried to keep these groups small, please reach out if you would like to include additional members to these work groups.

If you have any questions, please advise.

Jason,

I hope this finds you well! Congrats on the official appointment!

Thanks for taking the time to meet a couple weeks ago; great to put a face to the name, and learn more about your work.

I'm reaching out because, we're organizing our Whiteboard Advisors Policy Summit on June 16, which will take place at Gallup in DC—and we'd love to have you involved as a speaker.

A school choice panel will certainly be on the agenda—a conversation on what the federal role will be, how the Supreme Court may impact choice, what innovations in state policy are already taking place (thinking ESAs, for example); and I thought the panel would benefit greatly from your insight.

The goal is to provide an opportunity for entrepreneurs, funders, and those who don't regularly hear from DC policymakers to learn first-hand about what's ahead over the next 18 months. It'll be a day-long conversation, with panels ranging from Title I to student finance, featuring policy staff from the Hill, the Administration, as well as a few former officials and think tank scholars. We're expecting a crowd of about 150.

If you're interested, I can provide more details (including info on average price per person on lunch, etc. for your ethics officer) but we would love for our audience to hear from the Department.

We're still finalizing all the times and panel descriptions/participants, but also welcome your recommendations for who else we may want to involve in the day.

Thanks!
Jenna

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

Hi Jason, happy Friday!

I'm writing at the recommendation of my colleague Andy Rotherham, who thought you'd want to connect with Laysha Ward, who oversees the Target Foundation and has led Target's CSR work for the last 15 years, when she's in DC next Monday (incredibly short notice, I know!).

As you're probably aware, Target made a $1billion commitment to education over the last decade; and today they've expanded that work to focus on youth wellness, often in partnership with schools—they have several grant initiatives in Baltimore, actually. Andy thought you'd be interested to learn more about how they're supporting local communities, and the potential alignment with your priorities.

If you have time Monday for a brief meeting, we'd love to set time for Laysha to listen and learn about your priorities in the new role.

Thanks!
Jenna

Good morning,

Ebony received this meeting request and thought you all should join as well. The information for the meeting is below.

As a brief background, the U.S. Digital Service is a small group of technologists from leading companies in the private sector. We're engineers, product managers, researchers, and interface designers who join the government for term-limited tours of duty to help improve the digital products and services that citizens use every day. In addition to our small team at ED, there are Digital Service teams at the VA, HHS, DHS, DoD, SBA, and other agencies.

If you and your staff have 30 to 45 minutes in the next week or two, our team would welcome the opportunity to show you results of some projects we've worked on at ED and describe others we're looking forward to accomplishing in the future.

Subject: Phone Call to Chief State Schools Officer - Indiana

Superintendent of Public Instruction Jennifer McCormick

Just in case, her cell number is (b)(6)

Background:
Dr. Jennifer McCormick, Indiana's Superintendent of Public Instruction, is a nationally recognized innovator and leader in education. Over the course of nearly two decades, Dr. McCormick has served at every level of the traditional public education system. She began in the classroom as a special education teacher, then served as a middle school language arts teacher (1996-2004) before becoming principal of Yorktown Elementary School (2004-2007). She was named assistant superintendent of Yorktown Community Schools (2007-2010) before she was elevated to superintendent in 2010.
Dr. McCormick's work as an education innovator was recognized nationally in 2014 when she was invited to the White House to participate in The National Connected Superintendents Summit. She is the recipient of the Outstanding Contributor to Education Award from the Muncie Delaware County Chamber of Commerce and was named Person of the Year by the Yorktown Chamber of Commerce in 2013.
Dr. McCormick served as secretary of the board for Ivy Tech East Central Region and was appointed as an eLearning Leadership Cadre member by the Indiana Department of Education. She served on the board of the Indiana Association of School Business Officials and was a Delaware County Youth Salutes board member.

Talking Points:

State Chief	ESSA State Plan	Bullet Points
Jennifer McCormick State Superintendent of Public Instruction Assumed office: 1/23/17 Elected by popular vote	Submitting in Sept.	• Prior to her election as State Superintendent, Dr. McCormick was superintendent of Yorktown Community Schools beginning in 2010. • Dr. McCormick's work as an education innovator was recognized nationally in 2014 when she was invited to the White House to participate in The National Connected Superintendents Summit. • IN's alternate assessment design for SY 2015-16 did not produce a sufficient number of responses at each performance level for the State to set cut scores. To resolve this, IN is preparing a standard setting design for Indiana's TAC to review in April, followed by standard setting meetings set for June, 2017. Achievement standards are scheduled to be presented to the Indiana State Board of Education for approval in July, with ISTAR test results available to schools and parents by late July/early August.

Subject: Pre-meeting to discuss Stillman College issue prior to call with hill Updated: we'll be meeting in OUS Conference room 7E312.

Hi Everyone,

OLCA received a request from the Ed and Workforce Committee Majority (Foxx) staff requesting to speak with Don Watson, ED's Executive Director of the HBCU Capital Financing Program, on "the fate of Stillman College". Specifically, they want to learn any options available to Stillman in receiving continued forbearance on their delinquent loan repayment and what may happen to the College if no other options are available. It is our guess that Stillman is putting pressure on Congressional members to intercede on their behalf and we may hear from others.

Don let us know that Stillman had requested continued forbearance on this debt in a letter to the Secretary and recently learned that ED does not have the statutory authority to provide a forbearance option.

The purpose of this pre-meeting is to discuss what can and cannot be shared prior to discussing with the hill.

Please let me know if you have any questions or if others should be included in this discussion.

Thank you.

Regards,
-Scott

2. To what extent has the passage and implementation of the Every Student Succeeds Act (ESSA) affected K-12 program performance assessment activities at OESE?

    a. Are there new K-12 program performance assessment requirements for OESE?
    b. Has ESSA addressed (i.e., resolved or mitigated) certain challenges to program performance assessment activities?
    c. Does ESSA present new challenges?
    d. Do certain challenges persist under ESSA?

3. How, if at all, does OESE ensure that program offices develop and implement adequate plans to monitor K-12 program grantees' performance toward achieving program goals and objectives?

4. The OIG's FY 2018 Management Challenges Report includes information on Education's progress in meeting certain challenges, including oversight and monitoring of grantees and data quality and reporting. The following questions refer to efforts in meeting these challenges, as outlined in the OIG's report.

    a. What types of risk-based monitoring tools or approaches, if any, does OESE use to address (i.e., resolve or mitigate) challenges related to the oversight and monitoring of grantees? Please provide specific examples (see OIG FY 2018 Management Challenges Report p. 39).

    b. Please describe the Department's standardized procedures to evaluate the quality of SEA submitted data (e.g., tool used by offices to identify, follow up on, and track individual State data quality concerns after the submission of Consolidated State Performance Reports) and how these procedures help address data quality and reporting challenges (see OIG FY 2018 Management Challenges Report p. 45-46).

Office of Elementary and Secondary Education: Part 1

Based on our review of relevant GAO reports, Education OIG reports, and various other Education documents, challenges related to assessing the performance of K-12 programs generally fell into three broad categories: (1) Data quality; (2) Oversight and monitoring, and (3) Capacity and resources. We consider program performance assessment to include both rigorous, systematic evaluations and ongoing monitoring and reporting of program accomplishments.

We are seeking your input on the challenges identified and requesting examples of specific K-12 programs that have faced or continue to face these particular challenges. Please complete the table below, as directed.

If you have any questions or comments, please contact Meredith Moore at MooreMM@GAO.gov or Kate O'Dea Lamas at ODeaLamasK@GAO.gov.

Please respond to these questions only if you agree that Education faces the associated challenge to K-12 program performance assessment noted in column A.

A regular Check In on OII-related issues

STEM – Organizational placement; staffing; questions on STEM inventory; thoughts on next steps

FY 18 Charter School Developer Competition – Needless to say, Stefan would prefer moving forward with the current language in the notice. One option -- if you believe that the notice doesn't say enough about choice AND since we're waiving rulemaking anyway, we could have the waiver include using the Choice language from the Supplemental priority. If we could get a quick clearance on that, we could still stay close to our current time line.

Federal Funds for Transportation Costs – I'm sure you've seen the POLITICO article but just in case I've included it below. Also, I've attached the letter that the National Coalition on School Diversity sent to the Hill on Friday.

11/20/2017 12:41 PM EDT
Several civil rights groups are calling on Congress to remove riders to fiscal 2018 appropriations bills that would prohibit the use of federal funds for transportation costs for school desegregation.
The "anti-busing" language has been in appropriations legislation since at least 1974, according to letters dated Friday and sent to House and Senate leaders. The letters were spearheaded by the National Coalition on School Diversity, which is a network of civil rights groups advocating for greater diversity in education.
"It is alarming that such legislative language would still be present in 2017, in an era when racial re-segregation of our public schools has surged, where a majority of members of the Supreme Court have declared school diversity to be a 'compelling government interest,' and where so many districts are working voluntarily to promote racial and economic integration for the benefit of their children and communities," the letters said.
The language would "effectively abrogate" some programs governed by the Every Student Succeeds Act, the sweeping 2015 law that states are implementing.
That includes the Magnet Schools Assistance Program, which provides grant funding for districts under a court order or a federally approved voluntary desegregation plan to support magnet schools. The groups say the language could affect the ability to use the funds for transportation, as ESSA allows.
The rider also limits the range of school improvement strategies available when it comes to using Title I funds, which go to support low-income schools, as well as grant funding under the Education Innovation and Research program that is designed to help districts address persistent problems in education, they say.

Dear Majority Leader McConnell, Minority Leader Schumer, Chairman Cochran, and Vice Chairman Leahy:

On behalf of the National Coalition on School Diversity (www.school-diversity.org) and the undersigned organizations and individuals, we urge the Senate to strike outdated and harmful language from the FY 2018 appropriations legislation that prohibits federal funding to be used for transportation and other purposes to further public school racial integration.

The National Coalition on School Diversity is a growing network of civil rights organizations, university-based research centers, and state and local coalitions working to expand support for government policies that promote school diversity and reduce racial isolation. We also support the work of state and local school diversity practitioners.

The research on the benefits of diversity are clear. Students attending socio-economically and racially diverse schools have better test scores and higher college attendance rates than peers in more economically and racially segregated schools.[1] The benefits from attending diverse schools also continue into adulthood. These include subsequent reduced segregation in neighborhoods, colleges, and workplaces, higher levels of social cohesion, and reduced racial prejudice.[2]

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

It appears that in every appropriations legislation since at least 1974, there has been language prohibiting federal funding to be used for transportation to support public school racial desegregation. Presently, such language exists in S. 1771, at Sections 301 and 302:

> Section 301: "No funds appropriated in this Act may be used for the transportation of students or teachers (or for the purchase of equipment for such transportation) in order to overcome racial imbalance in any school or school system, or for the transportation of students or teachers (or for the purchase of equipment for such transportation) in order to carry out a plan of racial desegregation of any school or school system."
> Section 302: "None of the funds contained in this Act shall be used to require, directly or indirectly, the transportation of any student to a school other than the school which is nearest the student's home, except for a student requiring special education, to the school offering such special education, in order to comply with title VI of the Civil Rights Act of 1964. For the purpose of this section an indirect requirement of transportation of students includes the transportation of students to carry out a plan involving the reorganization of the grade structure of schools, the pairing of schools, or the clustering of schools, or any combination of grade restructuring, pairing, or clustering. The prohibition described in this section does not include the establishment of magnet schools."

Such prohibitions are vestiges of an era during which opposition to court-ordered public school racial integration raged. It is alarming that such legislative language would still be present in 2017, in an era when racial re-segregation of our public schools has surged, where a majority of members of the Supreme Court have declared school diversity to be a "compelling government interest,"[3] and where so many districts are working voluntarily to promote racial and economic integration for the benefit of their children and communities.

Last year, the Government Accountability Office found increasing racial and socioeconomic isolation in our nation's schools, with the number of intensely segregated schools more than doubling since 2001.[4] At best, the legislative language in Sections 301 and 302 does nothing to combat this trend. At worst, it exacerbates the harmful effects of racial segregation on our students and our increasingly divided communities. As the findings in the landmark civil rights Supreme Court case Brown v. Board of Education unambiguously found, a racially segregated education is, by its very nature, an unequal education.

The outdated "anti-busing" provisions of S.1771 effectively abrogate portions of the reauthorized Magnet School Assistance Program (MSAP), included in the 2015 Every Student Succeeds Act (ESSA). As the MSAP program makes clear, "It is in the best interest of the United States to continue the Federal Government's support of local educational agencies that are implementing court-ordered desegregation plans and local educational agencies that are voluntarily seeking to foster meaningful interactions among students of different racial and ethnic backgrounds, beginning at the earliest stage of such students' education."[5] ESSA Section 4407(a)(9) provides grantees with the flexibility to use MSAP funds for transportation to and from magnet schools; this flexibility would effectively be taken away by Sections 301 and 302 of the appropriations bill quoted above. Even though Section 302 includes a sentence about exempting the establishment of magnet schools, the Section still prohibits funds from being used for the transportation of students.

These provisions also limit the range of potential school improvement strategies available to State Educational Agencies (SEAs) and Local Educational Agencies (LEAs) under ESSA. Section 1111(d) of ESSA gives SEAs and LEAs the authority to utilize Title I funds to implement locally determined and State determined interventions in schools identified for comprehensive support and improvement or targeted support and improvement. However, S. 1771 Sections 301 and 302 prevent SEAs and LEAs from pursuing a range of potentially effective school improvement strategies. For example, New York State's ESSA plan outlines State-approved interventions for schools identified for comprehensive support and improvement. Interventions listed include the use of Title I School Improvement Funds under Section 1111 to support district level efforts to increase diversity and reduce socio-economic and racial/ethnic isolation and bias in schools. Thus, S. 1771 Sections 301 and 302 appear to be in direct conflict with the will of Congress in passing ESSA, as they clearly undermine ESSA's focus on local control and flexibility.

Additionally, S. 1771 Sections 301 and 302 limit the range of school improvement techniques that can be implemented and evaluated under ESSA's Education Innovation and Research grant program. There is a strong evidence base that integrated schools provide better educational opportunities and outcomes for students, but we can continue to learn about specific techniques for integrating schools and educating integrated student bodies. By barring the use of federal funds to transport students for the purposes of racial integration, S. 1771 Sections 301 and 302 undercut innovators' ability to explore new and potentially significant school improvement techniques.

Recent events in our country underscore the importance of supporting diversity in schools so that residents can ultimately live, work, and play in an inclusive environment. As stated by Justice Anthony Kennedy in his concurring opinion in Parents Involved In Community Schools v. Seattle School Dist. No. 1: "This Nation has a moral and ethical obligation to fulfill its historic commitment to creating an integrated society that ensures equal opportunity for all of its children."[6] Striking the outdated and harmful language from the appropriations bill is a small but important step in reaching this goal.

Thank you for your support of programs that promote diversity in our public schools.

CHARTER SCHOOLS DEVELOPER COMPETITION - questions on proposed language?

CHARTER SCHOOLS GENERIC WAIVER LETTER FAQS - draft responses and proposed schedule sent to OGC today (11/28)

FY 18 COMPETITIONS - just wanted to clarify what your preference is for the SEED program in terms of which priorities we will use. We had identified a possible STEM subpart for priority 6 that we could use as a competitive priority. During our meeting on FY 18 competitions last week you suggested we consider a subpart under the Promoting Effective Instruction in Classrooms and Schools for priority 8 (which we were proposing for the Teacher Quality Partnership Program). Our question is would it be okay to include priority 8 only for SEED or did you prefer that we do both priority 6 and priority 8.

PROMISE NEIGHBORHOODS COMPETITION - a flag that this slate is about to go into clearance and that there are 4 applicants under priority I (non-rural and non-tribal) which have total scores that are tied. Our Technical Review Plan provides for a tie-breaker (score on the Quality of Design criterion) so we're covered in terms of our recommendation. It's so unfortunate.just wanted you to know and to hear any concerns you may have. As you know, the Hill is most interested in the extensions to existing grants that we'll be funding early in 2018, so we really don't have the flexibility to fund all four tied applicants.

FY 17 ARTS COMPETITION - An unsuccessful applicant pointed out that the review form we sent them reflected that one peer reviewer had given a low score under one criterion but had explicitly stated in her comments that there were no weaknesses. The staff had noticed this discrepancy during the review process and asked the reviewer to correct the score (which she intended to be something like a 30 instead of a 5) to reflect the comments. The reviewer said she would correct the score but somehow she did not. So, when the program ran the rank order this application did not come into the funding range. OGC has been reviewing this matter and we expect to hear back very soon that they support funding this application off the top of the FY 18 appropriation.

Dear Colleague, Per your interest, please feel free to join Maureen McLaughlin and me for a meeting with Baroness May Blood and others from Northern Ireland to learn about the Integrated Education Movement in Northern Ireland. As noted in the attached document: ?Parents create integrated schools, not government. Integrated schools seek to provide an inclusive and integrated ethos in the school as well as a religious and cultural mix of pupils from different backgrounds. Catholic children are supported and prepared for the sacraments. Protestant children undertake bible studies. Other world religions are also explored and celebrated. Integrated schools are not secular and encourage participation of different faiths in school life and festivals, as well as respecting those children of no religion.? Feel free to forward this to other ED colleagues who you think may have an interest in this topic. If necessary, I am happy to arrange for a larger room to accommodate interest. However, please note that an RSVP (via Outlook) is necessary. Members of the delegation ? Baroness May Blood, Campaign Chair of the Integrated Education Fund, Northern Ireland, United Kingdom (see attached bio) ? Paul Caskey, Head of Campaign and Policy, Integrated Education Fund, Northern Ireland ? Richard Cushnie, First Secretary, Deputy Director, Northern Ireland Bureau, Washington, DC ? Norman Houston (tentative) Director, Northern Ireland Bureau, Washington, DC Additional background information Baroness May Blood bio Integrated Education Fund Background Integrated Education Fund Strategic Plan Maureen

Hi Jason,

Are you ok if we switch this to coffee? Patrick and I need to attend a pre-meeting for the EOP/OMB meeting on the guidance.

Hi Jason,

Patrick and I would like to see if you are available for us to take you to lunch before you leave the Department. We would like to thank you and show our appreciation for your willingness to dig into the weedy ESSA policy issues and support OSS with the many and varied questions from States.

If this date and time doesn't work, please let us know what does.

Looking forward to the opportunity to thank you and celebrate your new opportunity!

Roberta and Patrick

Colleagues,

The Offices of Non-Public Education and Communications and Outreach invite you to attend the below policy briefing on Thursday, October 11 at 1:00 p.m. in the LBJ auditorium.

No One Way to School: Educational Pluralism and Why it Matters
An Education Policy Briefing with Ashley Rogers Berner, PhD

400 Maryland Ave, SW
Washington, DC 20202

Thursday, October 11, 1:00 - 2:30 p.m. ET

Join Ashley Berner, deputy director of the *Johns Hopkins Institute for Education Policy, as she participates in a timely discussion with OESE Principal Deputy Assistant Secretary Jason Botel on what educational pluralism looks like and how our system of public education can benefit from it. Berner will share her expertise and research and discuss her book—Pluralism and American Public Education: No One Way to School—in which she advocates for a more pluralistic, publicly funded education system in the U.S., instead of the current uniform, state-operated system. There will be an opportunity for Q&A.

Berner explains:

"Our state-operated education system is held in place by three longstanding but mistaken beliefs:

- First, that only state schools can create good citizens;
- Second, that only state schools can offer equal opportunities to all children;
- Third, that any other arrangement is constitutionally suspect.

The evidence contradicts those claims.

What do we mean when we say 'public education? In the United States, public education refers to the system of schools that are funded, regulated, and delivered by the states—usually by the district school. This concept of public education in the U.S. is different from the scope and contents of public education in many other countries.

In most democracies, public education means schools that are funded and regulated, but not necessarily delivered, by the state. Berner contrasts the U.S. public education system with the diverse and government-funded schools in other democratic nations around the world, noting that the U.S. is an "outlier" and that, for example, "the Netherlands supports 35 different types of schools on equal footing." In fact, she states, the vast majority of democratic nations fund varied school types and models—whether Montessori, Islamic, or Inuit—as a matter of principle, and they hold all schools to a high academic standard. Berner's defense for a pluralistic education system is philosophical and rooted in American principles of freedom and democratic ideals. While noting the limits of education pluralism and acknowledging that it is not the panacea for all of our educational problems, she says that it provides the critical space for education excellence, equity and many distinctive school cultures that enhance civil society. America's school systems are changing rapidly, and Berner believes that public education should shift to incorporate a pluralist approach, anchored in inclusive, accountable school choice. She also advises that today's policymakers need to understand the history of our uniform school system and the academic, civic and philosophical grounds for funding and regulating a wide variety of schools.

The opinions expressed in this briefing are the author's own and do not necessarily reflect the views of The Johns Hopkins University or The Johns Hopkins Institute for Education Policy.

Jason,

Please submit your accomplishments of that portion of your work for that portion of the fiscal year prior to Frank Brogan coming on board.

Please submit no later than COB on October 4. I will then use those accomplishments for preparation of a memo to hand to Frank for factoring into his overall rating for this past fiscal year.

I will also ask Amber to set up a review of that part of your work with me for sometime the week of October 8.

Thank you and please let me know if questions. Thanks too for your assistance on the Federal Partnership issue today.

Build Your Own ESSA Explainer

Need to communicate key facts and details about what the Every Student Succeeds Act (ESSA) means for families?Use the slides in this deck to build your own presentation. Each card summarizes something about the law that parents should know, including how ESSA approaches standards and assessments, funding flexibilities, and more.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

WHAT ESSA SAYS ABOUT

Challenging Academic Standardsand Assessments

IN A NUTSHELL

ESSA requires every State to develop challenging academic standards that specify the knowledge and skills that the State expects all its students to achieve and to administer annual assessments aligned with those standards.

WHAT THAT MEANS FOR YOU

Your State has freedom to choose, after consulting with parents, teachers, and other stakeholders, the standards that describe the knowledge and skills every child in your State is taught and the tests that will let you and your child's teachers know whether your child has achieved the standards.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

STANDARDS & ASSESSMENTS

8th Grade MathematicsExemption

IN A NUTSHELL

A State that administers end-of-course math assessments in high school may exempt any 8th-grade student from the State's 8th grade math assessment if the student takes the end-of-course assessment the State typically administers in high school. To receive this flexibility, the State must commit to administering to the student a more rigorous math test in high school.

WHAT THAT MEANS FOR YOU

If your State takes advantage of this flexibility and if your 8th-grader is taking a high school-level math class and test, he or she will not be required to take the State math test other 8th grade students take.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

STANDARDS & ASSESSMENTS

Locally Selected, Nationally Recognized High School Academic Assessments

IN A NUTSHELL

A State may allow a district to administer a locally selected, nationally recognized high school assessment in place of the statewide assessment in math, reading/language arts, or science.

WHAT THAT MEANS FOR YOU

If your State and district take advantage of this flexibility, your high school student may be able to take a nationally recognized high school test, such as the ACT or SAT, instead of the test your State normally administers in high school.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

STANDARDS & ASSESSMENTS

Innovative Assessment Demonstration Authority

IN A NUTSHELL

A State may apply to the U.S. Department of Education to implement innovative assessments in some of its districts instead of the statewide assessment.

WHAT THAT MEANS FOR YOU

If your child attends a school in a district for which your State receives this flexibility, he or she may take innovative tests in place of the standardized tests the State would otherwise administer.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

STANDARDS & ASSESSMENTS

Alternate Academic Achievement Standards and Assessments for Students with the Most Significant Cognitive Disabilities

IN A NUTSHELL

A State may adopt alternate academic achievement standards and alternate assessments that measure achievement of those standards for students with the most significant cognitive disabilities. A State may administer an alternate assessment to no more than one percent of its tested population.

WHAT THAT MEANS FOR YOU

If your child is a student with the most significant cognitive disabilities, he or she may be able to take a different test, and be held to standards that reflect the highest standards possible for your child. In addition, your child's school will be evaluated for the performance of your child based on his or her performance on these tests.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

STANDARDS & ASSESSMENTS

Adaptive Testing

IN A NUTSHELL

A State may administer statewide assessments in the form of computer-adaptive assessments, which allow the State to measure a student's academic proficiency using items above or below the student's grade level.

WHAT THAT MEANS FOR YOU

If your State offers computer-adaptive assessments, your child may take the required State tests using a computer program that adapts test questions (i.e., gets more or less challenging) based on how your child is doing on each question.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

WHAT ESSA SAYS ABOUT

Statewide AccountabilitySystems

IN A NUTSHELL

ESSA requires every State to develop an accountability system for all public schools to improve student achievement and school success, but the State has broad discretion in designing its system.

WHAT THAT MEANS FOR YOU

Your State has freedom to select a number of the measures it uses to assess the performance of each public school. For example, in addition to performance on statewide tests and graduation rate, your State may select such measures as chronic absenteeism or student growth. It is important that your State helps you understand what measures it uses to evaluate schools so that you understand the performance of your child's school and other schools.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

STATEWIDE ACCOUNTABILITY

Exception for Recently Arrived English Learners

IN A NUTSHELL

A State has three options for how to include recently arrived English learners in its statewide accountability system.

WHAT THAT MEANS FOR YOU

If your child is an English learner and has attended a school in the United States for less than 12 months, he or she may not have to take all required standardized tests. If he or she takes the tests, your State may choose not to include his or her score in the same way as all other scores when the State evaluates the school's performance.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

STATEWIDE ACCOUNTABILITY

English Learner Subgroup

IN A NUTSHELL

A State has flexibility to determine the number of years (up to four) that it includes the reading and math test results of former English learners in the English learner subgroup in its accountability system.

WHAT THAT MEANS FOR YOU

If your State takes advantage of this flexibility, in evaluating the performance of English learners in your child's school, the State will give your school credit for the performance of students who were previously English learners but have achieved English language proficiency within the last few years.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

SCHOOL SUPPORT & IMPROVEMENT

School Improvement Activities

IN A NUTSHELL

ESSA requires a district to develop a plan for each school in the district that a State identifies for comprehensive support and improvement, but the district has freedom to identify the evidence-based interventions it will include in each plan. Likewise, each school that a State identifies for targeted support and improvement has freedom to identify the evidence-based interventions it will include in its targeted support and improvement plan.

WHAT THAT MEANS FOR YOU

Because ESSA requires districts and schools to involve parents in developing comprehensive and targeted support and improvement plans, you can help your district or school determine the evidence-based interventions that are best suited to meet the needs of students in your child's school.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

SCHOOL SUPPORT & IMPROVEMENT

State discretion with respect to alternative high schools

IN A NUTSHELL

A State has flexibility to permit different improvement activities for high schools that serve students who have previously dropped out or who are at risk of dropping out.

WHAT THAT MEANS FOR YOU

Your State can permit high schools that are designed to serve students who previously dropped out or who are at risk of dropping out to implement improvement activities that are specifically tailored to the unique needs of these students.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

SCHOOL SUPPORT & IMPROVEMENT

Public School Choice

IN A NUTSHELL

A district has the flexibility to offer students enrolled in a school identified for comprehensive support and improvement the option to transfer to another public school. A district may also use up to 5% of its Title I, Part A funds to pay for transportation of students who take advantage of this choice.

WHAT THAT MEANS FOR YOU

If your child attends a school the State identifies for comprehensive support and improvement (e.g., because it is one of the lowest-performing schools), your district may allow your child to transfer to another public school and use a portion of its Federal funds to pay for transportation to the school you choose for your child.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

SCHOOL SUPPORT & IMPROVEMENT

School Improvement Funds

IN A NUTSHELL

A State has flexibility to distribute school improvement funds on a formula or competitive basis and to determine certain conditions for districts and schools to receive these funds. A district with one or more schools identified for comprehensive or targeted support and improvement has flexibility to determine whether to apply for school improvement funds and, if so, to determine how much funding it requests, for which school or schools it requests funds, and whether to seek funding for district-level activities.

WHAT THAT MEANS FOR YOU

Your State can decide whether it would be more beneficial to distribute funds for the lowest-performing schools and schools with low-performing subgroups based on a formula or to have districts compete for the funding. Whichever method your State chooses, your district can choose whether to apply for the funds and, if so, the schools for which it will seek the funds and the activities it will support with the funds.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

WHAT ESSA SAYS ABOUT

Direct StudentServices

IN A NUTSHELL

A State has flexibility to reserve some of its Title I, Part A funds for "direct student services," that include, for example, activities that help students complete advanced or career and technical education coursework or the cost of transportation for students to transfer to public schools not identified as among the lowest-performing schools. A district also can decide if it wants to apply for these funds and, if so, which direct student services it will implement.

WHAT THAT MEANS FOR YOU

If your State chooses to reserve Federal funds for direct student services, your district may be able to receive some of those funds and offer services that it otherwise couldn't, such as enabling students to enroll in different courses or allowing students in the lowest-performing schools to choose to attend higher-performing public schools.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

WHAT ESSA SAYS ABOUT

Charter SchoolPrograms

IN A NUTSHELL

The U.S. Department of Education awards grants to eligible entities, including States, charter management organizations, and charter developers, to create and expand charter schools. Grantees have freedom to develop their charter school programs, including their mission, curriculum, teaching methods, and other aspects of the school.

WHAT THAT MEANS FOR YOU

Your State and organizations that develop charter schools can apply for Federal funds to create and expand charter schools to which parents can send their children. Charter schools are free public schools of choice exempt from certain State or local rules and regulations.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

WHAT ESSA SAYS ABOUT

FundingFlexibilities

IN A NUTSHELL

States and districts have flexibility related to certain funds under the ESEA, including flexibility to consolidate or transfer certain funds, flexibility to combine certain Federal funds with State and local resources, and flexibility in how they use certain funds.

WHAT THAT MEANS FOR YOU

Your State and district have some flexibility to use Federal funds in ways that may better meet student needs.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

FUNDING FLEXIBILITIES

Student-Centered Funding Pilot

IN A NUTSHELL

A district may apply to the U.S. Department of Education to participate in the student-centered funding pilot, which permits the district to combine certain Federal funds with State and local funds to allocate resources to schools through a single school funding system based on the number of students and corresponding levels of need (e.g., children from low-income families, English learners, children with disabilities). The district would receive significant flexibility from meeting many Federal requirements of the programs it combines.

WHAT THAT MEANS FOR YOU

Your district may apply for flexibility that would allow it to combine certain funds in a way that may enable the district to better support students, particularly high-need students.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

FUNDING FLEXIBILITIES

Supplement, not supplant

IN A NUTSHELL

A district has flexibility in how it demonstrates that it uses Title, Part A funds to supplement, and not supplant, State and local funds. A districts does not need to identify specific uses of Title I, Part A to do so.

WHAT THAT MEANS FOR YOU

A district may choose the methodology for how it shows schools that receive Federal Title I, Part A funds receive all State and local funding they would receive if they did not receive Title I, Part A funds.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

FUNDING FLEXIBILITIES

Consolidation of Funds in a Schoolwide Program

IN A NUTSHELL

A Title I school with 40% or more poverty may operate a schoolwide program and may consolidate Federal, State, and local funds to better serve the needs of its students. A State may grant a waiver to a school with a poverty rate below 40% to operate a schoolwide program if the State thinks the schoolwide program will better serve students.

WHAT THAT MEANS FOR YOU

Your State may allow your child's school to operate a schoolwide Title I program if your State believes that will better serve students, even if the school's poverty rate is below 40%.

FUNDING FLEXIBILITIES

SRSA Alternative Use of Funds

IN A NUTSHELL

A district that is eligible for the Small, Rural School Achievement (SRSA) program has greater flexibility in using the funding it receives under certain other Federal education programs.

What is this guide for?

This guide aims to help parents like you understand the flexibility provided to States and school districts in the Every Student Succeeds Act (ESSA), which amended the Elementary and Secondary Education Act, a landmark federal education law. It sums up what the flexibility in the Act means for you and your child, touching on how that flexibility can affect the way your State, district, or school meets the law's requirements for academic standards, testing, and more.

We know you're busy. This guide presents only the key takeaways— the most important insights you should know about the flexibility provided in the law. As a parent, you are the best advocate for your child. Knowing more about how the federal law affects education in your state will help you make the right choices for your family.

WHAT ESSA SAYS ABOUT

Challenging Academic Standards and Assessments

IN A NUTSHELL

ESSA requires every State to develop challenging academic standards that specify the knowledge and skills that the State expects all its students to achieve and to administer annual assessments aligned with those standards.

WHAT THAT MEANS FOR YOU

Your State has freedom to choose, after consulting with parents, teachers, and other stakeholders, the standards that describe the knowledge and skills every child in your State is taught and the tests that will let you and your child's teachers know whether your child has achieved the standards.

8th Grade Math Exception

IN A NUTSHELL

A State that administers end-of-course math assessments in high school may exempt any 8th-grade student from the State's 8th grade math assessment if the student takes the end-of-course assessment the State typically administers in high school. To receive this flexibility, the State must commit to administering to the student a more rigorous math test in high school.

WHAT THAT MEANS FOR YOU

If your State takes advantage of this flexibility and if your 8th-grader is taking a high school-level math class and test, he or she will not be required to take the State math test other 8th grade students take.

Locally Selected, Nationally Recognized High School Academic Assessments

IN A NUTSHELL

A State may allow a district to administer a locally selected, nationally recognized high school assessment in place of the statewide assessment in math, reading/language arts, or science.

WHAT THAT MEANS FOR YOU

If your State and district take advantage of this flexibility, your high school student may be able to take a nationally recognized high school test, such as the ACT or SAT, instead of the test your State normally administers in high school.

Innovative Assessment Demonstration Authority

IN A NUTSHELL

A State may apply to the U.S. Department of Education to implement innovative assessments in some of its districts instead of the statewide assessment.

WHAT THAT MEANS FOR YOU

If your child attends a school in a district for which your State receives this flexibility, he or she may take innovative tests in place of the standardized tests the State would otherwise administer.

Alternate Academic Achievement Standards and Assessments for Students with the Most Significant Cognitive Disabilities

IN A NUTSHELL

A State may adopt alternate academic achievement standards and alternate assessments that measure achievement of those standards for students with the most significant cognitive disabilities. A State may administer an alternate assessment to no more than one percent of its tested population.

WHAT THAT MEANS FOR YOU

If your child is a student with the most significant cognitive disabilities, he or she may be able to take a different test, and be held to standards that reflect the highest standards possible for your child. In addition, your child's school will be evaluated for the performance of your child based on his or her performance on these tests.

Adaptive Testing

IN A NUTSHELL

A State may administer statewide assessments in the form of computer-adaptive assessments, which allow the State to measure a student's academic proficiency using items above or below the student's grade level.

WHAT THAT MEANS FOR YOU

If your State offers computer-adaptive assessments, your child may take the required State tests using a computer program that adapts test questions (i.e., gets more or less challenging) based on how your child is doing on each question.

WHAT ESSA SAYS ABOUT

Statewide Accountability System

IN A NUTSHELL

ESSA requires every State to develop an accountability system for all public schools to improve student achievement and school success, but the State has broad discretion in designing its system.

WHAT THAT MEANS FOR YOU

Your State has freedom to select a number of the measures it uses to assess the performance of each public school. For example, in addition to performance on statewide tests and graduation rate, your State may select such measures as chronic absenteeism or student growth. It is important that your State helps you understand what measures it uses to evaluate schools so that you understand the performance of your child's school and other schools.

Exception for Recently Arrived English Learners

IN A NUTSHELL

A State has three options for how to include recently arrived English learners in its statewide accountability system.

WHAT THAT MEANS FOR YOU

If your child is an English learner and has attended a school in the United States for less than 12 months, he or she may not have to take all required standardized tests. If he or she takes the tests, your State may choose not to include his or her score in the same way as all other scores when the State evaluates the school's performance.

English Learner Subgroup

IN A NUTSHELL

A State has flexibility to determine the number of years (up to four) that it includes the reading and math test results of former English learners in the English learner subgroup in its accountability system.

WHAT THAT MEANS FOR YOU

If your State takes advantage of this flexibility, in evaluating the performance of English learners in your child's school, the State will give your school credit for the performance of students who were previously English learners but have achieved English language proficiency within the last few years.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

ED-17-0431-F-002648

WHAT ESSA SAYS ABOUT

School Support and Improvement Activities

IN A NUTSHELL

ESSA requires a district to develop a plan for each school in the district that a State identifies for comprehensive support and improvement, but the district has freedom to identify the evidence-based interventions it will include in each plan. Likewise, each school that a State identifies for targeted support and improvement has freedom to identify the evidence-based interventions it will include in its targeted support and improvement plan.

WHAT THAT MEANS FOR YOU

Because ESSA requires districts and schools to involve parents in developing comprehensive and targeted support and improvement plans, you can help your district or school determine the evidence-based interventions that are best suited to meet the needs of students in your child's school.

State Discretion with Respect to Alternative High Schools

IN A NUTSHELL

A State has flexibility to permit different improvement activities for high schools that serve students who have previously dropped out or who are at risk of dropping out.

WHAT THAT MEANS FOR YOU

Your State can permit high schools that are designed to serve students who previously dropped out or who are at risk of dropping out to implement improvement activities that are specifically tailored to the unique needs of these students.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

Public School Choice

IN A NUTSHELL

A district has the flexibility to offer students enrolled in a school identified for comprehensive support and improvement the option to transfer to another public school. A district may also use up to 5% of its Title I, Part A funds to pay for transportation of students who take advantage of this choice.

WHAT THAT MEANS FOR YOU

If your child attends a school the State identifies for comprehensive support and improvement (e.g., because it is one of the lowest-performing schools), your district may allow your child to transfer to another public school and use a portion of its Federal funds to pay for transportation to the school you choose for your child.

School Improvement Funds

IN A NUTSHELL

A State has flexibility to distribute school improvement funds on a formula or competitive basis and to determine certain conditions for districts and schools to receive these funds. A district with one or more schools identified for comprehensive or targeted support and improvement has flexibility to determine whether to apply for school improvement funds and, if so, to determine how much funding it requests, for which school or schools it requests funds, and whether to seek funding for district-level activities.

WHAT THAT MEANS FOR YOU

Your State can decide whether it would be more beneficial to distribute funds for the lowest-performing schools and schools with low-performing subgroups based on a formula or to have districts compete for the funding. Whichever method your State chooses, your district can choose whether to apply for the funds and, if so, the schools for which it will seek the funds and the activities it will support with the funds.

WHAT ESSA SAYS ABOUT

Direct Student Services

IN A NUTSHELL

A State has flexibility to reserve some of its Title I, Part A funds for "direct student services," that include, for example, activities that help students complete advanced or career and technical education coursework or the cost of transportation for students to transfer to public schools not identified as among the lowest-performing schools. A district also can decide if it wants to apply for these funds and, if so, which direct student services it will implement.

WHAT THAT MEANS FOR YOU

If your State chooses to reserve Federal funds for direct student services, your district may be able to receive some of those funds and offer services that it otherwise couldn't, such as enabling students to enroll in different courses or allowing students in the lowest-performing schools to choose to attend higher-performing public schools.

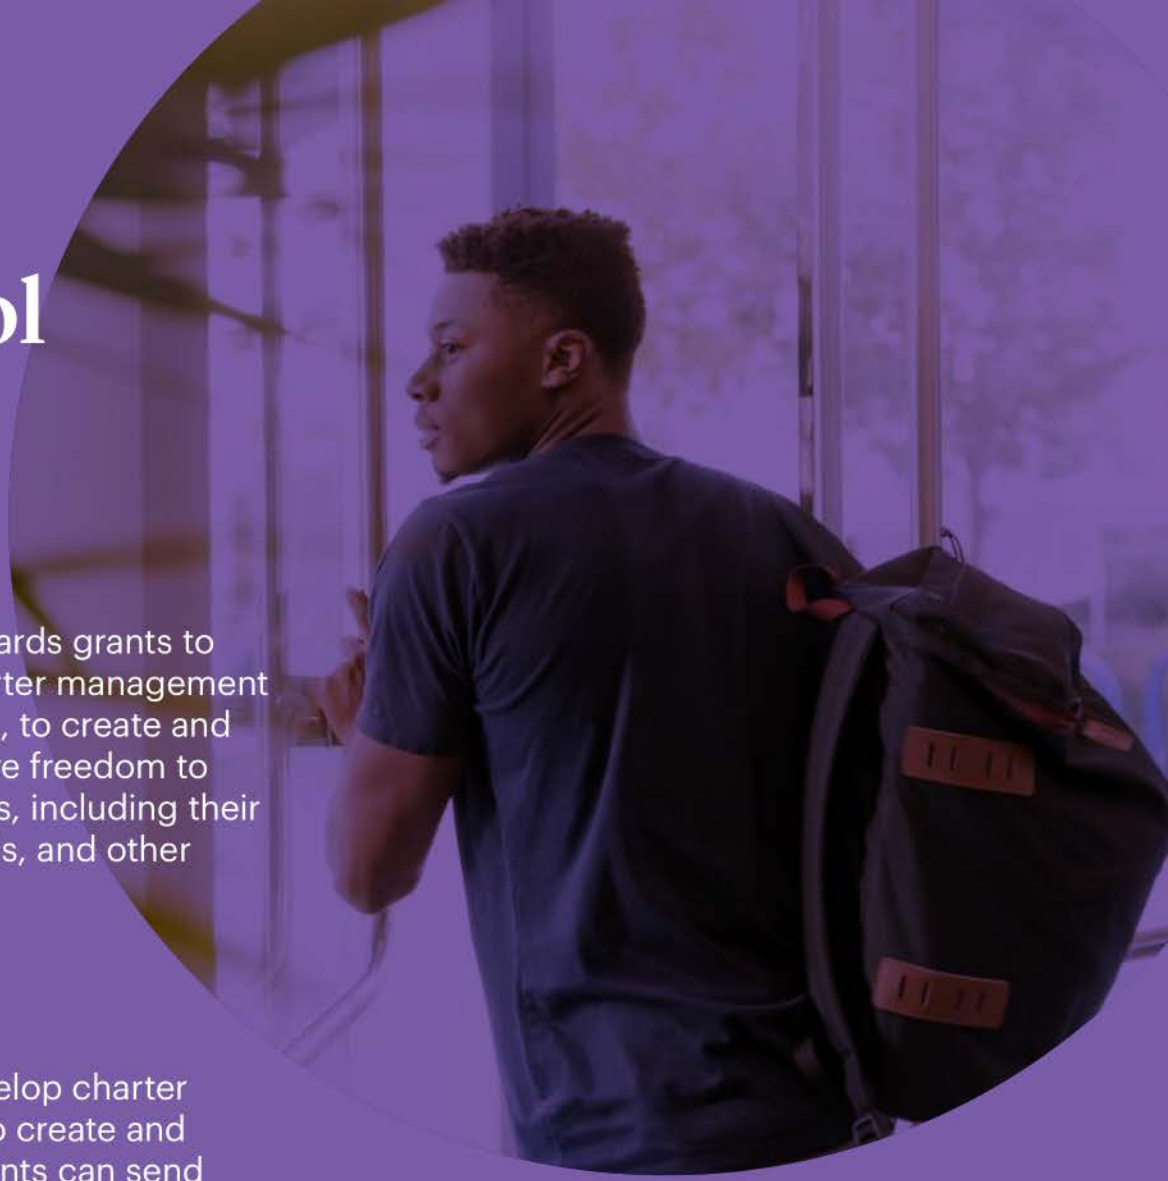
Charter School Programs



IN A NUTSHELL

The U.S. Department of Education awards grants to eligible entities, including States, charter management organizations, and charter developers, to create and expand charter schools. Grantees have freedom to develop their charter school programs, including their mission, curriculum, teaching methods, and other aspects of the school.

WHAT THAT MEANS FOR YOU

Your State and organizations that develop charter schools can apply for Federal funds to create and expand charter schools to which parents can send their children. Charter schools are free public schools of choice exempt from certain State or local rules and regulations.

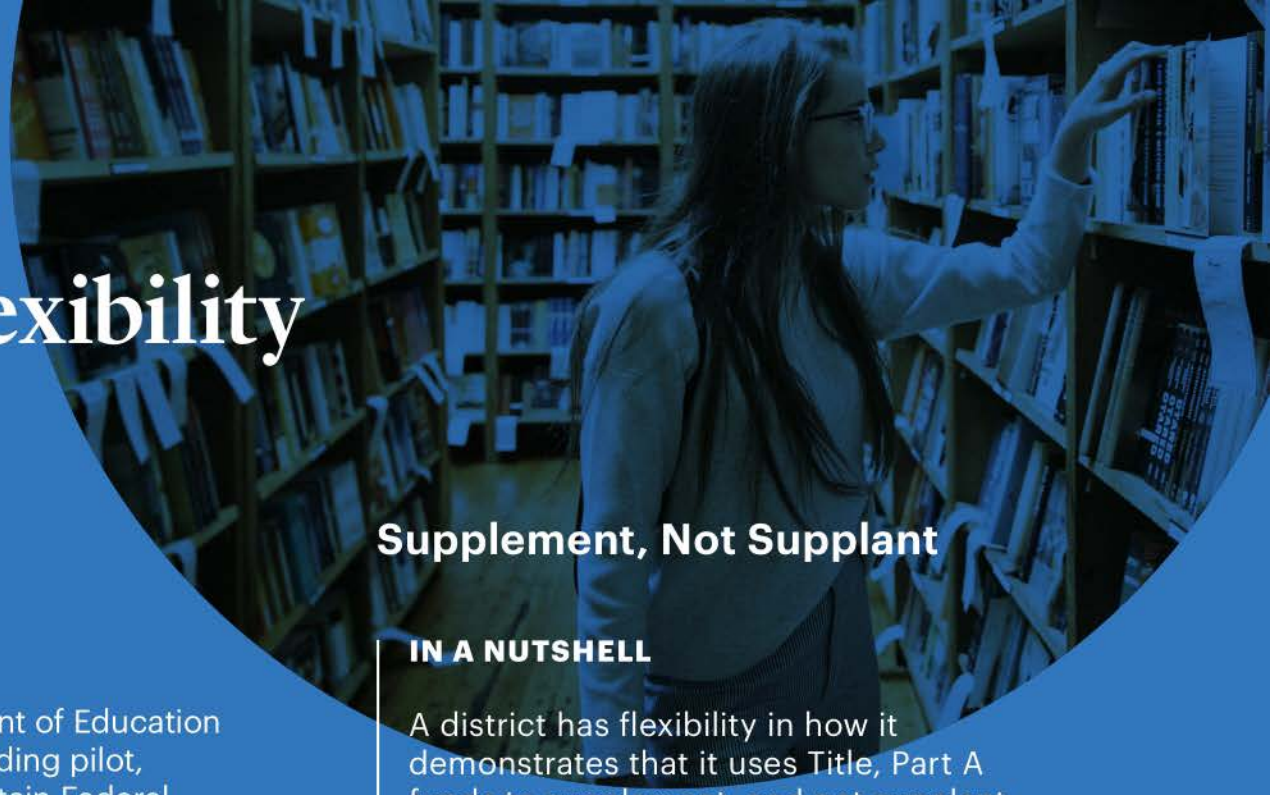
WHAT ESSA SAYS ABOUT

Funding Flexibility



Student-Centered Funding Pilot

IN A NUTSHELL

A district may apply to the U.S. Department of Education to participate in the student-centered funding pilot, which permits the district to combine certain Federal funds with State and local funds to allocate resources to schools through a single school funding system based on the number of students and corresponding levels of need (e.g., children from low-income families, English learners, children with disabilities). The district would receive significant flexibility from meeting many Federal requirements of the programs it combines.

WHAT THAT MEANS FOR YOU

Your district may apply for flexibility that would allow it to combine certain funds in a way that may enable the district to better support students, particularly high-need students.

Supplement, Not Supplant

IN A NUTSHELL

A district has flexibility in how it demonstrates that it uses Title, Part A funds to supplement, and not supplant, State and local funds. A districts does not need to identify specific uses of Title I, Part A to do so.

WHAT THAT MEANS FOR YOU

A district may choose the methodology for how it shows schools that receive Federal Title I, Part A funds receive all State and local funding they would receive if they did not receive Title I, Part A funds.

Consolidation of Funds in a Schoolwide Program

IN A NUTSHELL

A Title I school with 40 percent or more poverty may operate a schoolwide program and may consolidate Federal, State, and local funds to better serve the needs of its students. A State may grant a waiver to a school with a poverty rate below 40 percent to operate a schoolwide program if the State thinks the schoolwide program will better serve students.

WHAT THAT MEANS FOR YOU

Your State may allow your child's school to operate a schoolwide Title I program if your State believes that will better serve students, even if the school's poverty rate is below 40 percent.

ESSA Flexibilities Document – Summary Overview

A. Academic Standards and Tests

Summary: ESSA requires every State to develop challenging academic standards that specify the knowledge and skills that the State expects all its students to achieve and to administer annual tests aligned with those standards.

Parent Application: Your State has freedom to choose, after consulting with parents, teachers, and other stakeholders, the standards that describe the knowledge and skills every child in your State is taught and the tests that will let you and your child's teachers know whether your child has achieved the standards.

1. 8th-Grade Math Tests

Summary: A State that administers end-of-course math tests in high school may exempt any 8th-grade student from the State's 8th-grade math test if the student takes the end-of-course test the State typically administers in high school. To receive this flexibility, the State must commit to administering to the student a more rigorous math test in high school.

Parent Application: If your 8th-grader is taking a high school-level math class and test, he or she may not be required to take the State math test other 8th-grade students take.

2. High School Tests

Summary: A State may allow a district to administer a locally selected, nationally recognized high school assessment in place of the statewide assessment in math, reading/language arts, or science.

Parent Application: Your high school student may be able to take a nationally recognized high school test, such as the ACT or SAT, instead of the test your State normally administers in high school.

3. Innovative Testing

Summary: A State may apply to the U.S. Department of Education to implement innovative tests in some of its districts instead of the statewide assessment.

Parent Application: If your child attends a school in a district for which your State receives this flexibility, he or she may take a different type of test in place of the standardized tests the State would otherwise administer.

4. Alternate Academic Achievement Standards and Tests for Students with the Most Significant Cognitive Disabilities

Summary: A State may adopt alternate academic achievement standards and alternate tests that measure achievement of those standards for students with the most significant cognitive disabilities. A State may administer an alternate test to no more than one percent of its tested students.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

Parent Application: If your child is a student with the most significant cognitive disabilities, he or she may be able to take a different test and be held to standards that reflect the highest standards possible for your child.

5. Adaptive Testing

Summary: A State may administer its tests in the form of computer-adaptive tests, which are tests that adapt or adjust by increasing or decreasing in difficulty based on a student's responses to questions on the test. This type of adaptive test allows a State to measure a student's knowledge more quickly and with more precision.

Parent Application: Your child may take the required State tests using a computer program that adapts test questions based on how a student is doing on each question (i.e., gets more challenging if a student answers correctly or less challenging if a student answers incorrectly).

B. Accountability System

Summary: Every State is required to develop an accountability system for all public schools to improve student achievement and school success, but the State has broad discretion in designing its system.

Parent Application: Your State may select a number of measures to assess the performance of each public school. For example, in addition to performance on statewide tests and graduation rate, your State may select such measures as chronic absenteeism or student growth. It is important that your State helps you understand what measures it uses to evaluate schools so that you understand the performance of your child's school and other schools.

1. Recently Arrived English Learners in the Accountability System

Summary: A State has three options for how to include recently arrived English learners in its statewide accountability system.

Parent Application: If your child is an English learner and has attended a school in the United States for less than 12 months, he or she may not have to take all required standardized tests. If he or she takes the tests, your State may choose not to include his or her score in the same way as all other scores when the State evaluates the school's performance.

2. Former English Learners in the Accountability System

Summary: A State may include former English learners in the subgroup of English learners for certain purposes within its accountability system for up to four years.

Parent Application: If your State takes advantage of this flexibility, in evaluating the performance of English learners in your child's school, the State will give your school credit for the performance of students who were previously English learners but have achieved English language proficiency within the last few years.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

C. School Support and Improvement

Summary: A State is required to identify two categories of schools: (1) those needing comprehensive support and improvement; and (2) those needing targeted support and improvement. Among the schools that must be identified for comprehensive support and improvement are the lowest-achieving 5% of Title I schools and high schools that have a graduation rate below 67%. A State has some flexibility with respect to how it identifies schools for targeted support and improvement, but generally identifies these schools based on the performance of individual subgroups.

Parent Application: Your State and district are required to include on their annual report cards a list of all schools that are identified for comprehensive or targeted support and improvement. You can check those report cards to see if your child's school has been identified.

1. School Improvement Activities

Summary: A district is required to develop a plan for each school that the State identifies as needing comprehensive support and improvement, but the district has freedom to identify the evidence-based interventions it will include in each plan. Likewise, each school that a State identifies as needing targeted support and improvement has freedom to identify the evidence-based interventions it will include in its targeted support and improvement plan.

Parent Application: Because ESSA requires districts and schools to involve parents in developing comprehensive and targeted support and improvement plans, you can help your district or school determine the evidence-based interventions that are best suited to meet the needs of students in your child's school.

2. Alternative high schools

Summary: A State may permit different improvement activities for high schools that serve students who have previously dropped out or who are at risk of dropping out.

Parent Application: Your State can permit high schools that are designed to serve students who previously dropped out or who are at risk of dropping out to implement improvement activities that are specifically tailored to the unique needs of these students.

3. Public School Choice

Summary: A district may offer students enrolled in a school identified for comprehensive support and improvement the option to transfer to another public school. A district may also use up to 5% of its Title I, Part A funds to pay for transportation of students who take advantage of this choice.

Parent Application: If your child attends a school the State identifies for comprehensive support and improvement, your district may allow your child to transfer to another public school and use a portion of its Federal funds to pay for transportation to the school you choose for your child.

4. School Improvement Funds

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

Summary: A State may determine how to distribute school improvement funds. A district with one or more schools identified for comprehensive or targeted support and improvement has flexibility to determine whether to apply for school improvement funds and, if so, to determine how much funding it requests, for which school or schools it requests funds, and whether to seek funding for district-level activities.

Parent Application: Your State can decide whether it would be more beneficial to distribute funds for the lowest-performing schools and schools with low-performing subgroups based on a formula or to have districts compete for the funding. Whichever method your State chooses, your district can choose whether to apply for the funds and, if so, the schools for which it will seek the funds and the activities it will support with the funds.

D. Direct Student Services

Summary: A State may reserve some of its federal funding for "direct student services," that include, for example, activities that help students complete advanced or career and technical education coursework or the cost of transportation for students to transfer to public schools not identified as among the lowest-performing schools. A district also can decide if it wants to apply for these funds and, if so, which direct student services it will implement.

Parent Application: If your State chooses to reserve Federal funds for direct student services, your district may be able to receive some of those funds and offer services that it otherwise couldn't, such as enabling students to enroll in different courses or allowing students in the lowest-performing schools to choose to attend higher-performing public schools.

E. Charter School Support

Summary: The U.S. Department of Education awards grants to eligible entities, including States, charter management organizations, and charter developers, to create and expand charter schools. Grantees have freedom to develop their charter school programs, including their mission, curriculum, teaching methods, and other aspects of the school.

Parent Application: Your State and organizations that develop charter schools can apply for Federal funds to create and expand charter schools to which parents can send their children. Charter schools are free public schools of choice exempt from certain State or local rules and regulations.

F. Funding Flexibility

Summary: States and districts have flexibility related to certain funds under the ESEA, including flexibility to consolidate or transfer certain funds, flexibility to combine certain Federal funds with State and local resources, and flexibility in how they use certain funds.

Parent Application: Your State and district have some flexibility to use Federal funds in ways that may better meet student needs.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

1. Student-Centered Funding Pilot

Summary: A district may apply to the U.S. Department of Education to participate in the student-centered funding pilot, which permits the district to combine certain Federal funds with State and local funds and to distribute resources to schools in a way that better meets the needs of students. The district would receive significant flexibility from meeting many Federal requirements of the programs it combines.

Parent Application: Your district may apply for flexibility that would allow it to combine certain funds in a way that may enable the district to better support students, particularly high-need students, such as children from low-income families, English learners, and children with disabilities.

2. Ensuring that Federal Funds Supplement State and Local Funds

Summary: Federal funds are intended to provide additional services to schools that receive them. A district has flexibility in how it demonstrates that it uses Title I, Part A funds to supplement, and not supplant, State and local funds. A district does not need to identify specific uses of Title I, Part A to do so.

Parent Application: A district may choose how it shows that schools that receive Federal Title I, Part A funds receive all State and local funding they would receive if they did not receive Title I, Part A funds.

3. Consolidation of Funds in a Schoolwide Program

Summary: A Title I school with 40% or more poverty may operate a schoolwide program – meaning it can use its funds to support all students in the school – and may consolidate Federal, State, and local funds to better serve its students. A State may grant a waiver to a school with a poverty rate below 40% to operate a schoolwide program if the State thinks the schoolwide program will better serve students.

Parent Application: Your State may allow your child's school to operate a schoolwide Title I program if your State believes that will better serve students, even if the school's poverty rate is below 40%.

4. Flexibility for the Use of Funds in Rural Schools

Summary: A district that is eligible for the Small, Rural School Achievement (SRSA) program has greater flexibility in using the funding it receives under certain other Federal education programs.

Parent Application: If your district is eligible for the SRSA program, it has flexibility in how it uses the funding it receives under certain other Federal education programs to best meet the needs of its students.

G. Educational Flexibility Program ("Ed Flex")

Summary: A State, with approval from the U.S. Department of Education, may waive certain Federal education requirements that may impede local reform efforts.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

Parent Application: Your State may be able to exempt your district from many Federal requirements in order to improve the academic achievement of children in your school and district.

H. Waivers

Summary: The U.S. Secretary of Education may waive many Federal requirements for ESEA programs if a State demonstrates that a waiver would advance student academic achievement.

Parent Application: Your State may request a waiver of certain Federal requirements if releasing the State, or certain districts in the State, from those requirements would help to improve student academic achievement.

Dear Colleague,

Per your interest, please feel free to join Maureen McLaughlin and me for a meeting with Baroness May Blood and others from Northern Ireland to learn about the Integrated Education Movement in Northern Ireland.

As noted in the attached document: "Parents create integrated schools, not government. Integrated schools seek to provide an inclusive and integrated ethos in the school as well as a religious and cultural mix of pupils from different backgrounds. Catholic children are supported and prepared for the sacraments. Protestant children undertake bible studies. Other world religions are also explored and celebrated. Integrated schools are not secular and encourage participation of different faiths in school life and festivals, as well as respecting those children of no religion."

Feel free to forward this to other ED colleagues who you think may have an interest in this topic. If necessary, I am happy to arrange for a larger room to accommodate interest. However, please note that an RSVP (via Outlook) is necessary.

Members of the delegation

- Baroness May Blood, Campaign Chair of the Integrated Education Fund, Northern Ireland, United Kingdom (see attached bio)
- Paul Caskey, Head of Campaign and Policy, Integrated Education Fund, Northern Ireland
- Richard Cushnie, First Secretary, Deputy Director, Northern Ireland Bureau, Washington, DC

Baroness May Blood Profile

May Blood grew up in a working-class area of Belfast, the richness of family life and strong sense of community more than compensating for the lack of material possessions. At the age of fourteen she became a mill worker and eventually got involved in the trade union movement, struggling to improve working conditions and advance the role of women.

The advent of the Troubles in Northern Ireland was a deeply traumatic experience for her. Brought up in a 'mixed' community she watched in disbelief and horror as that community disintegrated under the impact of inter-communal violence. She became increasingly involved in grassroots community work and an active participant in the developing `peace process'.

In 1999 in recognition of her years of trade union and community endeavors, May Blood was offered a life peerage and a seat in the House of Lords. Her initial response was to decline the offer, for to her the House of Lords was a place where rich old men sat around and slept all day, a place far removed from the everyday realities of working-class Belfast. Nevertheless, she took her seat, hoping that, as 'Baroness May Blood', she could advance the causes she holds so dear.

She has lived to see the end of the Troubles, but a society still deeply divided and one still needing people with her undiminished energy and commitment.

May is the Campaign Chair of the Integrated Education Fund in Northern Ireland, a position she has held since 2002. She has helped to raise over £20 million to support the development and growth of integrated schools where children of all faiths or none are educated together in an environment where religious and cultural diversity is celebrated and encouraged.

Integrated Education Campaign – Key Facts – Sept 2018

The Integrated Education Movement began in the 1970s when a group of parents came together to argue for change in our education system that would enable more Catholic and Protestant children to be educated together in the same schools. This campaigning group was called All Children Together. They did not set out to create a whole new sector of schools but to encourage existing schools to become integrated. When no schools emerged, they decided to establish their own such school.

The first integrated school, Lagan College, opened in 1981, with 28 pupils in a scout hut on the outskirts of Belfast with no initial government funding. Today that same school is fully government funded and educates over 1,100 children. It is also the most oversubscribed school in Northern Ireland.

The Integrated Education Fund, established in 1992, has contributed more than £25 million in grants to support the growth and development of integrated education.

Since 1998, and the launch of the Integrated Education Fund's first 10 Year Development Plan, the number of integrated schools has grown from 45 to 65, and the provision of places in integrated schools has grown from 3% to 7% of the school population.

Today there are over 23,000 children in integrated schools.

There are currently 65 integrated schools, 20 are colleges (age 11-18) and 45 are primary schools (age 4-11). In addition, there are 19 integrated playgroups/nurseries for 3 and 4 year olds.

Independent opinion polls and surveys have always demonstrated a far greater demand for integrated school places than are currently provided. A majority of people continually express their preference for mixed religion schooling (around 70%). Even allowing for opinion polls to express more moderate opinion, the gap between desire and supply is vast.

Parents create integrated schools, not government. Parents have either set up new schools on 'greenfield' sites or they have voted by parental ballot to 'transform' an existing school into an integrated school. Approximately one third of all integrated schools are schools that transformed to integrated status.

Integrated schools seek to provide an inclusive and integrated ethos in the school as well as a religious and cultural mix of pupils from different backgrounds. Catholic children are supported and prepared for the sacraments. Protestant children undertake bible studies. Other world religions are also explored and celebrated. Integrated schools are not secular and encourage participation of different faiths in school life and festivals, as well as respecting those children of no religion.

Many integrated schools also have a 'social class mix' as well as religious mix – on average around 23% of children are eligible for free school meals.

There is considerable independent evidence demonstrating that integrated education makes a positive contribution to social attitudes, intergroup contact and friendship across the community divide.

Our Vision

A Northern Ireland where, increasingly, children from different traditions learn and play together at school, helping to build a society where there is respect and celebration, not fear, of religious and cultural diversity.

The Integrated Education Fund (IEF) shares the vision, held by the overwhelming majority of people in Northern Ireland, of a united community and a shared future. Many believe that more integration and mixing between communities are essential to building a better and more reconciled society.

67% of people want more integrated education (LucidTalk 2018) - where children from Protestant, Catholic, other faith backgrounds and none, are educated together in the same schools and where the symbols, ethos and traditions of the entire community are valued and respected.

The IEF sees the development of more integrated education in a reformed education system as an essential ingredient of this future –a system which also ensures that young people, including newcomer pupils, LGBTQ pupils, and pupils with additional needs, feel confident and welcome in the school environment. The IEF wants an education system which fully prepares its young people to contribute positively to a modern democracy and be successful citizens in an increasingly complex global society.

The aspiration of parents for more integration must be acted upon. To achieve this needs meaningful reform of the way education is planned, managed and delivered. There have been too many well intentioned projects and minor adjustments which do not sufficiently impact on the core nature of Northern Ireland's archaic, segregated system of schools.

Integration works for everybody.
The education system needs to change.

Where We Want To Be: Integrated and Effective

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

ED-17-0431-F-002822

The Benefits of Integrated Education

1. Social Benefit: Positive Attitudes

Independent research indicates that children who attend integrated or mixed religion schools are more likely to have positive social attitudes to, and have more friendships with, pupils with a different background to their own.

Integrated schools are more likely to reflect the makeup of society at large, thus helping to prepare children for life after school where many are likely to work and socialise in a mixed environment whether in third level education or employment.

2. Educational Benefit: Preparation for Life

The development of integrated schools has demonstrated that people from all religious, cultural and social backgrounds can work, learn and play together, successfully. It has contributed to the growing acceptance that learning together can enhance an educational experience, adding value to a child's education.

This is not just evidenced by integrated schools. Schools of all types have sought to engage in cross community projects and shared education for decades, because of the very benefits they believe it can bring.

3. Economic Benefit: Effective and Efficient

Maintaining separate school systems based on religious or cultural background comes at a high price for government and many local communities. Having too many schools with too few pupils can make ineffective and inefficient use of resources and put these limited resources under further budgetary pressure. More children attending the same schools which respect and celebrate all traditions will help alleviate some of these pressures.

Moreover, a school system based more on integration would eventually reduce the need for external charitable funding as integration would be mainstreamed, and cross community work would no longer be an 'add on'; it would be an integral part of every school day.

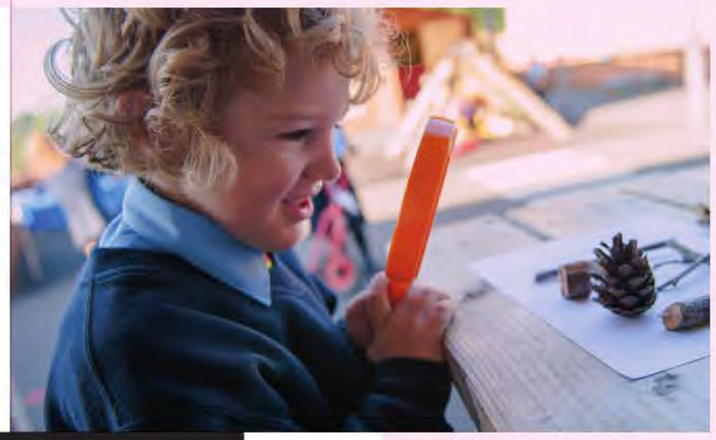
How Can We Make Change Happen?



1. Empowering Parents

The majority of parents in Northern Ireland aspire to integrated education.

Parents want to send their children to what they believe are the 'best schools'.

However, would any school perform less well if it welcomed, and included pupils, teachers and governors from different religious and cultural backgrounds?

Most parents think not, but do not know how they can become involved in creating such a positive change. Even fewer know that legislation allows parents to initiate a process of change in their school, and that almost any school is able to transform to integrated status.

25 schools have already successfully transformed, a number of which are the fastest growing schools in Northern Ireland.

The 'Integrate My School' initiative of the IEF is an innovative way for parents to register their support for integrated status for their child's school.

'Integrate My School' has been created to enable parents to gain information and declare their support whilst providing confidentiality and anonymity in the process.

When 20% of parents from the same school register then, by law, their school must at least consider transforming to integrated status and hold a secret ballot of parents. Schools can only transform with parental support and approval.

Hundreds of parents have already declared their support and there are schools across Northern Ireland of all management types exploring transformation, including Catholic, Controlled and Grammar.

Education planning and provision in Northern Ireland must engage not only with existing education providers and their sectoral bodies, but also with local communities. Local community groups and organisations have an important role to play in our society and are often well placed in understanding the needs of a local area.

To best reflect the needs of communities, education planners need to implement an independent consultation and audit to measure demand for the type of schools in any given area.

The IEF, working with the Education Authority and other education sectors, has invested in piloting a number of local area based consultations and audits across Northern Ireland. This work provides an evidence based approach which we want to see refined and adopted as part of any area based planning process.

The IEF aims to:

Increase awareness among parents of how they can make change happen

Increase the number of parents registering their support for 'Integrate My School'

Increase the level of engagement, awareness and support for integrated education solutions amongst local community groups

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

2. Empowering Schools

The IEF and the Northern Ireland Council for Integrated Education (NICIE) will support any school in Northern Ireland embarking on the journey to integrated status.

The Department of Education (DE) has a statutory duty to "encourage and facilitate" integrated education and, following a successful legal challenge by Drumragh Integrated College in 2014, now "needs to be alive to this duty at every level, including the strategic".

New guidance from the DE published in 2017 and entitled Integration Works provides a positive and encouraging framework for all schools seeking to transform.

NICIE will provide additional advice and practical support for any school seeking integrated status.

The IEF will provide further support through a focused grant programme which will provide financial assistance to schools exploring and embarking on transformation.

Integrated schools do not receive any additional funding from the DE simply for being integrated. The IEF will continue to support all integrated schools in their development, with particular regard to those integrated schools increasing their enrolments in response to demand. Growth brings with it many challenges and the IEF is often needed to pump prime this growth through the provision of additional teaching resources, equipment and even accommodation until such time as the DE provides the necessary funding.

An integrated ethos does not happen by simply having a mix of pupils. Schools need to continually consider ways to deliver integration in practice. They need to not only reflect on but also develop their practice to ensure all pupils, staff and governors feel welcome and their identity is celebrated, irrespective of their cultural or religious background.

The IEF aims to:

Encourage all schools to consider the new Department of Education guidance Integration Works and support them on their transformation journey to integrated status

Support growth in existing integrated schools to enable parents to access an integrated education for their child

Strengthen ethos by supporting work in integrated schools that celebrates diversity

3. Effecting Policy Change

The IEF wants to see a day when it is no longer needed. That will only happen when integrated education is adequately planned for and the parental demand for it is being met. To bring this day closer we need to continually work with policy makers, influencers, politicians and government. To answer the widespread desire for integrated education, we need to see a government strategy with ambitious targets to grow the numbers of pupils in integrated schools. This strategy needs to be reflected in education planning and in a commitment to reform the structure of the education system.

The 2016 Independent Review of Integrated Education, commissioned by the Minister of Education, recommended a series of steps to support the growth and development of integrated education - adopting these steps would go some way to progressing the IEF vision of the future education system.

To contribute to a more united community and to ensure the most efficient use of the resources available in education the Government must commit to developing integrated education through a growth strategy, major structural change and other specific measures.

Growth Strategy

- The Government should set a target to increase the percentage of pupils in integrated schools from 7% to 10% by 2021, and to 30% by 2031 and plan to meet it.
- The Government plan should include strategic use of the £500m Stormont House Agreement Funding for capital development of shared and integrated education.
- The Education Authority should make integrated education the priority focus of the area planning process where there is clear demand. Planning teams should work with communities and challenge vested interests to ensure such a focus.
- There should be a presumption that any new schools to be established should be integrated, subject to community consultation.

Structural Change

- There are currently two separate statutory planning authorities for education provision in Northern Ireland (the Education Authority and the Council for Catholic Maintained Schools). There should be one single authority for the administration and planning of education.
- The DE should develop and introduce a single model of governance for all schools in Northern Ireland, representative of the wider community and of a range of skills and perspectives.
- The Government should end the duplication and segregation of initial teacher training and establish a single teacher training system open to students of all religions and none.

Other Specific Measures

- The 'Section 75' non-discrimination provisions of the Northern Ireland Act (1998) should be extended to cover all schools.
- Fair employment legislation should be extended to cover the recruitment of teachers.
- Equality and inclusivity should become issues considered in the process of inspection of schools.
- Integrated education should be a significant consideration in the planning of new housing developments, and the Department for Communities and the Department of Education should establish a collaborative, strategic approach to mixed housing and integrated education.

The IEF aims to:

Engage with policy makers, political leaders and government to present the case for building a quality education system based on greater integration

11/2/17: Just updating and renaming this meeting OESE Operations Meeting. The purpose of this meeting is to identify and discuss items that have bearing on OESE's overall operations and mission. Elements of this meeting may touch on a myriad of items, including budget, human capital, legal, contractual, systems, space management, emergency management and others related to the OESE organization. While the intent is to keep a regular cycle of when the meetings will occur, there is a timing contingency on the financial reporting. The content we need for status updates is reported in arrears, and not available to us for about 10 days following the previous month. We will schedule the financial reporting to coincide as soon after availability as possible.

Subject: PIO Quarter 4 Collection Training

Hello all,

This is a training session for persons entering data or narrative information into the PIO's SharePoint collection site. If you do not anticipate accessing the site directly, please feel free to dismiss. Point persons responsible for entering information into the system should join to better understand how the site is organized, how the information is organized, and to understand what the expectations of this collection are. This is a Skype-only meeting. If your goal team would like to set up a separate training for those that will be using the site directly, please reach out and we can set up an in-person training next week.

Thanks you,

Feel free to share with others

The State Policy Network Affiliate-The Badger Institute in Wisconsin just concluded three years of research on the impact of federal grants-in-aid and published their findings in a book titled "Federal Grant$standing."At this meeting, they will share their findings (one-pager below). The goal of the meeting is to engage and inform The State Policy Network of the practices, policies, and programs ED has to offer; and, to assist on a national level so they can assist at the state, local, and community level, to plan, implement, and participate in effective programs for students. We also hope to receive an update on their organization's work.

This meeting will be held on Wednesday, September 26th from 1:30-2:30pm.

Key findings

• Grants-in-aid have exploded from $7 billion in 1960 (7.5 percent of federal spending) to $728 billion today (17.6 percent of federal spending).
• Most states today get about one-third of their revenues from the federal government.
• A growing number of Wisconsin "state employees" – around 10,000 of them -- now answer to bureaucrats and politicians in Washington, D.C. For example, fully 73 percent of the Wisconsin Department of Workforce Development's 1,603 workers are now paid with federal funds.
• Nearly 30 percent of federally paid workers in just six Wisconsin departments appear to simply administer federal dollars. Their annual salary and benefits total nearly $89 million.
• Some 60 percent of surveyed superintendents, school board members and business managers in Wisconsin agreed with the statement that "restrictions on how federal funds are spent harmfully distort the decisions that local school officials make on behalf of their students."
• The Wisconsin Department of Public Instruction spends $54 million annually to administer federal funds.
• School districts that saved taxpayer money as the result of Act 10 reforms are compelled by federal "maintenance of effort" requirements to spend that money – often on things they don't want or need – or lose federal funding.

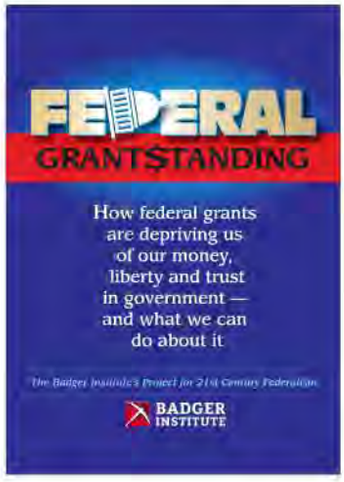
BADGER INSTITUTE

Free Markets ▪ Opportunity ▪ Prosperity

The Badger Institute provides a superb account of the harm that the $700 billion system does to sound government in Wisconsin, and they dig up eye-opening examples of inherent waste. The book is chock full of unique data and survey information, but the findings are applicable to every state in the nation — Chris Edwards, Cato Institute

Federal grants-in-aid, often perceived at the state and local level as "free money," are in reality a coercive, cynical contrivance that increases costs, undermines local control, inhibits innovation and subverts constitutional protections, according to a new book published by the Badger Institute. "Federal Grant$tanding," the culmination of nearly three years of research and reporting, describes how these grants-in-aid actually centralize power in the nation's capital and erode trust in government.



This is not the first publication to point out that the astronomical growth of federal grants-in-aid is at the crux of a debilitating, inexorable expansion of national power. But it may be the first to report so extensively from the schoolhouses, statehouses and streets where most Americans live.

"Federal Grant$tanding combines traditional policy research, investigative reporting, surveys of educators and local officials and interviews with key players to produce some alarming findings. Among them:

- Grants-in-aid have exploded from $7 billion in 1960 (7.5 percent of federal spending) to an estimated $728 billion today (17.6 percent of federal spending).
- Most states today get about one-third of their revenues from the federal government.
- A growing number of Wisconsin "state employees" — around 10,000 of them — now answer to bureaucrats and politicians in Washington, D.C. For example, fully 73 percent of the Wisconsin Department of Workforce Development's 1,603 workers are now paid with federal funds.
- Nearly 30 percent of federally paid workers in just six Wisconsin departments appear to simply administer federal dollars. Their annual salary and benefits total nearly $89 million.
- Some 60 percent of surveyed superintendents, school board members and business managers in Wisconsin agreed with the statement that "restrictions on how federal funds are spent harmfully distort the decisions that local school officials make on behalf of their students."
- The Wisconsin Department of Public Instruction spends $54 million annually to administer federal funds.
- School districts that saved taxpayer money as the result of Act 10 reforms are compelled by federal "maintenance of effort" requirements to spend that money — often on things they don't want or need — or lose federal funding.

"Federal Grant$tanding" concludes that the price of continuing apace — including the incessant growth of federal debt, the loss of time, money and ingenuity in the states, and the diminished trust in our leaders — is threatening the dual system of governance that the founding fathers envisioned. Fortunately, reform, while difficult, is possible. The book includes a variety of possible solutions and sets the stage for additional research across the country.

Hi Jason and Ebony—

I hope that you both are well.

I am writing on behalf of TFA's CEO, Elisa Villanueva Beard who would like the opportunity to meet with you to provide an update on TFA's work in more than 50 regions across the country, and specifically how the Department's SEED grant has helped us achieve greater impact in our fight for excellence and equity in education.

In the 2018-2019 school year, we will have more than 6,700 corps members joining more than 52,000 alumni to create a network of leaders who are working inside and outside the classroom to improve educational opportunities for all children. Every day they are proving that with hard work, determination, and partnerships across the community, all students can achieve at the highest levels.

Elisa will be in Washington, D.C. on Tuesday, October 2nd and is available to meet between 10am and 4pm. I hope we are able to make this work for your schedules.

Thanks so much for your consideration, and I look forward to hearing from you.

Best,

Dear Colleague, Per your interest, please feel free to join Maureen McLaughlin and me for a meeting with Baroness May Blood and others from Northern Ireland to learn about the Integrated Education Movement in Northern Ireland. As noted in the attached document: ?Parents create integrated schools, not government. Integrated schools seek to provide an inclusive and integrated ethos in the school as well as a religious and cultural mix of pupils from different backgrounds. Catholic children are supported and prepared for the sacraments. Protestant children undertake bible studies. Other world religions are also explored and celebrated. Integrated schools are not secular and encourage participation of different faiths in school life and festivals, as well as respecting those children of no religion.? Feel free to forward this to other ED colleagues who you think may have an interest in this topic. If necessary, I am happy to arrange for a larger room to accommodate interest. However, please note that an RSVP (via Outlook) is necessary. Members of the delegation ? Baroness May Blood, Campaign Chair of the Integrated Education Fund, Northern Ireland, United Kingdom (see attached bio) ? Paul Caskey, Head of Campaign and Policy, Integrated Education Fund, Northern Ireland ? Richard Cushnie, First Secretary, Deputy Director, Northern Ireland Bureau, Washington, DC ? Norman Houston (tentative) Director, Northern Ireland Bureau, Washington, DC Additional background information Baroness May Blood bio Integrated Education Fund Background Integrated Education Fund Strategic Plan Maureen

Subject: Coffee Reception with the National Distinguished Principals

Hello, ED Leadership,

On Friday, October 12th, 2018, the Department will be hosting the National Association of Elementary School Principals' (NAESP) 2018 National Distinguished Principals (NDPs) at LBJ from 1:00 – 3:00 p.m. The National Distinguished Principals program honors outstanding elementary and middle school principals from across the nation, in both public and private schools, and overseas, for their exemplary achievements. It is very similar to CCSSO's State Teacher of the Year program. We anticipate about 80 external attendees (62 NDPs with the rest being NAESP's board of directors).

I would like to cordially invite you to join us for a coffee reception with the NDPs from 2:00 – 3:00 p.m. This will be an excellent opportunity to connect with leaders from the elementary and middle school field. As this is an hour long event, I invite you to come for whatever amount of time you may be able. The reception will be informal and will be set up in a meet & greet style.

The run of show for the event is as follows:

2-2:50 PM Coffee Reception (Barnard Auditorium)
2:50-3 PM Depart

I will attach a list of all external participants as soon as NAESP shares that information. Please let me know if you will be able to participate in this event. Feel free to reach out if you have any questions or concerns 202-256-6827.

Subject: Coffee Reception with the National Distinguished Principals

Hello, ED Leadership,

On Friday, October 12th, 2018, the Department will be hosting the National Association of Elementary School Principals' (NAESP) 2018 National Distinguished Principals (NDPs) at LBJ from 1:00 – 3:00 p.m. The National Distinguished Principals program honors outstanding elementary and middle school principals from across the nation, in both public and private schools, and overseas, for their exemplary achievements. It is very similar to CCSSO's State Teacher of the Year program. We anticipate about 80 external attendees (62 NDPs with the rest being NAESP's board of directors).

I would like to cordially invite you to join us for a coffee reception with the NDPs from 2:00 – 3:00 p.m. This will be an excellent opportunity to connect with leaders from the elementary and middle school field. As this is an hour long event, I invite you to come for whatever amount of time you may be able. The reception will be informal and will be set up in a meet & greet style.

The run of show for the event is as follows:

2-2:50 PM Coffee Reception (Barnard Auditorium)
2:50-3 PM Depart

I will attach a list of all external participants as soon as NAESP shares that information. Please let me know if you will be able to participate in this event. Feel free to reach out if you have any questions or concerns 202-256-6827.

Hi Jason,

Are you ok if we switch this to coffee? Patrick and I need to attend a pre-meeting for the EOP/OMB meeting on the guidance.

Hi Jason,

Patrick and I would like to see if you are available for us to take you to lunch before you leave the Department. We would like to thank you and show our appreciation for your willingness to dig into the weedy ESSA policy issues and support OSS with the many and varied questions from States.

If this date and time doesn't work, please let us know what does.

Looking forward to the opportunity to thank you and celebrate your new opportunity!

Message: Hello President Trump, my name is Charles McMahan and I am the Superintendent of a small rural school in Oklahoma grades pre-K thru 12th. We have implemented an armed staff policy at my school and was wandering if there is any money or grants that could help with our training. We have a very strict policy with qualification standards set above the Oklahoma CLEET standards. To date I have attended the Ohio FASTER program at TDI and will be going back this summer for level II. I have also been able to attend two ALERRT (Advanced Law Enforcement Rapid Response Trainings)held at my former school. Oklahoma Education budget is very thin so all of the training comes out of our own pocket. I am all for protecting our students and attending as much training as I can but it would be great if there was some money for schools that arm and train their staff. Last year I personally spent over $4000 out of my pocket for training ammo alone and then their is the training expenses and a weapon. Anything would help at this point. Thank you for your time and PLEASE keep up the great work of Making America Great Again!

Dear Colleague,

Per your interest, please feel free to join Maureen McLaughlin and me for a meeting with Baroness May Blood and others from Northern Ireland to learn about the Integrated Education Movement in Northern Ireland.

As noted in the attached document: "Parents create integrated schools, not government. Integrated schools seek to provide an inclusive and integrated ethos in the school as well as a religious and cultural mix of pupils from different backgrounds. Catholic children are supported and prepared for the sacraments. Protestant children undertake bible studies. Other world religions are also explored and celebrated. Integrated schools are not secular and encourage participation of different faiths in school life and festivals, as well as respecting those children of no religion."

Feel free to forward this to other ED colleagues who you think may have an interest in this topic. If necessary, I am happy to arrange for a larger room to accommodate interest. However, please note that an RSVP (via Outlook) is necessary.

Baroness May Blood Profile

May Blood grew up in a working-class area of Belfast, the richness of family life and strong sense of community more than compensating for the lack of material possessions. At the age of fourteen she became a mill worker and eventually got involved in the trade union movement, struggling to improve working conditions and advance the role of women.

The advent of the Troubles in Northern Ireland was a deeply traumatic experience for her. Brought up in a 'mixed' community she watched in disbelief and horror as that community disintegrated under the impact of inter-communal violence. She became increasingly involved in grassroots community work and an active participant in the developing `peace process'.

In 1999 in recognition of her years of trade union and community endeavors, May Blood was offered a life peerage and a seat in the House of Lords. Her initial response was to decline the offer, for to her the House of Lords was a place where rich old men sat around and slept all day, a place far removed from the everyday realities of working-class Belfast. Nevertheless, she took her seat, hoping that, as 'Baroness May Blood', she could advance the causes she holds so dear.

She has lived to see the end of the Troubles, but a society still deeply divided and one still needing people with her undiminished energy and commitment.

May is the Campaign Chair of the Integrated Education Fund in Northern Ireland, a position she has held since 2002. She has helped to raise over £20 million to support the development and growth of integrated schools where children of all faiths or none are educated together in an environment where religious and cultural diversity is celebrated and encouraged.

Integrated Education Campaign – Key Facts – Sept 2018

The Integrated Education Movement began in the 1970s when a group of parents came together to argue for change in our education system that would enable more Catholic and Protestant children to be educated together in the same schools. This campaigning group was called All Children Together. They did not set out to create a whole new sector of schools but to encourage existing schools to become integrated. When no schools emerged, they decided to establish their own such school.

The first integrated school, Lagan College, opened in 1981, with 28 pupils in a scout hut on the outskirts of Belfast with no initial government funding. Today that same school is fully government funded and educates over 1,100 children. It is also the most oversubscribed school in Northern Ireland.

The Integrated Education Fund, established in 1992, has contributed more than £25 million in grants to support the growth and development of integrated education.

Since 1998, and the launch of the Integrated Education Fund's first 10 Year Development Plan, the number of integrated schools has grown from 45 to 65, and the provision of places in integrated schools has grown from 3% to 7% of the school population.

Today there are over 23,000 children in integrated schools.

There are currently 65 integrated schools, 20 are colleges (age 11-18) and 45 are primary schools (age 4-11). In addition, there are 19 integrated playgroups/nurseries for 3 and 4 year olds.

Independent opinion polls and surveys have always demonstrated a far greater demand for integrated school places than are currently provided. A majority of people continually express their preference for mixed religion schooling (around 70%). Even allowing for opinion polls to express more moderate opinion, the gap between desire and supply is vast.

Parents create integrated schools, not government. Parents have either set up new schools on 'greenfield' sites or they have voted by parental ballot to 'transform' an existing school into an integrated school. Approximately one third of all integrated schools are schools that transformed to integrated status.

Integrated schools seek to provide an inclusive and integrated ethos in the school as well as a religious and cultural mix of pupils from different backgrounds. Catholic children are supported and prepared for the sacraments. Protestant children undertake bible studies. Other world religions are also explored and celebrated. Integrated schools are not secular and encourage participation of different faiths in school life and festivals, as well as respecting those children of no religion.

Many integrated schools also have a 'social class mix' as well as religious mix – on average around 23% of children are eligible for free school meals.

There is considerable independent evidence demonstrating that integrated education makes a positive contribution to social attitudes, intergroup contact and friendship across the community divide.

Our Vision

A Northern Ireland where, increasingly, children from different traditions learn and play together at school, helping to build a society where there is respect and celebration, not fear, of religious and cultural diversity.

The Integrated Education Fund (IEF) shares the vision, held by the overwhelming majority of people in Northern Ireland, of a united community and a shared future. Many believe that more integration and mixing between communities are essential to building a better and more reconciled society.

67% of people want more integrated education (LucidTalk 2018) - where children from Protestant, Catholic, other faith backgrounds and none, are educated together in the same schools and where the symbols, ethos and traditions of the entire community are valued and respected.

The IEF sees the development of more integrated education in a reformed education system as an essential ingredient of this future –a system which also ensures that young people, including newcomer pupils, LGBTQ pupils, and pupils with additional needs, feel confident and welcome in the school environment. The IEF wants an education system which fully prepares its young people to contribute positively to a modern democracy and be successful citizens in an increasingly complex global society.

The aspiration of parents for more integration must be acted upon. To achieve this needs meaningful reform of the way education is planned, managed and delivered. There have been too many well intentioned projects and minor adjustments which do not sufficiently impact on the core nature of Northern Ireland's archaic, segregated system of schools.

Integration works for everybody.
The education system needs to change.

Where We Want To Be:
Integrated and Effective

1. Social Benefit: Positive Attitudes

Independent research indicates that children who attend integrated or mixed religion schools are more likely to have positive social attitudes to, and have more friendships with, pupils with a different background to their own.

Integrated schools are more likely to reflect the makeup of society at large, thus helping to prepare children for life after school where many are likely to work and socialise in a mixed environment whether in third level education or employment.

2. Educational Benefit: Preparation for Life

The development of integrated schools has demonstrated that people from all religious, cultural and social backgrounds can work, learn and play together, successfully. It has contributed to the growing acceptance that learning together can enhance an educational experience, adding value to a child's education.

This is not just evidenced by integrated schools. Schools of all types have sought to engage in cross community projects and shared education for decades, because of the very benefits they believe it can bring.

3. Economic Benefit: Effective and Efficient

Maintaining separate school systems based on religious or cultural background comes at a high price for government and many local communities. Having too many schools with too few pupils can make ineffective and inefficient use of resources and put these limited resources under further budgetary pressure. More children attending the same schools which respect and celebrate all traditions will help alleviate some of these pressures.

Moreover, a school system based more on integration would eventually reduce the need for external charitable funding as integration would be mainstreamed, and cross community work would no longer be an 'add on'; it would be an integral part of every school day.

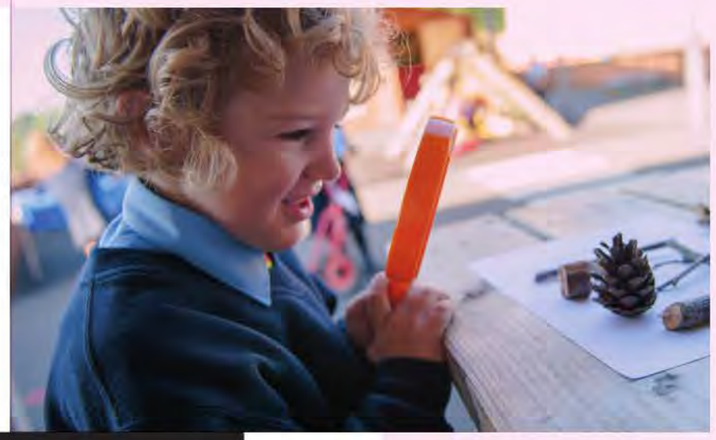
How Can We Make Change Happen?



1. Empowering Parents

The majority of parents in Northern Ireland aspire to integrated education.

Parents want to send their children to what they believe are the 'best schools'.

However, would any school perform less well if it welcomed, and included pupils, teachers and governors from different religious and cultural backgrounds?

Most parents think not, but do not know how they can become involved in creating such a positive change. Even fewer know that legislation allows parents to initiate a process of change in their school, and that almost any school is able to transform to integrated status.

25 schools have already successfully transformed, a number of which are the fastest growing schools in Northern Ireland.

The 'Integrate My School' initiative of the IEF is an innovative way for parents to register their support for integrated status for their child's school.

'Integrate My School' has been created to enable parents to gain information and declare their support whilst providing confidentiality and anonymity in the process.

When 20% of parents from the same school register then, by law, their school must at least consider transforming to integrated status and hold a secret ballot of parents. Schools can only transform with parental support and approval.

Hundreds of parents have already declared their support and there are schools across Northern Ireland of all management types exploring transformation, including Catholic, Controlled and Grammar.

Education planning and provision in Northern Ireland must engage not only with existing education providers and their sectoral bodies, but also with local communities. Local community groups and organisations have an important role to play in our society and are often well placed in understanding the needs of a local area.

To best reflect the needs of communities, education planners need to implement an independent consultation and audit to measure demand for the type of schools in any given area.

The IEF, working with the Education Authority and other education sectors, has invested in piloting a number of local area based consultations and audits across Northern Ireland. This work provides an evidence based approach which we want to see refined and adopted as part of any area based planning process.

The IEF aims to:

Increase awareness among parents of how they can make change happen

Increase the number of parents registering their support for 'Integrate My School'

Increase the level of engagement, awareness and support for integrated education solutions amongst local community groups

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

ED-17-0431-F-003222

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

2. Empowering Schools

The IEF and the Northern Ireland Council for Integrated Education (NICIE) will support any school in Northern Ireland embarking on the journey to integrated status.

The Department of Education (DE) has a statutory duty to "encourage and facilitate" integrated education and, following a successful legal challenge by Drumragh Integrated College in 2014, now "needs to be alive to this duty at every level, including the strategic".

New guidance from the DE published in 2017 and entitled Integration Works provides a positive and encouraging framework for all schools seeking to transform.

NICIE will provide additional advice and practical support for any school seeking integrated status.

The IEF will provide further support through a focused grant programme which will provide financial assistance to schools exploring and embarking on transformation.

Integrated schools do not receive any additional funding from the DE simply for being integrated. The IEF will continue to support all integrated schools in their development, with particular regard to those integrated schools increasing their enrolments in response to demand. Growth brings with it many challenges and the IEF is often needed to pump prime this growth through the provision of additional teaching resources, equipment and even accommodation until such time as the DE provides the necessary funding.

An integrated ethos does not happen by simply having a mix of pupils. Schools need to continually consider ways to deliver integration in practice. They need to not only reflect on but also develop their practice to ensure all pupils, staff and governors feel welcome and their identity is celebrated, irrespective of their cultural or religious background.

The IEF aims to:

Encourage all schools to consider the new Department of Education guidance Integration Works and support them on their transformation journey to integrated status

Support growth in existing integrated schools to enable parents to access an integrated education for their child

Strengthen ethos by supporting work in integrated schools that celebrates diversity

3. Effecting Policy Change

The IEF wants to see a day when it is no longer needed. That will only happen when integrated education is adequately planned for and the parental demand for it is being met. To bring this day closer we need to continually work with policy makers, influencers, politicians and government. To answer the widespread desire for integrated education, we need to see a government strategy with ambitious targets to grow the numbers of pupils in integrated schools. This strategy needs to be reflected in education planning and in a commitment to reform the structure of the education system.

The 2016 Independent Review of Integrated Education, commissioned by the Minister of Education, recommended a series of steps to support the growth and development of integrated education - adopting these steps would go some way to progressing the IEF vision of the future education system.

To contribute to a more united community and to ensure the most efficient use of the resources available in education the Government must commit to developing integrated education through a growth strategy, major structural change and other specific measures.

Growth Strategy

- The Government should set a target to increase the percentage of pupils in integrated schools from 7% to 10% by 2021, and to 30% by 2031 and plan to meet it.
- The Government plan should include strategic use of the £500m Stormont House Agreement Funding for capital development of shared and integrated education.
- The Education Authority should make integrated education the priority focus of the area planning process where there is clear demand. Planning teams should work with communities and challenge vested interests to ensure such a focus.
- There should be a presumption that any new schools to be established should be integrated, subject to community consultation.

Structural Change

- There are currently two separate statutory planning authorities for education provision in Northern Ireland (the Education Authority and the Council for Catholic Maintained Schools). There should be one single authority for the administration and planning of education.
- The DE should develop and introduce a single model of governance for all schools in Northern Ireland, representative of the wider community and of a range of skills and perspectives.
- The Government should end the duplication and segregation of initial teacher training and establish a single teacher training system open to students of all religions and none.

Other Specific Measures

- The 'Section 75' non-discrimination provisions of the Northern Ireland Act (1998) should be extended to cover all schools.
- Fair employment legislation should be extended to cover the recruitment of teachers.
- Equality and inclusivity should become issues considered in the process of inspection of schools.
- Integrated education should be a significant consideration in the planning of new housing developments, and the Department for Communities and the Department of Education should establish a collaborative, strategic approach to mixed housing and integrated education.

The IEF aims to:

Engage with policy makers, political leaders and government to present the case for building a quality education system based on greater integration

The development of integrated schools has demonstrated that people from all religious, cultural and social backgrounds can work, learn and play together, successfully. It has contributed to the growing acceptance that learning together can enhance an educational experience, adding value to a child's education.

This is not just evidenced by integrated schools. Schools of all types have sought to engage in cross community projects and shared education for decades, because of the very benefits they believe it can bring.

3. Economic Benefit: Effective and Efficient

Maintaining separate school systems based on religious or cultural background comes at a high price for government and many local communities. Having too many schools with too few pupils can make ineffective and inefficient use of resources and put these limited resources under further budgetary pressure. More children attending the same schools which respect and celebrate all traditions will help alleviate some of these pressures.

Moreover, a school system based more on integration would eventually reduce the need for external charitable funding as integration would be mainstreamed, and cross community work would no longer be an 'add on'; it would be an integral part of every school day.

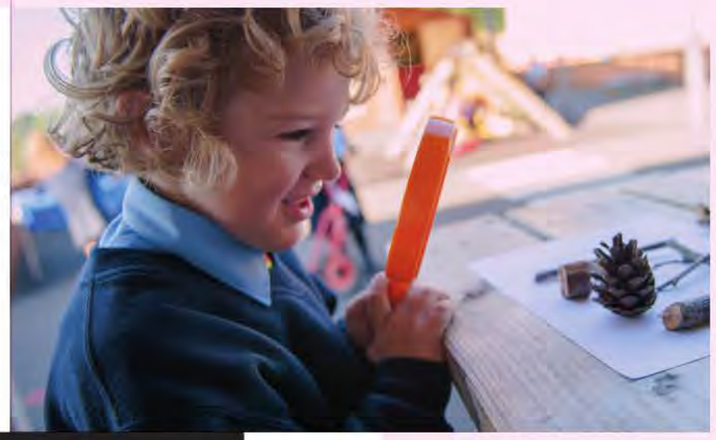
How Can We Make Change Happen?



1. Empowering Parents

The majority of parents in Northern Ireland aspire to integrated education.

Parents want to send their children to what they believe are the 'best schools'.

However, would any school perform less well if it welcomed, and included pupils, teachers and governors from different religious and cultural backgrounds?

Most parents think not, but do not know how they can become involved in creating such a positive change. Even fewer know that legislation allows parents to initiate a process of change in their school, and that almost any school is able to transform to integrated status.

25 schools have already successfully transformed, a number of which are the fastest growing schools in Northern Ireland.

The 'Integrate My School' initiative of the IEF is an innovative way for parents to register their support for integrated status for their child's school.

'Integrate My School' has been created to enable parents to gain information and declare their support whilst providing confidentiality and anonymity in the process.

When 20% of parents from the same school register then, by law, their school must at least consider transforming to integrated status and hold a secret ballot of parents. Schools can only transform with parental support and approval.

Hundreds of parents have already declared their support and there are schools across Northern Ireland of all management types exploring transformation, including Catholic, Controlled and Grammar.

Education planning and provision in Northern Ireland must engage not only with existing education providers and their sectoral bodies, but also with local communities. Local community groups and organisations have an important role to play in our society and are often well placed in understanding the needs of a local area.

To best reflect the needs of communities, education planners need to implement an independent consultation and audit to measure demand for the type of schools in any given area.

The IEF, working with the Education Authority and other education sectors, has invested in piloting a number of local area based consultations and audits across Northern Ireland. This work provides an evidence based approach which we want to see refined and adopted as part of any area based planning process.

The IEF aims to:

Increase awareness among parents of how they can make change happen

Increase the number of parents registering their support for 'Integrate My School'

Increase the level of engagement, awareness and support for integrated education solutions amongst local community groups

2. Empowering Schools

The IEF and the Northern Ireland Council for Integrated Education (NICIE) will support any school in Northern Ireland embarking on the journey to integrated status.

The Department of Education (DE) has a statutory duty to "encourage and facilitate" integrated education and, following a successful legal challenge by Drumragh Integrated College in 2014, now "needs to be alive to this duty at every level, including the strategic".

New guidance from the DE published in 2017 and entitled Integration Works provides a positive and encouraging framework for all schools seeking to transform.

NICIE will provide additional advice and practical support for any school seeking integrated status.

The IEF will provide further support through a focused grant programme which will provide financial assistance to schools exploring and embarking on transformation.

Integrated schools do not receive any additional funding from the DE simply for being integrated. The IEF will continue to support all integrated schools in their development, with particular regard to those integrated schools increasing their enrolments in response to demand. Growth brings with it many challenges and the IEF is often needed to pump prime this growth through the provision of additional teaching resources, equipment and even accommodation until such time as the DE provides the necessary funding.

An integrated ethos does not happen by simply having a mix of pupils. Schools need to continually consider ways to deliver integration in practice. They need to not only reflect on but also develop their practice to ensure all pupils, staff and governors feel welcome and their identity is celebrated, irrespective of their cultural or religious background.

The IEF aims to:

Encourage all schools to consider the new Department of Education guidance Integration Works and support them on their transformation journey to integrated status

Support growth in existing integrated schools to enable parents to access an integrated education for their child

Strengthen ethos by supporting work in integrated schools that celebrates diversity

3. Effecting Policy Change

The IEF wants to see a day when it is no longer needed. That will only happen when integrated education is adequately planned for and the parental demand for it is being met. To bring this day closer we need to continually work with policy makers, influencers, politicians and government. To answer the widespread desire for integrated education, we need to see a government strategy with ambitious targets to grow the numbers of pupils in integrated schools. This strategy needs to be reflected in education planning and in a commitment to reform the structure of the education system.

The 2016 Independent Review of Integrated Education, commissioned by the Minister of Education, recommended a series of steps to support the growth and development of integrated education - adopting these steps would go some way to progressing the IEF vision of the future education system.

To contribute to a more united community and to ensure the most efficient use of the resources available in education the Government must commit to developing integrated education through a growth strategy, major structural change and other specific measures.

Growth Strategy

- The Government should set a target to increase the percentage of pupils in integrated schools from 7% to 10% by 2021, and to 30% by 2031 and plan to meet it.
- The Government plan should include strategic use of the £500m Stormont House Agreement Funding for capital development of shared and integrated education.
- The Education Authority should make integrated education the priority focus of the area planning process where there is clear demand. Planning teams should work with communities and challenge vested interests to ensure such a focus.
- There should be a presumption that any new schools to be established should be integrated, subject to community consultation.

Structural Change

- There are currently two separate statutory planning authorities for education provision in Northern Ireland (the Education Authority and the Council for Catholic Maintained Schools). There should be one single authority for the administration and planning of education.
- The DE should develop and introduce a single model of governance for all schools in Northern Ireland, representative of the wider community and of a range of skills and perspectives.
- The Government should end the duplication and segregation of initial teacher training and establish a single teacher training system open to students of all religions and none.

Other Specific Measures

- The 'Section 75' non-discrimination provisions of the Northern Ireland Act (1998) should be extended to cover all schools.
- Fair employment legislation should be extended to cover the recruitment of teachers.
- Equality and inclusivity should become issues considered in the process of inspection of schools.
- Integrated education should be a significant consideration in the planning of new housing developments, and the Department for Communities and the Department of Education should establish a collaborative, strategic approach to mixed housing and integrated education.

The IEF aims to:

Engage with policy makers, political leaders and government to present the case for building a quality education system based on greater integration

Dear Colleague,

Per your interest, please feel free to join Maureen McLaughlin and me for a meeting with Baroness May Blood and others from Northern Ireland to learn about the Integrated Education Movement in Northern Ireland.

As noted in the attached document: "Parents create integrated schools, not government. Integrated schools seek to provide an inclusive and integrated ethos in the school as well as a religious and cultural mix of pupils from different backgrounds. Catholic children are supported and prepared for the sacraments. Protestant children undertake bible studies. Other world religions are also explored and celebrated. Integrated schools are not secular and encourage participation of different faiths in school life and festivals, as well as respecting those children of no religion."

Feel free to forward this to other ED colleagues who you think may have an interest in this topic. If necessary, I am happy to arrange for a larger room to accommodate interest. However, please note that an RSVP (via Outlook) is necessary.

Baroness May Blood Profile

May Blood grew up in a working-class area of Belfast, the richness of family life and strong sense of community more than compensating for the lack of material possessions. At the age of fourteen she became a mill worker and eventually got involved in the trade union movement, struggling to improve working conditions and advance the role of women.

The advent of the Troubles in Northern Ireland was a deeply traumatic experience for her. Brought up in a 'mixed' community she watched in disbelief and horror as that community disintegrated under the impact of inter-communal violence. She became increasingly involved in grassroots community work and an active participant in the developing `peace process'.

In 1999 in recognition of her years of trade union and community endeavors, May Blood was offered a life peerage and a seat in the House of Lords. Her initial response was to decline the offer, for to her the House of Lords was a place where rich old men sat around and slept all day, a place far removed from the everyday realities of working-class Belfast. Nevertheless, she took her seat, hoping that, as 'Baroness May Blood', she could advance the causes she holds so dear.

She has lived to see the end of the Troubles, but a society still deeply divided and one still needing people with her undiminished energy and commitment.

May is the Campaign Chair of the Integrated Education Fund in Northern Ireland, a position she has held since 2002. She has helped to raise over £20 million to support the development and growth of integrated schools where children of all faiths or none are educated together in an environment where religious and cultural diversity is celebrated and encouraged.

Integrated Education Campaign – Key Facts – Sept 2018

The Integrated Education Movement began in the 1970s when a group of parents came together to argue for change in our education system that would enable more Catholic and Protestant children to be educated together in the same schools. This campaigning group was called All Children Together. They did not set out to create a whole new sector of schools but to encourage existing schools to become integrated. When no schools emerged, they decided to establish their own such school.

The first integrated school, Lagan College, opened in 1981, with 28 pupils in a scout hut on the outskirts of Belfast with no initial government funding. Today that same school is fully government funded and educates over 1,100 children. It is also the most oversubscribed school in Northern Ireland.

The Integrated Education Fund, established in 1992, has contributed more than £25 million in grants to support the growth and development of integrated education.

Since 1998, and the launch of the Integrated Education Fund's first 10 Year Development Plan, the number of integrated schools has grown from 45 to 65, and the provision of places in integrated schools has grown from 3% to 7% of the school population.

Today there are over 23,000 children in integrated schools.

There are currently 65 integrated schools, 20 are colleges (age 11-18) and 45 are primary schools (age 4-11). In addition, there are 19 integrated playgroups/nurseries for 3 and 4 year olds.

Independent opinion polls and surveys have always demonstrated a far greater demand for integrated school places than are currently provided. A majority of people continually express their preference for mixed religion schooling (around 70%). Even allowing for opinion polls to express more moderate opinion, the gap between desire and supply is vast.

Parents create integrated schools, not government. Parents have either set up new schools on 'greenfield' sites or they have voted by parental ballot to 'transform' an existing school into an integrated school. Approximately one third of all integrated schools are schools that transformed to integrated status.

Integrated schools seek to provide an inclusive and integrated ethos in the school as well as a religious and cultural mix of pupils from different backgrounds. Catholic children are supported and prepared for the sacraments. Protestant children undertake bible studies. Other world religions are also explored and celebrated. Integrated schools are not secular and encourage participation of different faiths in school life and festivals, as well as respecting those children of no religion.

Many integrated schools also have a 'social class mix' as well as religious mix – on average around 23% of children are eligible for free school meals.

There is considerable independent evidence demonstrating that integrated education makes a positive contribution to social attitudes, intergroup contact and friendship across the community divide.

Our Vision

A Northern Ireland where, increasingly, children from different traditions learn and play together at school, helping to build a society where there is respect and celebration, not fear, of religious and cultural diversity.

The Integrated Education Fund (IEF) shares the vision, held by the overwhelming majority of people in Northern Ireland, of a united community and a shared future. Many believe that more integration and mixing between communities are essential to building a better and more reconciled society.

67% of people want more integrated education (LucidTalk 2018) - where children from Protestant, Catholic, other faith backgrounds and none, are educated together in the same schools and where the symbols, ethos and traditions of the entire community are valued and respected.

The IEF sees the development of more integrated education in a reformed education system as an essential ingredient of this future –a system which also ensures that young people, including newcomer pupils, LGBTQ pupils, and pupils with additional needs, feel confident and welcome in the school environment. The IEF wants an education system which fully prepares its young people to contribute positively to a modern democracy and be successful citizens in an increasingly complex global society.

The aspiration of parents for more integration must be acted upon. To achieve this needs meaningful reform of the way education is planned, managed and delivered. There have been too many well intentioned projects and minor adjustments which do not sufficiently impact on the core nature of Northern Ireland's archaic, segregated system of schools.

Integration works for everybody.
The education system needs to change.

The Benefits of Integrated Education

1. Social Benefit: Positive Attitudes

Independent research indicates that children who attend integrated or mixed religion schools are more likely to have positive social attitudes to, and have more friendships with, pupils with a different background to their own.

Integrated schools are more likely to reflect the makeup of society at large, thus helping to prepare children for life after school where many are likely to work and socialise in a mixed environment whether in third level education or employment.

2. Educational Benefit: Preparation for Life

The development of integrated schools has demonstrated that people from all religious, cultural and social backgrounds can work, learn and play together, successfully. It has contributed to the growing acceptance that learning together can enhance an educational experience, adding value to a child's education.

This is not just evidenced by integrated schools. Schools of all types have sought to engage in cross community projects and shared education for decades, because of the very benefits they believe it can bring.

Dear Colleague,

Per your interest, please feel free to join Maureen McLaughlin and me for a meeting with Baroness May Blood and others from Northern Ireland to learn about the Integrated Education Movement in Northern Ireland.

As noted in the attached document: "Parents create integrated schools, not government. Integrated schools seek to provide an inclusive and integrated ethos in the school as well as a religious and cultural mix of pupils from different backgrounds. Catholic children are supported and prepared for the sacraments. Protestant children undertake bible studies. Other world religions are also explored and celebrated. Integrated schools are not secular and encourage participation of different faiths in school life and festivals, as well as respecting those children of no religion."

Feel free to forward this to other ED colleagues who you think may have an interest in this topic. If necessary, I am happy to arrange for a larger room to accommodate interest. However, please note that an RSVP (via Outlook) is necessary.

Baroness May Blood Profile

May Blood grew up in a working-class area of Belfast, the richness of family life and strong sense of community more than compensating for the lack of material possessions. At the age of fourteen she became a mill worker and eventually got involved in the trade union movement, struggling to improve working conditions and advance the role of women.

The advent of the Troubles in Northern Ireland was a deeply traumatic experience for her. Brought up in a 'mixed' community she watched in disbelief and horror as that community disintegrated under the impact of inter-communal violence. She became increasingly involved in grassroots community work and an active participant in the developing `peace process'.

In 1999 in recognition of her years of trade union and community endeavors, May Blood was offered a life peerage and a seat in the House of Lords. Her initial response was to decline the offer, for to her the House of Lords was a place where rich old men sat around and slept all day, a place far removed from the everyday realities of working-class Belfast. Nevertheless, she took her seat, hoping that, as 'Baroness May Blood', she could advance the causes she holds so dear.

She has lived to see the end of the Troubles, but a society still deeply divided and one still needing people with her undiminished energy and commitment.

May is the Campaign Chair of the Integrated Education Fund in Northern Ireland, a position she has held since 2002. She has helped to raise over £20 million to support the development and growth of integrated schools where children of all faiths or none are educated together in an environment where religious and cultural diversity is celebrated and encouraged.

Integrated Education Campaign – Key Facts – Sept 2018

The Integrated Education Movement began in the 1970s when a group of parents came together to argue for change in our education system that would enable more Catholic and Protestant children to be educated together in the same schools. This campaigning group was called All Children Together. They did not set out to create a whole new sector of schools but to encourage existing schools to become integrated. When no schools emerged, they decided to establish their own such school.

The first integrated school, Lagan College, opened in 1981, with 28 pupils in a scout hut on the outskirts of Belfast with no initial government funding. Today that same school is fully government funded and educates over 1,100 children. It is also the most oversubscribed school in Northern Ireland.

The Integrated Education Fund, established in 1992, has contributed more than £25 million in grants to support the growth and development of integrated education.

Since 1998, and the launch of the Integrated Education Fund's first 10 Year Development Plan, the number of integrated schools has grown from 45 to 65, and the provision of places in integrated schools has grown from 3% to 7% of the school population.

Today there are over 23,000 children in integrated schools.

There are currently 65 integrated schools, 20 are colleges (age 11-18) and 45 are primary schools (age 4-11). In addition, there are 19 integrated playgroups/nurseries for 3 and 4 year olds.

Independent opinion polls and surveys have always demonstrated a far greater demand for integrated school places than are currently provided. A majority of people continually express their preference for mixed religion schooling (around 70%). Even allowing for opinion polls to express more moderate opinion, the gap between desire and supply is vast.

Parents create integrated schools, not government. Parents have either set up new schools on 'greenfield' sites or they have voted by parental ballot to 'transform' an existing school into an integrated school. Approximately one third of all integrated schools are schools that transformed to integrated status.

Integrated schools seek to provide an inclusive and integrated ethos in the school as well as a religious and cultural mix of pupils from different backgrounds. Catholic children are supported and prepared for the sacraments. Protestant children undertake bible studies. Other world religions are also explored and celebrated. Integrated schools are not secular and encourage participation of different faiths in school life and festivals, as well as respecting those children of no religion.

Many integrated schools also have a 'social class mix' as well as religious mix – on average around 23% of children are eligible for free school meals.

There is considerable independent evidence demonstrating that integrated education makes a positive contribution to social attitudes, intergroup contact and friendship across the community divide.

Our Vision

A Northern Ireland where, increasingly, children from different traditions learn and play together at school, helping to build a society where there is respect and celebration, not fear, of religious and cultural diversity.

The Integrated Education Fund (IEF) shares the vision, held by the overwhelming majority of people in Northern Ireland, of a united community and a shared future. Many believe that more integration and mixing between communities are essential to building a better and more reconciled society.

67% of people want more integrated education (LucidTalk 2018) - where children from Protestant, Catholic, other faith backgrounds and none, are educated together in the same schools and where the symbols, ethos and traditions of the entire community are valued and respected.

The IEF sees the development of more integrated education in a reformed education system as an essential ingredient of this future –a system which also ensures that young people, including newcomer pupils, LGBTQ pupils, and pupils with additional needs, feel confident and welcome in the school environment. The IEF wants an education system which fully prepares its young people to contribute positively to a modern democracy and be successful citizens in an increasingly complex global society.

The aspiration of parents for more integration must be acted upon. To achieve this needs meaningful reform of the way education is planned, managed and delivered. There have been too many well intentioned projects and minor adjustments which do not sufficiently impact on the core nature of Northern Ireland's archaic, segregated system of schools.

Integration works for everybody.
The education system needs to change.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

The Benefits of Integrated Education

1. Social Benefit: Positive Attitudes

Independent research indicates that children who attend integrated or mixed religion schools are more likely to have positive social attitudes to, and have more friendships with, pupils with a different background to their own.

Integrated schools are more likely to reflect the makeup of society at large, thus helping to prepare children for life after school where many are likely to work and socialise in a mixed environment whether in third level education or employment.

2. Educational Benefit: Preparation for Life

The development of integrated schools has demonstrated that people from all religious, cultural and social backgrounds can work, learn and play together, successfully. It has contributed to the growing acceptance that learning together can enhance an educational experience, adding value to a child's education.

This is not just evidenced by integrated schools. Schools of all types have sought to engage in cross community projects and shared education for decades, because of the very benefits they believe it can bring.

3. Economic Benefit: Effective and Efficient

Maintaining separate school systems based on religious or cultural background comes at a high price for government and many local communities. Having too many schools with too few pupils can make ineffective and inefficient use of resources and put these limited resources under further budgetary pressure. More children attending the same schools which respect and celebrate all traditions will help alleviate some of these pressures.

Moreover, a school system based more on integration would eventually reduce the need for external charitable funding as integration would be mainstreamed, and cross community work would no longer be an 'add on'; it would be an integral part of every school day.

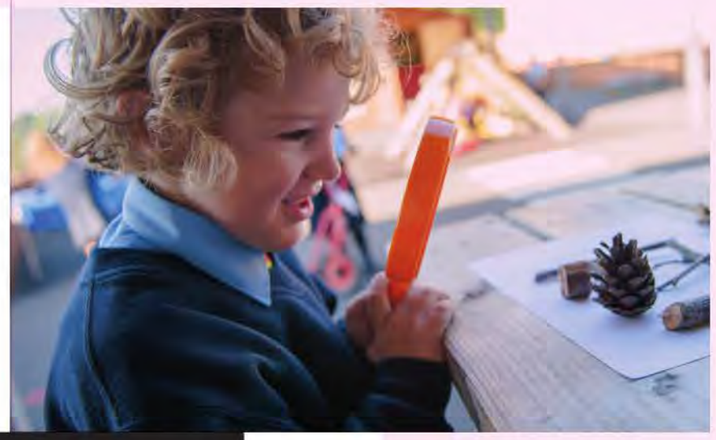
How Can We Make Change Happen?



1. Empowering Parents

The majority of parents in Northern Ireland aspire to integrated education.

Parents want to send their children to what they believe are the 'best schools'.

However, would any school perform less well if it welcomed, and included pupils, teachers and governors from different religious and cultural backgrounds?

Most parents think not, but do not know how they can become involved in creating such a positive change. Even fewer know that legislation allows parents to initiate a process of change in their school, and that almost any school is able to transform to integrated status.

25 schools have already successfully transformed, a number of which are the fastest growing schools in Northern Ireland.

The 'Integrate My School' initiative of the IEF is an innovative way for parents to register their support for integrated status for their child's school.

'Integrate My School' has been created to enable parents to gain information and declare their support whilst providing confidentiality and anonymity in the process.

When 20% of parents from the same school register then, by law, their school must at least consider transforming to integrated status and hold a secret ballot of parents. Schools can only transform with parental support and approval.

Hundreds of parents have already declared their support and there are schools across Northern Ireland of all management types exploring transformation, including Catholic, Controlled and Grammar.

Education planning and provision in Northern Ireland must engage not only with existing education providers and their sectoral bodies, but also with local communities. Local community groups and organisations have an important role to play in our society and are often well placed in understanding the needs of a local area.

To best reflect the needs of communities, education planners need to implement an independent consultation and audit to measure demand for the type of schools in any given area.

The IEF, working with the Education Authority and other education sectors, has invested in piloting a number of local area based consultations and audits across Northern Ireland. This work provides an evidence based approach which we want to see refined and adopted as part of any area based planning process.

The IEF aims to:

Increase awareness among parents of how they can make change happen

Increase the number of parents registering their support for 'Integrate My School'

Increase the level of engagement, awareness and support for integrated education solutions amongst local community groups

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

2. Empowering Schools

The IEF and the Northern Ireland Council for Integrated Education (NICIE) will support any school in Northern Ireland embarking on the journey to integrated status.

The Department of Education (DE) has a statutory duty to "encourage and facilitate" integrated education and, following a successful legal challenge by Drumragh Integrated College in 2014, now "needs to be alive to this duty at every level, including the strategic".

New guidance from the DE published in 2017 and entitled Integration Works provides a positive and encouraging framework for all schools seeking to transform.

NICIE will provide additional advice and practical support for any school seeking integrated status.

The IEF will provide further support through a focused grant programme which will provide financial assistance to schools exploring and embarking on transformation.

Integrated schools do not receive any additional funding from the DE simply for being integrated. The IEF will continue to support all integrated schools in their development, with particular regard to those integrated schools increasing their enrolments in response to demand. Growth brings with it many challenges and the IEF is often needed to pump prime this growth through the provision of additional teaching resources, equipment and even accommodation until such time as the DE provides the necessary funding.

An integrated ethos does not happen by simply having a mix of pupils. Schools need to continually consider ways to deliver integration in practice. They need to not only reflect on but also develop their practice to ensure all pupils, staff and governors feel welcome and their identity is celebrated, irrespective of their cultural or religious background.

The IEF aims to:

Encourage all schools to consider the new Department of Education guidance Integration Works and support them on their transformation journey to integrated status

Support growth in existing integrated schools to enable parents to access an integrated education for their child

Strengthen ethos by supporting work in integrated schools that celebrates diversity

3. Effecting Policy Change

The IEF wants to see a day when it is no longer needed. That will only happen when integrated education is adequately planned for and the parental demand for it is being met. To bring this day closer we need to continually work with policy makers, influencers, politicians and government. To answer the widespread desire for integrated education, we need to see a government strategy with ambitious targets to grow the numbers of pupils in integrated schools. This strategy needs to be reflected in education planning and in a commitment to reform the structure of the education system.

The 2016 Independent Review of Integrated Education, commissioned by the Minister of Education, recommended a series of steps to support the growth and development of integrated education - adopting these steps would go some way to progressing the IEF vision of the future education system.

To contribute to a more united community and to ensure the most efficient use of the resources available in education the Government must commit to developing integrated education through a growth strategy, major structural change and other specific measures.

Growth Strategy

- The Government should set a target to increase the percentage of pupils in integrated schools from 7% to 10% by 2021, and to 30% by 2031 and plan to meet it.
- The Government plan should include strategic use of the £500m Stormont House Agreement Funding for capital development of shared and integrated education.
- The Education Authority should make integrated education the priority focus of the area planning process where there is clear demand. Planning teams should work with communities and challenge vested interests to ensure such a focus.
- There should be a presumption that any new schools to be established should be integrated, subject to community consultation.

Structural Change

- There are currently two separate statutory planning authorities for education provision in Northern Ireland (the Education Authority and the Council for Catholic Maintained Schools). There should be one single authority for the administration and planning of education.
- The DE should develop and introduce a single model of governance for all schools in Northern Ireland, representative of the wider community and of a range of skills and perspectives.
- The Government should end the duplication and segregation of initial teacher training and establish a single teacher training system open to students of all religions and none.

Other Specific Measures

- The 'Section 75' non-discrimination provisions of the Northern Ireland Act (1998) should be extended to cover all schools.
- Fair employment legislation should be extended to cover the recruitment of teachers.
- Equality and inclusivity should become issues considered in the process of inspection of schools.
- Integrated education should be a significant consideration in the planning of new housing developments, and the Department for Communities and the Department of Education should establish a collaborative, strategic approach to mixed housing and integrated education.

The IEF aims to:

Engage with policy makers, political leaders and government to present the case for building a quality education system based on greater integration

The Benefits of Integrated Education

1. Social Benefit: Positive Attitudes

Independent research indicates that children who attend integrated or mixed religion schools are more likely to have positive social attitudes to, and have more friendships with, pupils with a different background to their own.

Integrated schools are more likely to reflect the makeup of society at large, thus helping to prepare children for life after school where many are likely to work and socialise in a mixed environment whether in third level education or employment.

2. Educational Benefit: Preparation for Life

The development of integrated schools has demonstrated that people from all religious, cultural and social backgrounds can work, learn and play together, successfully. It has contributed to the growing acceptance that learning together can enhance an educational experience, adding value to a child's education.

This is not just evidenced by integrated schools. Schools of all types have sought to engage in cross community projects and shared education for decades, because of the very benefits they believe it can bring.

3. Economic Benefit: Effective and Efficient

Maintaining separate school systems based on religious or cultural background comes at a high price for government and many local communities. Having too many schools with too few pupils can make ineffective and inefficient use of resources and put these limited resources under further budgetary pressure. More children attending the same schools which respect and celebrate all traditions will help alleviate some of these pressures.

Moreover, a school system based more on integration would eventually reduce the need for external charitable funding as integration would be mainstreamed, and cross community work would no longer be an 'add on'; it would be an integral part of every school day.

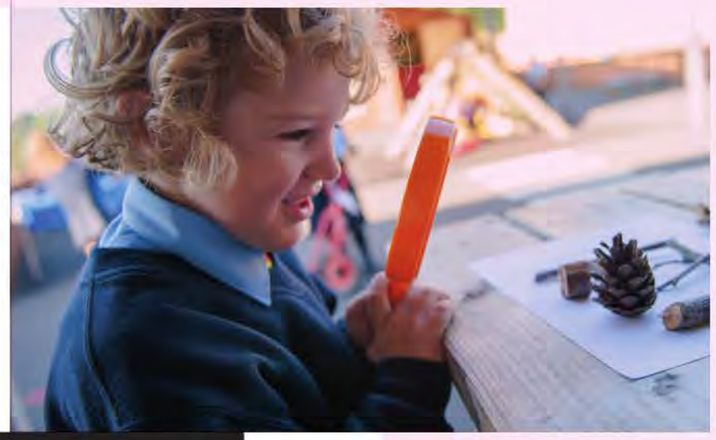
How Can We Make Change Happen?



1. Empowering Parents

The majority of parents in Northern Ireland aspire to integrated education.

Parents want to send their children to what they believe are the 'best schools'.

However, would any school perform less well if it welcomed, and included pupils, teachers and governors from different religious and cultural backgrounds?

Most parents think not, but do not know how they can become involved in creating such a positive change. Even fewer know that legislation allows parents to initiate a process of change in their school, and that almost any school is able to transform to integrated status.

25 schools have already successfully transformed, a number of which are the fastest growing schools in Northern Ireland.

The 'Integrate My School' initiative of the IEF is an innovative way for parents to register their support for integrated status for their child's school.

'Integrate My School' has been created to enable parents to gain information and declare their support whilst providing confidentiality and anonymity in the process.

When 20% of parents from the same school register then, by law, their school must at least consider transforming to integrated status and hold a secret ballot of parents. Schools can only transform with parental support and approval.

Hundreds of parents have already declared their support and there are schools across Northern Ireland of all management types exploring transformation, including Catholic, Controlled and Grammar.

Education planning and provision in Northern Ireland must engage not only with existing education providers and their sectoral bodies, but also with local communities. Local community groups and organisations have an important role to play in our society and are often well placed in understanding the needs of a local area.

To best reflect the needs of communities, education planners need to implement an independent consultation and audit to measure demand for the type of schools in any given area.

The IEF, working with the Education Authority and other education sectors, has invested in piloting a number of local area based consultations and audits across Northern Ireland. This work provides an evidence based approach which we want to see refined and adopted as part of any area based planning process.

The IEF aims to:

Increase awareness among parents of how they can make change happen

Increase the number of parents registering their support for 'Integrate My School'

Increase the level of engagement, awareness and support for integrated education solutions amongst local community groups

2. Empowering Schools

The IEF and the Northern Ireland Council for Integrated Education (NICIE) will support any school in Northern Ireland embarking on the journey to integrated status.

The Department of Education (DE) has a statutory duty to "encourage and facilitate" integrated education and, following a successful legal challenge by Drumragh Integrated College in 2014, now "needs to be alive to this duty at every level, including the strategic".

New guidance from the DE published in 2017 and entitled Integration Works provides a positive and encouraging framework for all schools seeking to transform.

NICIE will provide additional advice and practical support for any school seeking integrated status.

The IEF will provide further support through a focused grant programme which will provide financial assistance to schools exploring and embarking on transformation.

Integrated schools do not receive any additional funding from the DE simply for being integrated. The IEF will continue to support all integrated schools in their development, with particular regard to those integrated schools increasing their enrolments in response to demand. Growth brings with it many challenges and the IEF is often needed to pump prime this growth through the provision of additional teaching resources, equipment and even accommodation until such time as the DE provides the necessary funding.

An integrated ethos does not happen by simply having a mix of pupils. Schools need to continually consider ways to deliver integration in practice. They need to not only reflect on but also develop their practice to ensure all pupils, staff and governors feel welcome and their identity is celebrated, irrespective of their cultural or religious background.

The IEF aims to:

Encourage all schools to consider the new Department of Education guidance Integration Works and support them on their transformation journey to integrated status

Support growth in existing integrated schools to enable parents to access an integrated education for their child

Strengthen ethos by supporting work in integrated schools that celebrates diversity

3. Effecting Policy Change

The IEF wants to see a day when it is no longer needed. That will only happen when integrated education is adequately planned for and the parental demand for it is being met. To bring this day closer we need to continually work with policy makers, influencers, politicians and government. To answer the widespread desire for integrated education, we need to see a government strategy with ambitious targets to grow the numbers of pupils in integrated schools. This strategy needs to be reflected in education planning and in a commitment to reform the structure of the education system.

The 2016 Independent Review of Integrated Education, commissioned by the Minister of Education, recommended a series of steps to support the growth and development of integrated education - adopting these steps would go some way to progressing the IEF vision of the future education system.

To contribute to a more united community and to ensure the most efficient use of the resources available in education the Government must commit to developing integrated education through a growth strategy, major structural change and other specific measures.

Growth Strategy

- The Government should set a target to increase the percentage of pupils in integrated schools from 7% to 10% by 2021, and to 30% by 2031 and plan to meet it.
- The Government plan should include strategic use of the £500m Stormont House Agreement Funding for capital development of shared and integrated education.
- The Education Authority should make integrated education the priority focus of the area planning process where there is clear demand. Planning teams should work with communities and challenge vested interests to ensure such a focus.
- There should be a presumption that any new schools to be established should be integrated, subject to community consultation.

Structural Change

- There are currently two separate statutory planning authorities for education provision in Northern Ireland (the Education Authority and the Council for Catholic Maintained Schools). There should be one single authority for the administration and planning of education.
- The DE should develop and introduce a single model of governance for all schools in Northern Ireland, representative of the wider community and of a range of skills and perspectives.
- The Government should end the duplication and segregation of initial teacher training and establish a single teacher training system open to students of all religions and none.

Other Specific Measures

- The 'Section 75' non-discrimination provisions of the Northern Ireland Act (1998) should be extended to cover all schools.
- Fair employment legislation should be extended to cover the recruitment of teachers.
- Equality and inclusivity should become issues considered in the process of inspection of schools.
- Integrated education should be a significant consideration in the planning of new housing developments, and the Department for Communities and the Department of Education should establish a collaborative, strategic approach to mixed housing and integrated education.

The IEF aims to:

Engage with policy makers, political leaders and government to present the case for building a quality education system based on greater integration

Dear Colleague,

Per your interest, please feel free to join Maureen McLaughlin and me for a meeting with Baroness May Blood and others from Northern Ireland to learn about the Integrated Education Movement in Northern Ireland.

As noted in the attached document: "Parents create integrated schools, not government. Integrated schools seek to provide an inclusive and integrated ethos in the school as well as a religious and cultural mix of pupils from different backgrounds. Catholic children are supported and prepared for the sacraments. Protestant children undertake bible studies. Other world religions are also explored and celebrated. Integrated schools are not secular and encourage participation of different faiths in school life and festivals, as well as respecting those children of no religion."

Feel free to forward this to other ED colleagues who you think may have an interest in this topic. If necessary, I am happy to arrange for a larger room to accommodate interest. However, please note that an RSVP (via Outlook) is necessary.

Baroness May Blood Profile

May Blood grew up in a working-class area of Belfast, the richness of family life and strong sense of community more than compensating for the lack of material possessions. At the age of fourteen she became a mill worker and eventually got involved in the trade union movement, struggling to improve working conditions and advance the role of women.

The advent of the Troubles in Northern Ireland was a deeply traumatic experience for her. Brought up in a 'mixed' community she watched in disbelief and horror as that community disintegrated under the impact of inter-communal violence. She became increasingly involved in grassroots community work and an active participant in the developing `peace process'.

In 1999 in recognition of her years of trade union and community endeavors, May Blood was offered a life peerage and a seat in the House of Lords. Her initial response was to decline the offer, for to her the House of Lords was a place where rich old men sat around and slept all day, a place far removed from the everyday realities of working-class Belfast. Nevertheless, she took her seat, hoping that, as 'Baroness May Blood', she could advance the causes she holds so dear.

She has lived to see the end of the Troubles, but a society still deeply divided and one still needing people with her undiminished energy and commitment.

May is the Campaign Chair of the Integrated Education Fund in Northern Ireland, a position she has held since 2002. She has helped to raise over £20 million to support the development and growth of integrated schools where children of all faiths or none are educated together in an environment where religious and cultural diversity is celebrated and encouraged.

Integrated Education Campaign – Key Facts – Sept 2018

The Integrated Education Movement began in the 1970s when a group of parents came together to argue for change in our education system that would enable more Catholic and Protestant children to be educated together in the same schools. This campaigning group was called All Children Together. They did not set out to create a whole new sector of schools but to encourage existing schools to become integrated. When no schools emerged, they decided to establish their own such school.

The first integrated school, Lagan College, opened in 1981, with 28 pupils in a scout hut on the outskirts of Belfast with no initial government funding. Today that same school is fully government funded and educates over 1,100 children. It is also the most oversubscribed school in Northern Ireland.

The Integrated Education Fund, established in 1992, has contributed more than £25 million in grants to support the growth and development of integrated education.

Since 1998, and the launch of the Integrated Education Fund's first 10 Year Development Plan, the number of integrated schools has grown from 45 to 65, and the provision of places in integrated schools has grown from 3% to 7% of the school population.

Today there are over 23,000 children in integrated schools.

There are currently 65 integrated schools, 20 are colleges (age 11-18) and 45 are primary schools (age 4-11). In addition, there are 19 integrated playgroups/nurseries for 3 and 4 year olds.

Independent opinion polls and surveys have always demonstrated a far greater demand for integrated school places than are currently provided. A majority of people continually express their preference for mixed religion schooling (around 70%). Even allowing for opinion polls to express more moderate opinion, the gap between desire and supply is vast.

Parents create integrated schools, not government. Parents have either set up new schools on 'greenfield' sites or they have voted by parental ballot to 'transform' an existing school into an integrated school. Approximately one third of all integrated schools are schools that transformed to integrated status.

Integrated schools seek to provide an inclusive and integrated ethos in the school as well as a religious and cultural mix of pupils from different backgrounds. Catholic children are supported and prepared for the sacraments. Protestant children undertake bible studies. Other world religions are also explored and celebrated. Integrated schools are not secular and encourage participation of different faiths in school life and festivals, as well as respecting those children of no religion.

Many integrated schools also have a 'social class mix' as well as religious mix – on average around 23% of children are eligible for free school meals.

There is considerable independent evidence demonstrating that integrated education makes a positive contribution to social attitudes, intergroup contact and friendship across the community divide.

Our Vision

A Northern Ireland where, increasingly, children from different traditions learn and play together at school, helping to build a society where there is respect and celebration, not fear, of religious and cultural diversity.

The Integrated Education Fund (IEF) shares the vision, held by the overwhelming majority of people in Northern Ireland, of a united community and a shared future. Many believe that more integration and mixing between communities are essential to building a better and more reconciled society.

67% of people want more integrated education (LucidTalk 2018) - where children from Protestant, Catholic, other faith backgrounds and none, are educated together in the same schools and where the symbols, ethos and traditions of the entire community are valued and respected.

The IEF sees the development of more integrated education in a reformed education system as an essential ingredient of this future –a system which also ensures that young people, including newcomer pupils, LGBTQ pupils, and pupils with additional needs, feel confident and welcome in the school environment. The IEF wants an education system which fully prepares its young people to contribute positively to a modern democracy and be successful citizens in an increasingly complex global society.

The aspiration of parents for more integration must be acted upon. To achieve this needs meaningful reform of the way education is planned, managed and delivered. There have been too many well intentioned projects and minor adjustments which do not sufficiently impact on the core nature of Northern Ireland's archaic, segregated system of schools.

Integration works for everybody.
The education system needs to change.

Dear Colleague,

Per your interest, please feel free to join Maureen McLaughlin and me for a meeting with Baroness May Blood and others from Northern Ireland to learn about the Integrated Education Movement in Northern Ireland.

As noted in the attached document: "Parents create integrated schools, not government. Integrated schools seek to provide an inclusive and integrated ethos in the school as well as a religious and cultural mix of pupils from different backgrounds. Catholic children are supported and prepared for the sacraments. Protestant children undertake bible studies. Other world religions are also explored and celebrated. Integrated schools are not secular and encourage participation of different faiths in school life and festivals, as well as respecting those children of no religion."

Feel free to forward this to other ED colleagues who you think may have an interest in this topic. If necessary, I am happy to arrange for a larger room to accommodate interest. However, please note that an RSVP (via Outlook) is necessary.

Baroness May Blood Profile

May Blood grew up in a working-class area of Belfast, the richness of family life and strong sense of community more than compensating for the lack of material possessions. At the age of fourteen she became a mill worker and eventually got involved in the trade union movement, struggling to improve working conditions and advance the role of women.

The advent of the Troubles in Northern Ireland was a deeply traumatic experience for her. Brought up in a 'mixed' community she watched in disbelief and horror as that community disintegrated under the impact of inter-communal violence. She became increasingly involved in grassroots community work and an active participant in the developing `peace process'.

In 1999 in recognition of her years of trade union and community endeavors, May Blood was offered a life peerage and a seat in the House of Lords. Her initial response was to decline the offer, for to her the House of Lords was a place where rich old men sat around and slept all day, a place far removed from the everyday realities of working-class Belfast. Nevertheless, she took her seat, hoping that, as 'Baroness May Blood', she could advance the causes she holds so dear.

She has lived to see the end of the Troubles, but a society still deeply divided and one still needing people with her undiminished energy and commitment.

May is the Campaign Chair of the Integrated Education Fund in Northern Ireland, a position she has held since 2002. She has helped to raise over £20 million to support the development and growth of integrated schools where children of all faiths or none are educated together in an environment where religious and cultural diversity is celebrated and encouraged.

Integrated Education Campaign – Key Facts – Sept 2018

The Integrated Education Movement began in the 1970s when a group of parents came together to argue for change in our education system that would enable more Catholic and Protestant children to be educated together in the same schools. This campaigning group was called All Children Together. They did not set out to create a whole new sector of schools but to encourage existing schools to become integrated. When no schools emerged, they decided to establish their own such school.

The first integrated school, Lagan College, opened in 1981, with 28 pupils in a scout hut on the outskirts of Belfast with no initial government funding. Today that same school is fully government funded and educates over 1,100 children. It is also the most oversubscribed school in Northern Ireland.

The Integrated Education Fund, established in 1992, has contributed more than £25 million in grants to support the growth and development of integrated education.

Since 1998, and the launch of the Integrated Education Fund's first 10 Year Development Plan, the number of integrated schools has grown from 45 to 65, and the provision of places in integrated schools has grown from 3% to 7% of the school population.

Today there are over 23,000 children in integrated schools.

There are currently 65 integrated schools, 20 are colleges (age 11-18) and 45 are primary schools (age 4-11). In addition, there are 19 integrated playgroups/nurseries for 3 and 4 year olds.

Independent opinion polls and surveys have always demonstrated a far greater demand for integrated school places than are currently provided. A majority of people continually express their preference for mixed religion schooling (around 70%). Even allowing for opinion polls to express more moderate opinion, the gap between desire and supply is vast.

Parents create integrated schools, not government. Parents have either set up new schools on 'greenfield' sites or they have voted by parental ballot to 'transform' an existing school into an integrated school. Approximately one third of all integrated schools are schools that transformed to integrated status.

Integrated schools seek to provide an inclusive and integrated ethos in the school as well as a religious and cultural mix of pupils from different backgrounds. Catholic children are supported and prepared for the sacraments. Protestant children undertake bible studies. Other world religions are also explored and celebrated. Integrated schools are not secular and encourage participation of different faiths in school life and festivals, as well as respecting those children of no religion.

Many integrated schools also have a 'social class mix' as well as religious mix – on average around 23% of children are eligible for free school meals.

There is considerable independent evidence demonstrating that integrated education makes a positive contribution to social attitudes, intergroup contact and friendship across the community divide.

Our Vision

A Northern Ireland where, increasingly, children from different traditions learn and play together at school, helping to build a society where there is respect and celebration, not fear, of religious and cultural diversity.

The Integrated Education Fund (IEF) shares the vision, held by the overwhelming majority of people in Northern Ireland, of a united community and a shared future. Many believe that more integration and mixing between communities are essential to building a better and more reconciled society.

67% of people want more integrated education (LucidTalk 2018) - where children from Protestant, Catholic, other faith backgrounds and none, are educated together in the same schools and where the symbols, ethos and traditions of the entire community are valued and respected.

The IEF sees the development of more integrated education in a reformed education system as an essential ingredient of this future –a system which also ensures that young people, including newcomer pupils, LGBTQ pupils, and pupils with additional needs, feel confident and welcome in the school environment. The IEF wants an education system which fully prepares its young people to contribute positively to a modern democracy and be successful citizens in an increasingly complex global society.

The aspiration of parents for more integration must be acted upon. To achieve this needs meaningful reform of the way education is planned, managed and delivered. There have been too many well intentioned projects and minor adjustments which do not sufficiently impact on the core nature of Northern Ireland's archaic, segregated system of schools.

Integration works for everybody.
The education system needs to change.

Where We Want To Be: Integrated and Effective

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

ED-17-0431-F-003310

1. Social Benefit: Positive Attitudes

Independent research indicates that children who attend integrated or mixed religion schools are more likely to have positive social attitudes to, and have more friendships with, pupils with a different background to their own.

Integrated schools are more likely to reflect the makeup of society at large, thus helping to prepare children for life after school where many are likely to work and socialise in a mixed environment whether in third level education or employment.

2. Educational Benefit: Preparation for Life

The development of integrated schools has demonstrated that people from all religious, cultural and social backgrounds can work, learn and play together, successfully. It has contributed to the growing acceptance that learning together can enhance an educational experience, adding value to a child's education.

This is not just evidenced by integrated schools. Schools of all types have sought to engage in cross community projects and shared education for decades, because of the very benefits they believe it can bring.

3. Economic Benefit: Effective and Efficient

Maintaining separate school systems based on religious or cultural background comes at a high price for government and many local communities. Having too many schools with too few pupils can make ineffective and inefficient use of resources and put these limited resources under further budgetary pressure. More children attending the same schools which respect and celebrate all traditions will help alleviate some of these pressures.

Moreover, a school system based more on integration would eventually reduce the need for external charitable funding as integration would be mainstreamed, and cross community work would no longer be an 'add on'; it would be an integral part of every school day.

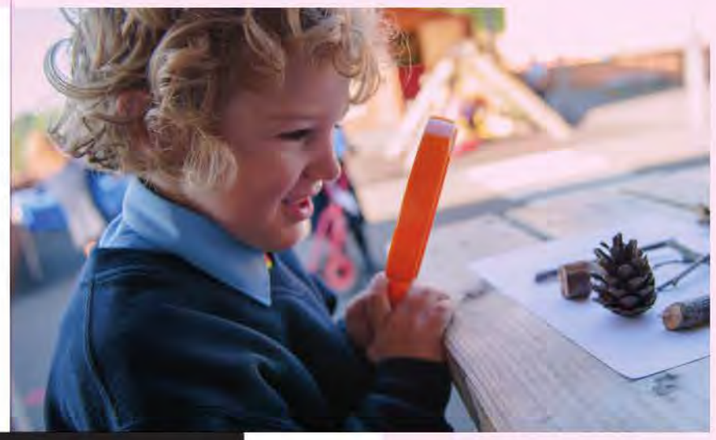
How Can We Make Change Happen?



1. Empowering Parents

The majority of parents in Northern Ireland aspire to integrated education.

Parents want to send their children to what they believe are the 'best schools'.

However, would any school perform less well if it welcomed, and included pupils, teachers and governors from different religious and cultural backgrounds?

Most parents think not, but do not know how they can become involved in creating such a positive change. Even fewer know that legislation allows parents to initiate a process of change in their school, and that almost any school is able to transform to integrated status.

25 schools have already successfully transformed, a number of which are the fastest growing schools in Northern Ireland.

The 'Integrate My School' initiative of the IEF is an innovative way for parents to register their support for integrated status for their child's school.

'Integrate My School' has been created to enable parents to gain information and declare their support whilst providing confidentiality and anonymity in the process.

When 20% of parents from the same school register then, by law, their school must at least consider transforming to integrated status and hold a secret ballot of parents. Schools can only transform with parental support and approval.

Hundreds of parents have already declared their support and there are schools across Northern Ireland of all management types exploring transformation, including Catholic, Controlled and Grammar.

Education planning and provision in Northern Ireland must engage not only with existing education providers and their sectoral bodies, but also with local communities. Local community groups and organisations have an important role to play in our society and are often well placed in understanding the needs of a local area.

To best reflect the needs of communities, education planners need to implement an independent consultation and audit to measure demand for the type of schools in any given area.

The IEF, working with the Education Authority and other education sectors, has invested in piloting a number of local area based consultations and audits across Northern Ireland. This work provides an evidence based approach which we want to see refined and adopted as part of any area based planning process.

The IEF aims to:

Increase awareness among parents of how they can make change happen

Increase the number of parents registering their support for 'Integrate My School'

Increase the level of engagement, awareness and support for integrated education solutions amongst local community groups

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

2. Empowering Schools

The IEF and the Northern Ireland Council for Integrated Education (NICIE) will support any school in Northern Ireland embarking on the journey to integrated status.

The Department of Education (DE) has a statutory duty to "encourage and facilitate" integrated education and, following a successful legal challenge by Drumragh Integrated College in 2014, now "needs to be alive to this duty at every level, including the strategic".

New guidance from the DE published in 2017 and entitled Integration Works provides a positive and encouraging framework for all schools seeking to transform.

NICIE will provide additional advice and practical support for any school seeking integrated status.

The IEF will provide further support through a focused grant programme which will provide financial assistance to schools exploring and embarking on transformation.

Integrated schools do not receive any additional funding from the DE simply for being integrated. The IEF will continue to support all integrated schools in their development, with particular regard to those integrated schools increasing their enrolments in response to demand. Growth brings with it many challenges and the IEF is often needed to pump prime this growth through the provision of additional teaching resources, equipment and even accommodation until such time as the DE provides the necessary funding.

An integrated ethos does not happen by simply having a mix of pupils. Schools need to continually consider ways to deliver integration in practice. They need to not only reflect on but also develop their practice to ensure all pupils, staff and governors feel welcome and their identity is celebrated, irrespective of their cultural or religious background.

The IEF aims to:

Encourage all schools to consider the new Department of Education guidance Integration Works and support them on their transformation journey to integrated status

Support growth in existing integrated schools to enable parents to access an integrated education for their child

Strengthen ethos by supporting work in integrated schools that celebrates diversity

3. Effecting Policy Change

The IEF wants to see a day when it is no longer needed. That will only happen when integrated education is adequately planned for and the parental demand for it is being met. To bring this day closer we need to continually work with policy makers, influencers, politicians and government. To answer the widespread desire for integrated education, we need to see a government strategy with ambitious targets to grow the numbers of pupils in integrated schools. This strategy needs to be reflected in education planning and in a commitment to reform the structure of the education system.

The 2016 Independent Review of Integrated Education, commissioned by the Minister of Education, recommended a series of steps to support the growth and development of integrated education - adopting these steps would go some way to progressing the IEF vision of the future education system.

To contribute to a more united community and to ensure the most efficient use of the resources available in education the Government must commit to developing integrated education through a growth strategy, major structural change and other specific measures.

Growth Strategy

- The Government should set a target to increase the percentage of pupils in integrated schools from 7% to 10% by 2021, and to 30% by 2031 and plan to meet it.
- The Government plan should include strategic use of the £500m Stormont House Agreement Funding for capital development of shared and integrated education.
- The Education Authority should make integrated education the priority focus of the area planning process where there is clear demand. Planning teams should work with communities and challenge vested interests to ensure such a focus.
- There should be a presumption that any new schools to be established should be integrated, subject to community consultation.

Structural Change

- There are currently two separate statutory planning authorities for education provision in Northern Ireland (the Education Authority and the Council for Catholic Maintained Schools). There should be one single authority for the administration and planning of education.
- The DE should develop and introduce a single model of governance for all schools in Northern Ireland, representative of the wider community and of a range of skills and perspectives.
- The Government should end the duplication and segregation of initial teacher training and establish a single teacher training system open to students of all religions and none.

Other Specific Measures

- The 'Section 75' non-discrimination provisions of the Northern Ireland Act (1998) should be extended to cover all schools.
- Fair employment legislation should be extended to cover the recruitment of teachers.
- Equality and inclusivity should become issues considered in the process of inspection of schools.
- Integrated education should be a significant consideration in the planning of new housing developments, and the Department for Communities and the Department of Education should establish a collaborative, strategic approach to mixed housing and integrated education.

The IEF aims to:

Engage with policy makers, political leaders and government to present the case for building a quality education system based on greater integration

Baroness May Blood Profile

May Blood grew up in a working-class area of Belfast, the richness of family life and strong sense of community more than compensating for the lack of material possessions. At the age of fourteen she became a mill worker and eventually got involved in the trade union movement, struggling to improve working conditions and advance the role of women.

The advent of the Troubles in Northern Ireland was a deeply traumatic experience for her. Brought up in a 'mixed' community she watched in disbelief and horror as that community disintegrated under the impact of inter-communal violence. She became increasingly involved in grassroots community work and an active participant in the developing `peace process'.

In 1999 in recognition of her years of trade union and community endeavors, May Blood was offered a life peerage and a seat in the House of Lords. Her initial response was to decline the offer, for to her the House of Lords was a place where rich old men sat around and slept all day, a place far removed from the everyday realities of working-class Belfast. Nevertheless, she took her seat, hoping that, as 'Baroness May Blood', she could advance the causes she holds so dear.

She has lived to see the end of the Troubles, but a society still deeply divided and one still needing people with her undiminished energy and commitment.

May is the Campaign Chair of the Integrated Education Fund in Northern Ireland, a position she has held since 2002. She has helped to raise over £20 million to support the development and growth of integrated schools where children of all faiths or none are educated together in an environment where religious and cultural diversity is celebrated and encouraged.

Integrated Education Campaign – Key Facts – Sept 2018

The Integrated Education Movement began in the 1970s when a group of parents came together to argue for change in our education system that would enable more Catholic and Protestant children to be educated together in the same schools. This campaigning group was called All Children Together. They did not set out to create a whole new sector of schools but to encourage existing schools to become integrated. When no schools emerged, they decided to establish their own such school.

The first integrated school, Lagan College, opened in 1981, with 28 pupils in a scout hut on the outskirts of Belfast with no initial government funding. Today that same school is fully government funded and educates over 1,100 children. It is also the most oversubscribed school in Northern Ireland.

The Integrated Education Fund, established in 1992, has contributed more than £25 million in grants to support the growth and development of integrated education.

Since 1998, and the launch of the Integrated Education Fund's first 10 Year Development Plan, the number of integrated schools has grown from 45 to 65, and the provision of places in integrated schools has grown from 3% to 7% of the school population.

Today there are over 23,000 children in integrated schools.

There are currently 65 integrated schools, 20 are colleges (age 11-18) and 45 are primary schools (age 4-11). In addition, there are 19 integrated playgroups/nurseries for 3 and 4 year olds.

Independent opinion polls and surveys have always demonstrated a far greater demand for integrated school places than are currently provided. A majority of people continually express their preference for mixed religion schooling (around 70%). Even allowing for opinion polls to express more moderate opinion, the gap between desire and supply is vast.

Parents create integrated schools, not government. Parents have either set up new schools on 'greenfield' sites or they have voted by parental ballot to 'transform' an existing school into an integrated school. Approximately one third of all integrated schools are schools that transformed to integrated status.

Integrated schools seek to provide an inclusive and integrated ethos in the school as well as a religious and cultural mix of pupils from different backgrounds. Catholic children are supported and prepared for the sacraments. Protestant children undertake bible studies. Other world religions are also explored and celebrated. Integrated schools are not secular and encourage participation of different faiths in school life and festivals, as well as respecting those children of no religion.

Many integrated schools also have a 'social class mix' as well as religious mix – on average around 23% of children are eligible for free school meals.

There is considerable independent evidence demonstrating that integrated education makes a positive contribution to social attitudes, intergroup contact and friendship across the community divide.

Our Vision

A Northern Ireland where, increasingly, children from different traditions learn and play together at school, helping to build a society where there is respect and celebration, not fear, of religious and cultural diversity.

The Integrated Education Fund (IEF) shares the vision, held by the overwhelming majority of people in Northern Ireland, of a united community and a shared future. Many believe that more integration and mixing between communities are essential to building a better and more reconciled society.

67% of people want more integrated education (LucidTalk 2018) - where children from Protestant, Catholic, other faith backgrounds and none, are educated together in the same schools and where the symbols, ethos and traditions of the entire community are valued and respected.

The IEF sees the development of more integrated education in a reformed education system as an essential ingredient of this future –a system which also ensures that young people, including newcomer pupils, LGBTQ pupils, and pupils with additional needs, feel confident and welcome in the school environment. The IEF wants an education system which fully prepares its young people to contribute positively to a modern democracy and be successful citizens in an increasingly complex global society.

The aspiration of parents for more integration must be acted upon. To achieve this needs meaningful reform of the way education is planned, managed and delivered. There have been too many well intentioned projects and minor adjustments which do not sufficiently impact on the core nature of Northern Ireland's archaic, segregated system of schools.

Integration works for everybody.
The education system needs to change.

Where We Want To Be: Integrated and Effective

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

ED-17-0431-F-003329

1. Social Benefit: Positive Attitudes

Independent research indicates that children who attend integrated or mixed religion schools are more likely to have positive social attitudes to, and have more friendships with, pupils with a different background to their own.

Integrated schools are more likely to reflect the makeup of society at large, thus helping to prepare children for life after school where many are likely to work and socialise in a mixed environment whether in third level education or employment.

2. Educational Benefit: Preparation for Life

The development of integrated schools has demonstrated that people from all religious, cultural and social backgrounds can work, learn and play together, successfully. It has contributed to the growing acceptance that learning together can enhance an educational experience, adding value to a child's education.

This is not just evidenced by integrated schools. Schools of all types have sought to engage in cross community projects and shared education for decades, because of the very benefits they believe it can bring.

3. Economic Benefit: Effective and Efficient

Maintaining separate school systems based on religious or cultural background comes at a high price for government and many local communities. Having too many schools with too few pupils can make ineffective and inefficient use of resources and put these limited resources under further budgetary pressure. More children attending the same schools which respect and celebrate all traditions will help alleviate some of these pressures.

Moreover, a school system based more on integration would eventually reduce the need for external charitable funding as integration would be mainstreamed, and cross community work would no longer be an 'add on'; it would be an integral part of every school day.

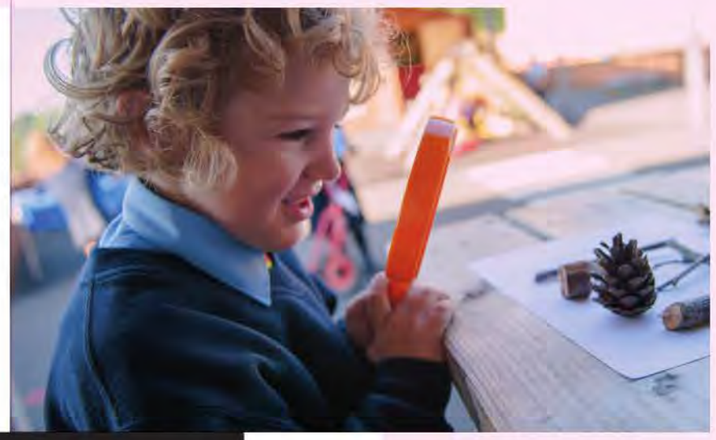
How Can We Make Change Happen?



1. Empowering Parents

The majority of parents in Northern Ireland aspire to integrated education.

Parents want to send their children to what they believe are the 'best schools'.

However, would any school perform less well if it welcomed, and included pupils, teachers and governors from different religious and cultural backgrounds?

Most parents think not, but do not know how they can become involved in creating such a positive change. Even fewer know that legislation allows parents to initiate a process of change in their school, and that almost any school is able to transform to integrated status.

25 schools have already successfully transformed, a number of which are the fastest growing schools in Northern Ireland.

The 'Integrate My School' initiative of the IEF is an innovative way for parents to register their support for integrated status for their child's school.

'Integrate My School' has been created to enable parents to gain information and declare their support whilst providing confidentiality and anonymity in the process.

When 20% of parents from the same school register then, by law, their school must at least consider transforming to integrated status and hold a secret ballot of parents. Schools can only transform with parental support and approval.

Hundreds of parents have already declared their support and there are schools across Northern Ireland of all management types exploring transformation, including Catholic, Controlled and Grammar.

Education planning and provision in Northern Ireland must engage not only with existing education providers and their sectoral bodies, but also with local communities. Local community groups and organisations have an important role to play in our society and are often well placed in understanding the needs of a local area.

To best reflect the needs of communities, education planners need to implement an independent consultation and audit to measure demand for the type of schools in any given area.

The IEF, working with the Education Authority and other education sectors, has invested in piloting a number of local area based consultations and audits across Northern Ireland. This work provides an evidence based approach which we want to see refined and adopted as part of any area based planning process.

The IEF aims to:

Increase awareness among parents of how they can make change happen

Increase the number of parents registering their support for 'Integrate My School'

Increase the level of engagement, awareness and support for integrated education solutions amongst local community groups

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

ED-17-0431-F-003331

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

2. Empowering Schools

The IEF and the Northern Ireland Council for Integrated Education (NICIE) will support any school in Northern Ireland embarking on the journey to integrated status.

The Department of Education (DE) has a statutory duty to "encourage and facilitate" integrated education and, following a successful legal challenge by Drumragh Integrated College in 2014, now "needs to be alive to this duty at every level, including the strategic".

New guidance from the DE published in 2017 and entitled Integration Works provides a positive and encouraging framework for all schools seeking to transform.

NICIE will provide additional advice and practical support for any school seeking integrated status.

The IEF will provide further support through a focused grant programme which will provide financial assistance to schools exploring and embarking on transformation.

Integrated schools do not receive any additional funding from the DE simply for being integrated. The IEF will continue to support all integrated schools in their development, with particular regard to those integrated schools increasing their enrolments in response to demand. Growth brings with it many challenges and the IEF is often needed to pump prime this growth through the provision of additional teaching resources, equipment and even accommodation until such time as the DE provides the necessary funding.

An integrated ethos does not happen by simply having a mix of pupils. Schools need to continually consider ways to deliver integration in practice. They need to not only reflect on but also develop their practice to ensure all pupils, staff and governors feel welcome and their identity is celebrated, irrespective of their cultural or religious background.

The IEF aims to:

Encourage all schools to consider the new Department of Education guidance Integration Works and support them on their transformation journey to integrated status

Support growth in existing integrated schools to enable parents to access an integrated education for their child

Strengthen ethos by supporting work in integrated schools that celebrates diversity

3. Effecting Policy Change

The IEF wants to see a day when it is no longer needed. That will only happen when integrated education is adequately planned for and the parental demand for it is being met. To bring this day closer we need to continually work with policy makers, influencers, politicians and government. To answer the widespread desire for integrated education, we need to see a government strategy with ambitious targets to grow the numbers of pupils in integrated schools. This strategy needs to be reflected in education planning and in a commitment to reform the structure of the education system.

The 2016 Independent Review of Integrated Education, commissioned by the Minister of Education, recommended a series of steps to support the growth and development of integrated education - adopting these steps would go some way to progressing the IEF vision of the future education system.

To contribute to a more united community and to ensure the most efficient use of the resources available in education the Government must commit to developing integrated education through a growth strategy, major structural change and other specific measures.

Growth Strategy

- The Government should set a target to increase the percentage of pupils in integrated schools from 7% to 10% by 2021, and to 30% by 2031 and plan to meet it.
- The Government plan should include strategic use of the £500m Stormont House Agreement Funding for capital development of shared and integrated education.
- The Education Authority should make integrated education the priority focus of the area planning process where there is clear demand. Planning teams should work with communities and challenge vested interests to ensure such a focus.
- There should be a presumption that any new schools to be established should be integrated, subject to community consultation.

Structural Change

- There are currently two separate statutory planning authorities for education provision in Northern Ireland (the Education Authority and the Council for Catholic Maintained Schools). There should be one single authority for the administration and planning of education.
- The DE should develop and introduce a single model of governance for all schools in Northern Ireland, representative of the wider community and of a range of skills and perspectives.
- The Government should end the duplication and segregation of initial teacher training and establish a single teacher training system open to students of all religions and none.

Other Specific Measures

- The 'Section 75' non-discrimination provisions of the Northern Ireland Act (1998) should be extended to cover all schools.
- Fair employment legislation should be extended to cover the recruitment of teachers.
- Equality and inclusivity should become issues considered in the process of inspection of schools.
- Integrated education should be a significant consideration in the planning of new housing developments, and the Department for Communities and the Department of Education should establish a collaborative, strategic approach to mixed housing and integrated education.

The IEF aims to:

Engage with policy makers, political leaders and government to present the case for building a quality education system based on greater integration

Hundreds of parents have already declared their support and there are schools across Northern Ireland of all management types exploring transformation, including Catholic, Controlled and Grammar.

Education planning and provision in Northern Ireland must engage not only with existing education providers and their sectoral bodies, but also with local communities. Local community groups and organisations have an important role to play in our society and are often well placed in understanding the needs of a local area.

To best reflect the needs of communities, education planners need to implement an independent consultation and audit to measure demand for the type of schools in any given area.

The IEF, working with the Education Authority and other education sectors, has invested in piloting a number of local area based consultations and audits across Northern Ireland. This work provides an evidence based approach which we want to see refined and adopted as part of any area based planning process.

The IEF aims to:

Increase awareness among parents of how they can make change happen

Increase the number of parents registering their support for 'Integrate My School'

Increase the level of engagement, awareness and support for integrated education solutions amongst local community groups

2. Empowering Schools

The IEF and the Northern Ireland Council for Integrated Education (NICIE) will support any school in Northern Ireland embarking on the journey to integrated status.

The Department of Education (DE) has a statutory duty to "encourage and facilitate" integrated education and, following a successful legal challenge by Drumragh Integrated College in 2014, now "needs to be alive to this duty at every level, including the strategic".

New guidance from the DE published in 2017 and entitled Integration Works provides a positive and encouraging framework for all schools seeking to transform.

NICIE will provide additional advice and practical support for any school seeking integrated status.

The IEF will provide further support through a focused grant programme which will provide financial assistance to schools exploring and embarking on transformation.

Integrated schools do not receive any additional funding from the DE simply for being integrated. The IEF will continue to support all integrated schools in their development, with particular regard to those integrated schools increasing their enrolments in response to demand. Growth brings with it many challenges and the IEF is often needed to pump prime this growth through the provision of additional teaching resources, equipment and even accommodation until such time as the DE provides the necessary funding.

An integrated ethos does not happen by simply having a mix of pupils. Schools need to continually consider ways to deliver integration in practice. They need to not only reflect on but also develop their practice to ensure all pupils, staff and governors feel welcome and their identity is celebrated, irrespective of their cultural or religious background.

The IEF aims to:

Encourage all schools to consider the new Department of Education guidance Integration Works and support them on their transformation journey to integrated status

Support growth in existing integrated schools to enable parents to access an integrated education for their child

Strengthen ethos by supporting work in integrated schools that celebrates diversity

3. Effecting Policy Change

The IEF wants to see a day when it is no longer needed. That will only happen when integrated education is adequately planned for and the parental demand for it is being met. To bring this day closer we need to continually work with policy makers, influencers, politicians and government. To answer the widespread desire for integrated education, we need to see a government strategy with ambitious targets to grow the numbers of pupils in integrated schools. This strategy needs to be reflected in education planning and in a commitment to reform the structure of the education system.

The 2016 Independent Review of Integrated Education, commissioned by the Minister of Education, recommended a series of steps to support the growth and development of integrated education - adopting these steps would go some way to progressing the IEF vision of the future education system.

To contribute to a more united community and to ensure the most efficient use of the resources available in education the Government must commit to developing integrated education through a growth strategy, major structural change and other specific measures.

Growth Strategy

- The Government should set a target to increase the percentage of pupils in integrated schools from 7% to 10% by 2021, and to 30% by 2031 and plan to meet it.
- The Government plan should include strategic use of the £500m Stormont House Agreement Funding for capital development of shared and integrated education.
- The Education Authority should make integrated education the priority focus of the area planning process where there is clear demand. Planning teams should work with communities and challenge vested interests to ensure such a focus.
- There should be a presumption that any new schools to be established should be integrated, subject to community consultation.

Structural Change

- There are currently two separate statutory planning authorities for education provision in Northern Ireland (the Education Authority and the Council for Catholic Maintained Schools). There should be one single authority for the administration and planning of education.
- The DE should develop and introduce a single model of governance for all schools in Northern Ireland, representative of the wider community and of a range of skills and perspectives.
- The Government should end the duplication and segregation of initial teacher training and establish a single teacher training system open to students of all religions and none.

Other Specific Measures

- The 'Section 75' non-discrimination provisions of the Northern Ireland Act (1998) should be extended to cover all schools.
- Fair employment legislation should be extended to cover the recruitment of teachers.
- Equality and inclusivity should become issues considered in the process of inspection of schools.
- Integrated education should be a significant consideration in the planning of new housing developments, and the Department for Communities and the Department of Education should establish a collaborative, strategic approach to mixed housing and integrated education.

The IEF aims to:

Engage with policy makers, political leaders and government to present the case for building a quality education system based on greater integration

Dear Colleague,

Per your interest, please feel free to join Maureen McLaughlin and me for a meeting with Baroness May Blood and others from Northern Ireland to learn about the Integrated Education Movement in Northern Ireland.

As noted in the attached document: "Parents create integrated schools, not government. Integrated schools seek to provide an inclusive and integrated ethos in the school as well as a religious and cultural mix of pupils from different backgrounds. Catholic children are supported and prepared for the sacraments. Protestant children undertake bible studies. Other world religions are also explored and celebrated. Integrated schools are not secular and encourage participation of different faiths in school life and festivals, as well as respecting those children of no religion."

Feel free to forward this to other ED colleagues who you think may have an interest in this topic. If necessary, I am happy to arrange for a larger room to accommodate interest. However, please note that an RSVP (via Outlook) is necessary.

Baroness May Blood Profile

May Blood grew up in a working-class area of Belfast, the richness of family life and strong sense of community more than compensating for the lack of material possessions. At the age of fourteen she became a mill worker and eventually got involved in the trade union movement, struggling to improve working conditions and advance the role of women.

The advent of the Troubles in Northern Ireland was a deeply traumatic experience for her. Brought up in a 'mixed' community she watched in disbelief and horror as that community disintegrated under the impact of inter-communal violence. She became increasingly involved in grassroots community work and an active participant in the developing `peace process'.

In 1999 in recognition of her years of trade union and community endeavors, May Blood was offered a life peerage and a seat in the House of Lords. Her initial response was to decline the offer, for to her the House of Lords was a place where rich old men sat around and slept all day, a place far removed from the everyday realities of working-class Belfast. Nevertheless, she took her seat, hoping that, as 'Baroness May Blood', she could advance the causes she holds so dear.

She has lived to see the end of the Troubles, but a society still deeply divided and one still needing people with her undiminished energy and commitment.

May is the Campaign Chair of the Integrated Education Fund in Northern Ireland, a position she has held since 2002. She has helped to raise over £20 million to support the development and growth of integrated schools where children of all faiths or none are educated together in an environment where religious and cultural diversity is celebrated and encouraged.

Integrated Education Campaign – Key Facts – Sept 2018

The Integrated Education Movement began in the 1970s when a group of parents came together to argue for change in our education system that would enable more Catholic and Protestant children to be educated together in the same schools. This campaigning group was called All Children Together. They did not set out to create a whole new sector of schools but to encourage existing schools to become integrated. When no schools emerged, they decided to establish their own such school.

The first integrated school, Lagan College, opened in 1981, with 28 pupils in a scout hut on the outskirts of Belfast with no initial government funding. Today that same school is fully government funded and educates over 1,100 children. It is also the most oversubscribed school in Northern Ireland.

The Integrated Education Fund, established in 1992, has contributed more than £25 million in grants to support the growth and development of integrated education.

Since 1998, and the launch of the Integrated Education Fund's first 10 Year Development Plan, the number of integrated schools has grown from 45 to 65, and the provision of places in integrated schools has grown from 3% to 7% of the school population.

Today there are over 23,000 children in integrated schools.

There are currently 65 integrated schools, 20 are colleges (age 11-18) and 45 are primary schools (age 4-11). In addition, there are 19 integrated playgroups/nurseries for 3 and 4 year olds.

Independent opinion polls and surveys have always demonstrated a far greater demand for integrated school places than are currently provided. A majority of people continually express their preference for mixed religion schooling (around 70%). Even allowing for opinion polls to express more moderate opinion, the gap between desire and supply is vast.

Parents create integrated schools, not government. Parents have either set up new schools on 'greenfield' sites or they have voted by parental ballot to 'transform' an existing school into an integrated school. Approximately one third of all integrated schools are schools that transformed to integrated status.

Integrated schools seek to provide an inclusive and integrated ethos in the school as well as a religious and cultural mix of pupils from different backgrounds. Catholic children are supported and prepared for the sacraments. Protestant children undertake bible studies. Other world religions are also explored and celebrated. Integrated schools are not secular and encourage participation of different faiths in school life and festivals, as well as respecting those children of no religion.

Many integrated schools also have a 'social class mix' as well as religious mix – on average around 23% of children are eligible for free school meals.

There is considerable independent evidence demonstrating that integrated education makes a positive contribution to social attitudes, intergroup contact and friendship across the community divide.

Our Vision

A Northern Ireland where, increasingly, children from different traditions learn and play together at school, helping to build a society where there is respect and celebration, not fear, of religious and cultural diversity.

The Integrated Education Fund (IEF) shares the vision, held by the overwhelming majority of people in Northern Ireland, of a united community and a shared future. Many believe that more integration and mixing between communities are essential to building a better and more reconciled society.

67% of people want more integrated education (LucidTalk 2018) - where children from Protestant, Catholic, other faith backgrounds and none, are educated together in the same schools and where the symbols, ethos and traditions of the entire community are valued and respected.

The IEF sees the development of more integrated education in a reformed education system as an essential ingredient of this future –a system which also ensures that young people, including newcomer pupils, LGBTQ pupils, and pupils with additional needs, feel confident and welcome in the school environment. The IEF wants an education system which fully prepares its young people to contribute positively to a modern democracy and be successful citizens in an increasingly complex global society.

The aspiration of parents for more integration must be acted upon. To achieve this needs meaningful reform of the way education is planned, managed and delivered. There have been too many well intentioned projects and minor adjustments which do not sufficiently impact on the core nature of Northern Ireland's archaic, segregated system of schools.

Integration works for everybody.
The education system needs to change.

Where We Want To Be: Integrated and Effective

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

ED-17-0431-F-003359

1. Social Benefit: Positive Attitudes

Independent research indicates that children who attend integrated or mixed religion schools are more likely to have positive social attitudes to, and have more friendships with, pupils with a different background to their own.

Integrated schools are more likely to reflect the makeup of society at large, thus helping to prepare children for life after school where many are likely to work and socialise in a mixed environment whether in third level education or employment.

2. Educational Benefit: Preparation for Life

The development of integrated schools has demonstrated that people from all religious, cultural and social backgrounds can work, learn and play together, successfully. It has contributed to the growing acceptance that learning together can enhance an educational experience, adding value to a child's education.

This is not just evidenced by integrated schools. Schools of all types have sought to engage in cross community projects and shared education for decades, because of the very benefits they believe it can bring.

3. Economic Benefit: Effective and Efficient

Maintaining separate school systems based on religious or cultural background comes at a high price for government and many local communities. Having too many schools with too few pupils can make ineffective and inefficient use of resources and put these limited resources under further budgetary pressure. More children attending the same schools which respect and celebrate all traditions will help alleviate some of these pressures.

Moreover, a school system based more on integration would eventually reduce the need for external charitable funding as integration would be mainstreamed, and cross community work would no longer be an 'add on'; it would be an integral part of every school day.

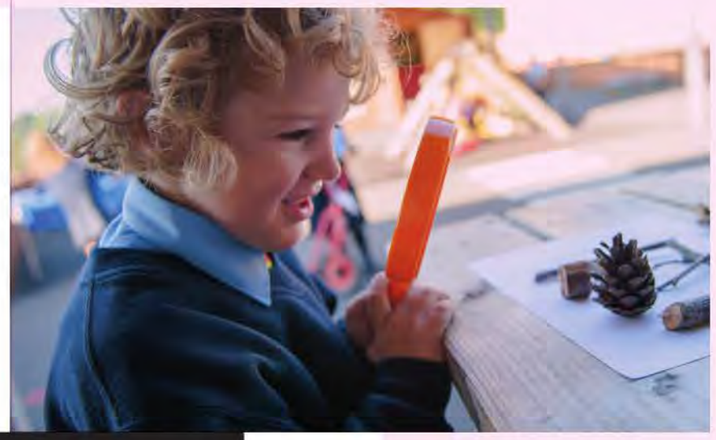
How Can We Make Change Happen?



1. Empowering Parents

The majority of parents in Northern Ireland aspire to integrated education.

Parents want to send their children to what they believe are the 'best schools'.

However, would any school perform less well if it welcomed, and included pupils, teachers and governors from different religious and cultural backgrounds?

Most parents think not, but do not know how they can become involved in creating such a positive change. Even fewer know that legislation allows parents to initiate a process of change in their school, and that almost any school is able to transform to integrated status.

25 schools have already successfully transformed, a number of which are the fastest growing schools in Northern Ireland.

The 'Integrate My School' initiative of the IEF is an innovative way for parents to register their support for integrated status for their child's school.

'Integrate My School' has been created to enable parents to gain information and declare their support whilst providing confidentiality and anonymity in the process.

When 20% of parents from the same school register then, by law, their school must at least consider transforming to integrated status and hold a secret ballot of parents. Schools can only transform with parental support and approval.

Hundreds of parents have already declared their support and there are schools across Northern Ireland of all management types exploring transformation, including Catholic, Controlled and Grammar.

Education planning and provision in Northern Ireland must engage not only with existing education providers and their sectoral bodies, but also with local communities. Local community groups and organisations have an important role to play in our society and are often well placed in understanding the needs of a local area.

To best reflect the needs of communities, education planners need to implement an independent consultation and audit to measure demand for the type of schools in any given area.

The IEF, working with the Education Authority and other education sectors, has invested in piloting a number of local area based consultations and audits across Northern Ireland. This work provides an evidence based approach which we want to see refined and adopted as part of any area based planning process.

The IEF aims to:

Increase awareness among parents of how they can make change happen

Increase the number of parents registering their support for 'Integrate My School'

Increase the level of engagement, awareness and support for integrated education solutions amongst local community groups

2. Empowering Schools

The IEF and the Northern Ireland Council for Integrated Education (NICIE) will support any school in Northern Ireland embarking on the journey to integrated status.

SUBJECT: Recommendation regarding New York's Waiver Request for Using Recently Arrived English Learners' Assessment Results for Accountability

Question

Should the U.S. Department of Education (the Department) approve the New York State Education Department's (NYSED) request for a waiver of section 1111(b)(3)(A) of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act of 1965 (ESEA), as amended by the Every Student Succeeds Act (ESSA), to permit NYSED not to include recently arrived English learners' (EL) results on the statewide reading/language arts assessment in the State's accountability system until year three of their enrollment in U.S. schools?

Recommendation

Option 2: Deny NYSED's request not to include recently arrived ELs' results on the statewide reading/language arts assessments until year three of their enrollment in U.S. schools.

Background and Analysis

On September 18, 2017, NYSED requested a waiver, for four years, of sections 1111(b)(3)(A), 1111(b)(2)(B) and 1111(b)(2)(B)(vii) of the ESEA with regard to recently arrived ELs', to not include their results on the statewide reading/language arts assessment in the State's accountability system until year three of their enrollment in U.S. schools. The 120-day period for review of this waiver ends on January 16, 2018. NYSED requests the waiver to:

- In Year 1 of their enrollment, exclude recently arrived ELs from participation in the New York State reading/language arts assessment;

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

- In Year 2 of their enrollment, assess such students on the New York State reading/language arts assessment and exclude their results from applying towards the achievement and growth indicators in the State's annual accountability system; and
- In Year 3 of their enrollment, assess such students on the New York State reading/language arts assessment and include their results in both the achievementindicator and the growth indicator in the State's annual accountability system.

NYSED also requested to count the students in the categories above toward the participation rate when determining whether a school or district has met the 95 percent assessment participation requirement. This waiver would apply to ELs enrolled in Grades 3-8 who are within their first three years of enrollment in U.S. schools.

NYSED argues that, based on data that show that 73.6 percent of all ELs within their first three years of enrollment receive a proficiency score at Level 1 on the reading/language arts assessment, the assessment does not serve as a meaningful measurement of reading/language arts achievement or progress for ELs in the first or second year of their enrollment in U.S. public schools. NYSED has found a positive, moderate statistical correlation between student performance on the State's English language proficiency test, the New York State English as a Second Language Achievement Test (NYSESLAT), and the State's reading/language arts test. While NYSED recognizes that the NYSESLAT alone cannot fully measure ELs' performance against the statewide reading/language arts standards, NYSED contends that it serves as an additional predictor of recently arrived ELs' potential to achieve proficiency on the State's reading/language arts assessments during the period of time that NYSED proposes not to assess ELs or include in the accountability system the performance of recently arrived ELs on the reading/language arts assessment.

NYSED also argues that its request will reduce testing burden for ELs. However, NYSED's proposal does not result in any reduced testing – the students would be exempted from one administration of the reading/language arts test (which is permitted under option 1 in the statute) and would be assessed on the reading/language arts assessment in years two and three. NYSED's request focused on accountability exemptions, not testing exemptions, not currently permitted by the ESEA.

Under ESEA section 1111(b)(3)(A), a State may choose to: (i) exclude recently arrived ELs from one administration of the reading/language arts assessment and exclude such ELs' results for the first year of enrollment; or (ii) assess and report the performance of recently arrived ELs on the reading/language arts assessment in each year of enrollment and for the purposes of accountability exclude assessment results for the first year of enrollment, include a measure of student growth on these assessments in the second year of enrollment, and include students' proficiency results in the accountability system beginning in the third year of enrollment. In addition, the Department determined that, consistent with the two statutory options, a State may also choose to apply both the first and second options to different subgroups of recently arrived ELs depending on their characteristics. NYSED's proposal does not fall under any of the currently allowed flexibilities and the State has not demonstrated why none of these options would help to address its concerns.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

In addition, ESEA section 1111(b)(2)(B)(vii) requires that each State have in place assessments that adequately provide for the inclusion of all students, including ELs, and provide appropriate accommodations to measure academic achievement that yields accurate data based on the academic content. States should have the means to test students at all performance levels and should be able to provide standard accommodations which are listed on in 1111(b)(2)(B)(vii)(III). ESEA section 1111(b)(2)(B)(i)(II) and 34 C.F.R. § 200.2(b)(1)(ii) continue the requirements to test all students.

The Department denied a request from NYSED on June 5, 2015, that would have permitted the State to: (1) exempt ELs who have attended schools in the U.S. for less than two years from taking the State's reading/language arts assessment and from using the results of this assessment for accountability purposes; and (2) use the progress that a subset of ELs make on the State's English language proficiency assessment for accountability purposes. The Department maintained that, outside the limited exception allowed at that time (under regulations promulgated in 2007) a State could exempt a recently arrived EL from the first administration of the State's reading/language arts assessment and exclude the results of recently arrived ELs from the accountability determinations in mathematics and reading/language arts, if taken), States are required to assess all students on academic content in the tested grades and include their results in accountability determinations.

Public Comments

NYSED provided the public with opportunity to comment on this waiver request, as required, and provided the comments it recieved to the Department. Of 17 public comments received, all were in favor of the waiver, many in agreement with NYSED's argument that recently arrived ELs should have additional time in U.S. schools before their assessment results are included in the accountability system. Additionally a national group, the Leadership Conference on Civil and Human Rights, opposed this waiver, stating that it would violate the spirit and intent of ESSA because all students should be tested and accounted for and NYSED seeks to further exclude ELs from the accountability system for three years. The group notes that there is sufficient flexibility under ESSA that NYSED could use.

Options

Option 1: Approve NYSED's request not to include recently arrived ELs' results on the reading/language arts assessments until they have been enrolled in U.S. schools for three years.

+ Allows recently arrived ELs more time to demonstrate meaningful English language proficiency progress before using the students' reading/language arts assessment scores for accountability purposes; assuming NYSED will not provide EL accommodations or implement reading/language arts assessments in native languages, this would avoid the invalidity of test results
- Not holding schools accountable for the achievement of recently arrived ELs until their third year of enrollment in U.S. schools could result in lack of attention to their needs until accountability applies
- National advocacy groups will object
- Removes the incentive for LEAs and schools to improve instruction or work with students whose scores won't be accounted for; removes incentive to teach ELs the content of the reading/language arts standards

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

- Removes incentive for the State to provide reading/language arts assessments in native languages or to otherwise provide accommodations for ELs on the reading/language arts assessment to gain information on what students know/can do in this content area, and on students' literacy levels
- Establishes a precedent that many other States will likely want to request

Option 2: Deny NYSED's request not to include recently arrived ELs' results on the reading/language arts assessments until they have been enrolled in U.S. schools for three years.

+ Upholds ESEA's balance between requirements and flexibilities for recently arrived ELs
+ Assures that ELs have access to the general curriculum and that schools are held accountable for their achievement
+ Ensures that there are data on the performance of recently arrived ELs to inform instruction and support their individual needs
- Would invoke the due process requirements for denying a waiver request, including permitting NYSED to make changes and resubmit with the eventual need to offer a hearing

Recommendation

Deny NYSED's request not to include recently arrived English learners' results on the reading/language arts assessments until they have been enrolled in U.S. schools for three years.

SUBJECT: Recommendation regarding New York's Assessment Waiver Request for Grade Seven Mathematics and Grade Eight Science

Questions

Should the U.S. Department of Education (the Department) approve the New York State Education Department's (NYSED) request for a waiver of sections 1111(b)(1)(B) and 1111(b)(2)(B)(i) of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act of 1965 (ESEA), as amended by the Every Student Succeeds Act (ESSA), to permit a student who completes advanced high school mathematics or science assessment coursework in middle school to be assessed with the corresponding high school assessment in place of the mathematics or science assessment for the grade in which the student is enrolled? Should the Department approve NYSED's request to provide full credit for such students who score at performance level 2 or additional credit for such students who score at performance level 3 or 4 in its accountability system?

Recommendation

Option 2: Approve NYSED's request to permit students who complete advanced high school mathematics coursework in grade 7 or advanced high school science assessment coursework in grade 8 to be assessed with the corresponding high school assessment in place of the grade level mathematics or science assessment. Do not approve NYSED to provide full credit for such students who score at performance level 2 or additional credit for such students who score at performance level 3 or 4 in its accountability system.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

Background and Analysis

On September 18, 2017, NYSED requested a waiver of sections 1111(b)(1)(B) and 1111(b)(2)(B)(i) of the ESEA, as amended by the ESSA, to allow students enrolled in grade 7 (or other students with the permission of the Commissioner) who complete advanced mathematics coursework to take a high school level Regents examination in mathematics in lieu of the grade 7 mathematics test and for students enrolled in grade 8 (or other stuents with the permission of the Commissioner) who complete advanced science coursework to take a high school level Regents examination in science in lieu of the Grade 8 Intermediate-Level science test. NYSED committed in its request to require these students to take a more advanced Regents examination in mathematics or science at the high school level. Further, NYSED requested to use such students' results on the Regents examinations when making participation and accountability determinations at the middle school level. Specifically, NYSED requested to:

- Provide full credit on the State's annual accountability system for student results at a performance level of 2 on a Regents examination when determining Performance Indices at the middle school level (note: level 2 is not the proficient level on the assessment; this request would result in a student scoring "partially proficient" to be considered proficient for the purposes of the State's accountability system);
- Provide additional credit on the State's accountability system for student results at a performance level of 3 or 4 on a Regents examination when determining Performance Indices at the middle school level; and
- Count students' participation in the Regents examination when determining whether a school or district has met the 95 percent participation requirement at the middle school level.

NYSED also requested, for students enrolled in grade 7 who take both a Regents examination and the grade 7 mathematics test (and the results of students enrolled in grade 8 who take both a Regents examination and the grade 8 science test), to use the results of the grade 7 mathematics (or grade 8 science) assessment when determining the Performance Index at the middle school level in the State's accountability system. NYSED requests all portions of this waiver for a period of four years.

NYSED's rationale for requesting the waiver is that it will reduce burden on the State's high-achieving students by not requiring them to be double-tested and that it encourages the offering of advanced coursework to middle school students. In support of its request, NYSED provided data showing the historical performance of students who were at the middle school level permitted to take advanced mathematics and science coursework and the corresponding Regents examinations.

In addition, on a phone call with NYSED on December 14, 2017, NYSED stated that it was granted this flexibility, and has continued to follow this practice, under its ESEA Flexibility request. NYSED's approved 2015 ESEA flexibility renewal request (page 92) does indicate that NYSED intended to consider a seventh or eighth grade student earning a passing score of 65 or higher on the Regents Algebra examination as having demonstrated "accelerated performance" and to incorporate such performance "into the Performance Index as equivalent to Level 3, which earns a school or district 'full credit' for a student's performance." The ESEA flexibility request expired on August 1, 2016. Further, through discussions among Department staff involved in policy decisions related to ESEA flexibility, it is OSS' understanding that the Department likely did not intend to approve this element of NYSED's plan explicitly, although its presence in NYSED's approved request indicates it was inadvertently approved. NYSED contends that not allowing its schools to continue this practice would serve as a disincentive for schools to offer, and for middle school students to take, high school coursework. Approving NYSED's request would result in students in middle school being held to a lower achievement standard than high school students taking the same assessment.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

Public Comments

NYSED provided the public with opportunity to comment on this waiver request, as required, and provided those comments to the Department. Of 15 public comments received, all were in favor of the waiver because it would reduce the burden of double-testing. The New York City Department of Education offered a few recommendations in terms of using growth scores but not reporting them as well as using the Advanced Placement and International Baccalaureate exams, and not just Regents examinations, to meet high school accountability requirements.

Options

Option 1: Approve NYSED's request to permit a student who completes advanced high school mathematics or science assessment coursework in middle school to be assessed with the corresponding high school assessment in place of the mathematics or science assessment for the grade in which the student is enrolled and approve NYSED to provide full credit for such students who score at performance level 2 and additional credit for such students who score at performance level 3 or 4 in its accountability system.

+ Eliminates double testing of students in grades 7 and 8 who are taking advanced mathematics/science coursework
+ Supports providing advanced mathematics and science coursework in middle school
+ Provides greatest flexibility to NYSED and its districts to develop assessments and accountability systems that support advanced students
- Would set a precedent that a State may hold different students to different achievement standards for the same assessment (the Department has never knowingly approved this – other states would certainly propose similar requests)
- Would result in the State not holding all students to the same, high standard

Option 2: Approve NYSED's request to permit a student who completes advanced high school mathematics or science assessment coursework in middle school to be assessed with the corresponding high school assessment in place of the mathematics or science assessment for the grade in which the student is enrolled, but do not approve NYSED to provide full credit for such students who score at performance level 2 and additional credit for such students who score at performance level 3 or 4 in its accountability system.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

+ Eliminates double testing of students in grades 7 and 8 who are taking advanced mathematics coursework, thereby inventivizing the State to encourage more students to take advanced courses earlier in middle school
+ Consistent with the statutory requirement that has never been waived that the State hold all students to the same, high achievement standards
- Could disincentivize schools from offering advanced high school coursework at the middle school level because they might earn fewer points in the accountability system as a result of students taking, but not earning proficient scores on, Regents examinations
- Inconsistent with practice NYSED was inadvertently granted permission to use under ESEA flexibility (although OSS believes that particular flexibility was not knowingly granted the State)

Option 3: Deny NYSED's request.

- Inconsistent with past precedent (i.e., the Department just approved MO and NJ to do this in December 2017, continuing a trend that was permitted in previous years) to allow States to permit middle school students to take advanced high school coursework and assessments without double-testing
- Does not support providing advanced mathematics/science coursework at the middle school level

Recommendation

Option 2: Based on input from the OSS Assessment Content Team (including OSS' Assessment Lead and the Office of General Counsel), approve the testing exemption but do not permit the State to apply a different achievement standard when including the results in the accountability system.

Update – January 2, 2018

On a phone call with NYSED on January 2, 2018, the Department expressed its concerns regarding the accountability portion of NYSED's waiver request and NYSED indicated its willingness to rescind that portion of the request. As a result, we recommend approving the remainder of NYSED's request, to permit a student who completes advanced high school mathematics or science assessment coursework in middle school to be assessed with the corresponding high school assessment in place of the mathematics or science assessment for the grade in which the student is enrolled.

SUBJECT: Recommendation regarding New York's Assessment Waiver Request for Below Grade-Level Testing for Students with Disabilities

Question

Should the U.S. Department of Education (the Department) approve the New York State Education Department's (NYSED) request for a waiver of sections 1111(b)(1)(B)(ii) and 1111(b)(2)(B)(i)(I) of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act of 1965 (ESEA), as amended by the Every Student Succeeds Act (ESSA), to permit NYSED to test students with disabilities who are enrolled in Grades 4-8 using reading/language arts and mathematics assessments not more than two grade-levels below chronological grade level?

Recommendation

Do not approve NYSED's request.

Background and Analysis

On September 18, 2017, NYSED requested a waiver, for four years, to allow school districts to administer Grades 3-8 assessments in reading/language arts and mathematics at not more than two grade-levels below chronological grade-level to students with disabilities enrolled in Grades 4-8 "whose lack of chronological grade-level proficiency can be determined by local Committees on Special Education" and to use these results when making participation and accountability determinations at the elementary and middle school levels. Specifically, NYSED proposed to:

- Designate students who take these assessments at a performance level of 1 when determining the Performance Indices at the elementary and middle school levels;
- Count participation in the below grade-level assessments when determining whether a school or district has met the 95 percent assessment participation requirement; and
- For all students enrolled in Grades 6-8, require school districts to advance students' assessment levels by at least one grade-level in each subsequent year.

NYSED stated in its request that this would allow NYSED to more accurately measure the achievement levels of students with significant cognitive disabilities who are not eligible to participate in the statewide alternate assessment and "whose significant cognitive and intellectual disabilities preclude their meaningful participation in chronological grade-level instruction, even with accommodations, but who may be able to meet the state's learning standards over time." NYSED contends that this waiver will help school districts to make future instructional decisions for such students and to provide more accurate measurements of proficiency and growth for these students' districts and schools to apply towards the State's annual accountability system. NYSED contends that using regular statewide assessments to assess such students will not result in actionable information on student performance and that allowing for below-grade level testing would empower State and local decision-makers to develop their own strong systems for school improvements based upon evidence.

In order to apply this waiver, school districts would be required to determine that affected students will not be able to achieve a proficiency result above level 1 on grade-level statewide reading/language arts and mathematics assessments. NYSED commits to developing criteria that school districts would be required to use in the selection of students to be assessed below grade level (possible assurances are included in the waiver request) and notes that it estimates that the maximum percentage of students in Grades 4-8 who could potentially participate in instructional level testing would be .3 percent in reading/language arts and 1.4 percent in mathematics. NYSED also contends that its request is comparable to the type of testing that will be allowable under ESSA's provisions for computer adaptive assessments. However, section 1111(b)(2)(J)(i)(II)(aa) of ESSA does not allow for below grade-level testing; it requires that adaptive assessments measure each student's academic proficiency based on the challenging State academic standards for the student's grade level and growth toward such standards.

Section 1111(b)(2)(B)(i)(I) of the ESEA, as amended by the ESSA, requires that, with the exception of alternate assessments aligned to alternate academic achievement standards for students with the most significant cognitive disabilities, the assessments administered must be the same academic assessments used to measure the achievement of all public elementary and secondary students in the State. Current law does not permit below grade-level testing for any students. The Department has never approved such a waiver request under the ESEA and it undermines a core tenet of the ESEA – that all students are being held to the same, high standards (as defined by the State). The Department denied a similar request from NYSED on June 5, 2015, with the rationale that 34 C.F.R. § 200.6(a)(1)(i)(A)[1] required that the State

[1] Note that the 2015 denial references prior Title I assessment regulations. Current Title I, Part A regulations, published on December 8, 2016, maintain the same requirement.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

educational agency assess all students, including students with disabilities, against the content and achievement standards for the grades in which the students are enrolled. At that time, the Department indicated that it supports these requirements to ensure that teachers and parents of all students, including English learners and students with disabilities, have information on their students' proficiency and progress in reading/language arts and mathematics. Current Title I, Part A regulations maintain the requirement that the State educational agency assesss all students, including students with disabilities, against the content and achievement standards for the grades in which the students are enrolled (see 34 C.F.R. § 200.6(a)(1)).

In addition, this waiver of Title I requirements would put the State out of compliance with IDEA requirements (which may not be waived). IDEA section 612(a)(16)(A) provides that all children with disabilities must be included in all general State and district-wide assessment programs, including assessments described under section 1111 of the ESEA, with appropriate accommodations and alternate assessments, if necessary, as indicated in their respective IEPs. Under the ESEA and IDEA, the only permissible alternate assessments are alternate assessments aligned to alternate academic achievement standards for students with the most significant cognitive disabilities, which a State can administer if the State has adopted alternate academic achievement standards. To grant NYSED's waiver request would allow the State to create an additional type of alternate assessment for some students with disabilities, who are not students with the most significant cognitive disabilities, which is impermissible under IDEA because it would be creating different content standards and different achievement standards for some students.

Public Comments

NYSED provided the public with opportunity to comment on this waiver request, as required, and provided those comments to the Department. Of 20 public comments received, 14 were in favor of the waiver because it would allow students to be assessed based on their instructional level. The six comments in opposition to the waiver stated that the waiver is discriminatory because it lowers educational standards for students with disabilities and decreases accountability for schools that serve students with disabilities.

Additionally, two national groups, the Leadership Conference on Civil and Human Rights and the Advocates for Children of New York, opposed this waiver, stating that it would allow lower expectations for students with disabilities and lower standards for students that are capable of making academic progress with the appropriate educational supports and services. The Leadership Conference on Civil and Human Rights pointed out that current law requires students with disabilities to be assessed with an assessment aligned with the challenging State academic standards for the grade in which the student is enrolled.

Options

Option 1: Approve request to permit NYSED to test students with disabilities who are enrolled in Grades 4-8 using reading/language arts and mathematics assessments not more than two grade-levels below chronological grade level:

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

- Violates statutory requirement (section 1111(b)(2)(B)(i)(I)) that States must use the same academic assessments to measure the achievement of all public elementary and secondary schools in the State
- Permits NYSED to institutionalize lower expectations for a single subgroup of students (children with disabilities) through a four-year waiver from the requirement that all students (with the exception of only students with the most significant cognitive disabilities) be assessed with grade-level assessments
- Would negate a generation of progress in schools and communities to ensure all students, including students with disabilities, are held to high expectations and have equal access to educational opportunity
- If the Department granted NYSED this waiver, it is likely that many other States would also request this flexibility
- Would violate IDEA, which requires that States meet Title I, Part A assessment requirements (the IDEA requirements may not be waived)

Option 2: Deny the request to permit NYSED to test students with disabilities who are enrolled in Grades 4-8 using reading/language arts and mathematics assessments not more than two grade-levels below chronological grade level:

+ Requires NYSED to adhere to ESSA's requirement that all students be assessed with the same academic assessments, with the exception of students with the most significant cognitive disabilities who may be assessed with an alternate assessment aligned to alternate academic achievement standards
+ Affirms the Department's stance that all students, including students with disabilities, should be held to high expectations and deserve equal educational opportunities
- NYSED may perceive that the Department is discouraging districts and schools from providing supports for students with disabilities so that they can work at their own pace

Recommendation

Option 2: Based on input from the Office of Special Education Programs and the OSS Assessment Content Team (including OSS' Assessment Lead and Office of General Counsel), I recommend that the Department deny the request to permit NYSED to test students with disabilities who are enrolled in Grades 4-8 using reading/language arts and mathematics assessments not more than two grade-levels below chronological grade level.

SUBJECT: Recommendation regarding the Georgia Department of Education (GaDOE) Assessment Peer Review Outcome Determination

OVERVIEW

OSS conducted a peer review of GaDOE's assessment system in August, 2017. GaDOE submitted evidence regarding the components of its system of assessments used for:

- Reading/language arts (R/LA), mathematics and science general assessments in grades 3-8 (Georgia Milestones))
- R/LA, mathematics and science general assessments in high school (Georgia Milestones End-of-Course (EOC))
- R/LA, mathematics and science alternate assessments based on alternate academic achievement standards (AA-AAAS) in grades 3-8 and high school (Georgia Alternate Assessment (GAA))

SUMMARY OF PEER REVIEW AND DEPARTMENT STAFF ANALYSIS

Three peers reviewed GaDOE evidence over a two day period in August 2017. The specific findings and recommendations of this review are presented below. These findings are organized by the 30 critical elements as outlined in the "Peer Review of State Assessment Systems Non-Regulatory Guidance for States" (link to this document at: http://www2.ed.gov/policy/elsec/guid/assessguid15.pdf). Department staff followed up with GaDOE on each of these items (a summary of this follow up is provided at the end of this memo). After completion of the follow-up review, Department staff are recommending that GaDOE provide additional evidence in support of eight of the critical elements.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

CONCLUSIONS AND DISCUSSION

One issue impacting the outcome of this peer review was that assessment requirements for ESEA, as amended by the NCLB, were in effect through the end of the 2016-17 school year. The GaDOE peer review was conducted under the requirements of this statute. Beginning in the 2017-18 school year, the assessment requirements of the ESEA as amended by the Every Student Succeeds Act (ESSA) will apply to State assessments. There is significant overlap between the NCLB academic assessment requirements and the ESSA academic assessment requirements. However, there are four specific requirements of the ESSA that are not considered by the NCLB academic assessment peer review guidance criteria. Department staff conducted a targeted review of the evidence submitted by GaDOE as part of the August 2017 peer review. The purpose of this targeted review was to assess the GaDOE assessment system for compliance with the four specific ESSA requirements.

A summary of the targeted Department staff review of the GaDOE assessment system evidence (specifically, the Georgia Milestone and GAA assessments) shows that:

- For ESEA section 1111(a)(1)(A)—meaningful consultation: Did GaDOE, in developing the challenging academic standards and assessment systems and the English language proficiency (ELP) standards and assessment systems, conduct meaningful and timely consultation with State leaders, including the Governor, members of the State legislature, and State board of education, local educational agencies (including those located in rural areas), representatives of Indian tribes located in the State, teachers, principals, other school leaders, charter school leaders (if applicable), specialized instructional support personnel, paraprofessionals, administrators, other staff, and parents))?;
    - Yes. Department staff, in reviewing GaDOE evidence related to this requirement, found that GaDOE has demonstrated meaningful consultation in the development of the Georgia academic content standards consistent with the requirements under ESEA section 1111(a)(1)(A). In particular, Department staff note that the GaDOE academic content standards were publicly developed and adopted in conjunction with consultation among LEA personnel, the legislature, and the general public.
- For ESEA section 1111(b)(2)(B)(xiii)—accessibility of assessments: Did GaDOE support and enhance the accessibility of the Georgia Milestones and the GAA assessments through appropriate accommodations for students with disabilities, and, to the extent practicable, by incorporating principles of universal design for learning (UDL)?
    - Yes. Department staff, in reviewing GaDOE evidence related to this requirement, found that GaDOE has demonstrated that it supports the accessibility of the Georgia Milestone and GAA assessments consistent with the requirements under ESEA section 1111(a)(1)(A). Specifically, the Georgia Milestones and GAA assessments explicitly integrated principles of UDL within the overall assessment design as well as the specifications for developing assessment tasks and items.
- For 34 C.F.R. §§ 200.6(b)(3) and 200.6(f)(2)(i)—equal benefits for students participating in assessments with allowable accommodations: Did GaDOE ensure that accommodations for all required assessments do not deny children with disabilities or

English learners (ELs) the opportunity to participate in the assessment and any benefits from participation in the assessment?;

- Yes. Department staff, in reviewing GaDOE evidence related to this requirement, found that GaDOE has demonstrated that the Georgia Milestone and FAA assessments provide equal benefits for students who participate in assessments with allowable accommodations. Specifically, Department staff note that GaDOE reports scores for the Georgia Milestone and GAA assessments on the same scale for all students, regardless of whether or not the students participated in the assessments with accommodations. Individual score reports make no distinction between students who participate with accommodations and those participate without accommodations.

- For ESEA section 1111(b)(1)(E)—alternate academic achievement standards: Did GaDOE ensure that the State's alternate academic achievement standards for GAA reflect professional judgment as to the highest possible standards achievable by such students to now ensure that a student who meets the alternate academic achievement standards is on track to pursue postsecondary education or employment?
  - No. Department staff note that this requirement applies to the GAA in Georgia. A review of the evidence for the GaDOE alternate academic achievement standards found some evidence relative to this requirement, but sufficient evidence was not provided to conclude that GaDOE fully meets this requirement. Specifically, GaDOE does not have evidence that the alternate academic achievement standards ensure that a student who meets these standards is on track to pursue post-secondary education or employment.

Department staff recommends adding the result of this targeted review to the other list of items that resulted from the peer review of GaDOE's assessments.

Another cross-cutting issue identified in the GaDOE peer review centered around the State's use of portfolio based assessments. GaDOE uses a portfolio assessment design for the GAA. Portfolios are an AA-AAAS design used by several states (Georgia, Maine, Massachusetts, Puerto Rico and Virginia) for the assessment of children with the most significant cognitive disabilities. This is an assessment where a teacher collects a body of student work during the year (portfolio) related to the content standards for the student's grade and uses that to judge the student's mastery of the content. Under the assessment requirements of the ESEA as amended by NCLB, portfolios were permitted as a type of assessment that could be used. (That is, the statute was silent on this point and the Department permitted many States to use a portfolio assessment for its alternate assessment.) Under the assessment requirements of the ESEA as amended by ESSA, there is statutory language that can be interpreted to prohibit the sole use of a portfolio-based assessment. Specifically, section 1111(b)(2)(B)(vi) of the ESEA as amended by ESSA states that assessments must:

> "involve multiple up-to-date measures of student academic achievement, including measures that assess higher-order thinking skills and understanding, which may include measures of student academic growth and may be partially delivered in the form of portfolios [emphasis added], projects, or extended performance tasks;"

The related regulation on assessment requirements in 34 CFR 200.2(a)(7)(ii.) mirrors the statutory language to state that required assessments may:

> "Be partially delivered [emphasis added] in the form of portfolios, projects, or extended performance tasks"

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

The statute and regulations leave the decision about whether to use any of these formats up to each State. The statute and regulations also qualify the inclusion of these other formats with "partially." Thus, the question is whether the statute and regulations under ESSA mean that a State may not be allowed to have an entire assessment design (like the GAA) based upon a portfolio under the ESSA requirements.

There is no legislative history on what the new language regarding assessments based "partially" on portfolios means. In other words, did Congress mean to "prohibit" an assessment based entirely on portfolios; or did Congress mean to "authorize" portfolios, at least in part? Moreover, if a prohibition, it is not clear whether the prohibition applies to each specific assessment or to a State's whole assessment system (that is, can the State have an alternate assessment that is a portfolio that is part of the overall assessment system, provided other parts are not portfolios).

While we think there is an argument on both sides of this question, after consulting with OGC, we believe the argument for not allowing an assessment required under ESEA to be based entirely on a portfolio format is stronger given the literal language in section 1111(b)(2)(B)(vi) that qualifies that assessments may be partially delivered in the form of portfolio assessments. In discussions during negotiated rulemaking, the Department indicated that it believed the statute prohibited a State from incorporating a portfolio assessment in its entirety in its assessment system. Moreover, this interpretation supports prohibiting a standardized assessment practice that relies extensively on individual teacher/administrator judgment (as opposed to direct assessment of student performance with other methods) and can be difficult to score reliably.

On the other hand, this interpretation presumes Congress meant to prohibit a practice that has been used for many years with a parenthetical phrase that is not written with prohibitory language. Moreover, it would prohibit a practice that has been used by several States for more than the past ten years for students with the most significant cognitive disabilities who, because of their significant and often unique disabilities, may be difficult to assess validly with a standardized assessment. In addition, this interpretation contrasts with other provisions in the ESEA, as amended by ESSA. Section 1204 of the ESEA, as amended by ESSA, describes an innovative assessment demonstration authority that would allow States to try out systems of assessments on a smaller scale before adopting these systems statewide. ESEA section 1204(a)(1) mentioned a system of assessments that may include "competency-based assessments, instructionally embedded assessments, interim assessments, cumulative year-end assessments, or performance-based assessments." Portfolio assessments could be considered a form of performance-based assessment. An interpretation of section 1111(b)(2)(B)(vi) to prohibit assessments based entirely on a certain type of assessment methodology (e.g., a portfolio but also performance tasks or projects), therefore, seems somewhat incongruous with the flexibility that is described under section 1204 where the statute describes possible approaches to innovative assessments.

There appear to be two options to address this question. The option selected will be applied to the other States that have an alternate assessment that is entirely a portfolio assessment.

Option 1: Permit GaDOE to have an alternate assessment that is entirely a portfolio assessment. The Department interprets the statute to allow assessment systems required under ESEA to include individual assessments that are based completely on portfolios, projects, or extended performance tasks. GaDOE receives feedback for this peer review of the GAA portfolio in accordance with the assessment peer review guidance.

Pros

+ Allows States flexibility to design assessments that best meet their needs, particularly for students with the most significant cognitive disabilities.
+ Places focus on peer review criteria. States have to demonstrate appropriate validity for choices they make in assessment design and administration
+ Provides an avenue for States that use portfolios to improve designs based upon technical peer review feedback
+ If portfolio assessment in State has serious validity issues documented through peer review, Department has option to require State to change such an assessment on State by State basis.
+ Recognizes that there is ambiguity in the statutory language and, in the case of ambiguity, leans toward permissive response to the State.
+ Interpretation supports stronger alignment with section 1204 of ESEA, as amended by ESSA.
+ Because this would be limited to the AA-AAAS, represents a relatively small piece of a State's overall assessment system.

Cons

- This interpretation open to criticism that Department is not supporting a strong approach to valid assessments that emphasize multiple measures/methods for all students.
- Interpretation can be argued to not be aligned with statutory language on assessment requirements in section 1111(b)(2)(B)(vi), as well as the regulations at 34 CFR 200.2(b)(7)(ii) and supporting language included in the Comments to the Notice of Final Regulations.
- Could be perceived to allow lower expectations for only students with disabilities since this provision will primarily impact State administration of the alternate assessment aligned to alternate academic achievement standards for students with the most significant cognitive disabilities.
- If pressed, this would permit a State to pursue a general assessment that is entirely based on a portfolio assessment (Note: no State has ever tried to do that. A few have tried to create an alternate assessment based on grade-level achievement standards for students with disabilities or English learners but the ESSA now explicitly prohibits any other alternate assessment).

Option 2: Do not permit GaDOE to have an alternate assessment that is entirely a portfolio assessment. The Department interprets section 1111(b)(2)(B)(vi) to prohibit an individual state assessment that is based entirely upon a portfolio under ESEA, as amended by ESSA. In this option, GaDOE receives feedback that it will no longer be able to use the GAA as currently designed to meet ESEA requirements for an AA-AAAS.

Pros

+ Interpretation is grounded in statutory language on assessment requirements in section 1111(b)(2)(B)(vi).
+ This interpretation supports a strong approach to valid assessments by emphasizing multiple measures/methods; and not relying upon a single method.
+ More consistent with the general public understanding of ESSA assessment requirements.

Cons

- The Department has not informed States that such assessments would be prohibited under ESSA; this will be a significant shift.
- Definition of portfolio assessment is not in regulation or statute; may be difficult to discern.
- Likely result in significant pushback from the States. At least five States that have portfolios have been using them for many years; redesign or replacement would be

+ Firmly establishes that the Department is enforcing the statute in a way that holds high expectations for all students, including students with the most significant cognitive disabilities.
+Recognizes the difficulty of validly and reliably assessing student achievement Statewide with a portfolio assessment.
costly and unanticipated.
- As the statutory intent is not clear, this interpretation could be seen as overreach on the part of the Department.
- There is arguable misalignment with other parts of the ESEA statute (e.g., section 1204).

RECOMMENDATION:

Option 1. Permit GaDOE to continue administering the GAA as currently constituted and provide the results of the peer review to the State to require that they ensure the GAA meets all relevant statutory and regulatory requirements.

Note: The results below assume option 1. If Option 2 were selected, the information related to the Georgia Milestones assessments would remain the same but for the GAA we would indicate that, "In its current design, the GAA does not meet requirements of the ESEA, as amended by the Every Student Succeeds Act (ESSA)." We would require the State to submit a plan and timeline for redesigning the GAA.

PEER REVIEW OUTCOME DETERMINATION

OSS recommends that the Department determine GaDOE's peer review outcome status for the components of its system of assessments as follows:

- Reading/language arts (R/LA), mathematics and science general assessments in grades 3-8 (Georgia Milestones)) – Substantially meets requirements of the ESEA, as amended by the NCLB
- R/LA, mathematics and science general assessments in high school (Georgia Milestones End-of-Course (EOC)) – Substantially meets requirements of the ESEA, as amended by the NCLB
- R/LA, mathematics and science alternate assessments based on alternate academic achievement standards (AA-AAAS) in grades 3-8 and high school (Georgia Alternate Assessment (GAA)) – Partially meets requirements of the ESEA, as amended by the NCLB

Substantially meets requirements mean that these components meet most of the requirements of the statute and regulations but some additional information is required. The Department expects that GaDOE should be able to provide this additional information within one year.

The component (the GAA) that partially meets requirements do not meet a number of the requirements of the statute and regulations and/or GaDOE will need to provide substantial additional information to demonstrate it meets the requirements. The Department expects that GaDOE may not be able to submit all of the required information within one year.

In addition, the Department should advise GaDOE that it must provide evidence that the GAA alternate academic achievement standards ensure that students are on track to pursue postsecondary education or employment, as specified in section 1111(b)(1)(E) of the ESEA, as amended by the ESSA. Because this is a new requirement in the ESEA and it will likely take several years for GaDOE to collect data to provide this evidence (the current alternate academic achievement standards were implemented without this requirement and will require either extensive re-development or re-validation), the Department should use the orderly transition authority under the ESEA to provide up to two additional years (until December 31, 2020) for GaDOE to come into compliance with this requirement.

A condition should be placed on GaDOE's Title I grant for the 2018 Fiscal year (see proposed condition text below). OSS also recommends that this condition remain in place until GaDOE provides all of the remaining evidence required from the 2017 peer review.

GEORGIA

ATTACHMENT T – Fiscal Year 2018

Condition Governing Title I, Part A Grants to Local Educational Agencies

This grant award is made subject to the condition that Georgia provides the evidence set forth in the letter* from the U.S. Department of Education, dated XX, 2018*, and hereby incorporated by reference in this grant award, that is needed for review and approval of your State's standards and assessment system under section 1111(b)(1) and (3) of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act of 1965 (ESEA), as amended by the No Child Left Behind Act of 2001, and as continued under section 1111(b)(1) and (2) of the ESEA, as amended by the Every Student Succeeds Act. If this condition is not resolved in a timely manner, the Department may request additional information, revise this condition to require further action, or provide notice of its intent to take further administrative action.

GaDOE must submit a plan and timeline within 90 days outlining when it will submit all required additional documentation for peer review. The Department will host regular (e.g., quarterly) progress calls with the State. The condition should remain until all of the evidence has been resubmitted and peer reviewed. If the outcome of the re-review by peers indicates full approval, then the condition should be removed.

If adequate progress is not made, the Department may take additional action. Additionally, the Office of Special Education and Rehabilitative Services (OSERS) will monitor progress on matters pertaining to requirements in the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA) related to the participation of students with disabilities in Title I assessments. In particular, OSERS will monitor progress against critical elements 5.4, 6.2 and 6.3. Insufficient progress to address such matters may lead OSERS to place a condition on GaDOE's federal fiscal year 2019 IDEA Part B grant award.

Critical Elements Reviewed and Evaluated as "Met Requirements-No Additional Evidence Needed" (Option 1 Feedback)

1.1 – State Adoption of Academic Content Standards for All Students
1.3 – Required Assessments
1.4 – Policies for Including All Students in Assessments
1.5 – Participation Data
2.4 – Monitoring Test Administration
2.6 – Systems for Protecting Data Integrity and Privacy

Critical Elements Reviewed and Evaluated as "Not Meeting Requirements-Additional Evidence Needed"

Critical Element	Peer Finding/Department staff Analysis	Additional Evidence Needed
1.2 – Coherent and Rigorous Academic Content Standards	Peers recommended that GaDOE provide additional evidence regarding coherent and rigorous academic content standards. Specifically, peers felt that GaDOE should provide evidence of a pathway for students with significant cognitive disabilities to have the opportunity to graduate with a regular high school diploma. Additionally, peers recommended that GaDOE provide evidence of full disclosure to parents of the consequences of placing students on alternative extended standards, such as receiving a modified diploma. Finally, peers recommended that GaDOE should provide more details regarding the development of the alternate extended standards and alignment to the newly revised general content standards. Department staff disagree with these peer recommendations. Information regarding the graduation pathways for students with significant cognitive disabilities may be needed but that evidence is relevant for the requirements of critical element 5.1	• n/a (Procedures for Including Students with Disabilities), not requirements for this critical element. Department staff also note that while information about the development of the Georgia alternate extended standards is needed, this evidence supports requirements that pertain to Critical element 2.1 (Test Design), 2.2 (Item Development) and 3.1 (Content Validity). Staff believe that GaDOE evidence has met the requirements of this critical element. Under the ESSA, there is an additional requirement aligned with this critical element (related to meaningful consultation). See above for staff review and recommendation related to this aspect.

2.1 – Test Design and Development	Peers recommended that GaDOE provide additional evidence regarding the test design of the Georgia Alternate Assessment (GAA). Specifically peers noted that the test design of GAA specifies that only a subset of GaDOE academic content standards in reading/language arts, mathematics, and science are assessed. Peers requested evidence that the GAA test design is sufficient to ensure that each assessment is tailored to the knowledge and skills included in the State's academic content standards, reflects appropriate inclusion of challenging content, and requires complex demonstration or applications of knowledge and skills. Department staff agree with this recommendation. Peers also requested that GaDOE provide additional evidence for the GAA high school assessments related to their content alignment with the general high school	For the Georgia Alternate Assessments (GAA) of reading/language arts (R/LA), mathematics and science: • Evidence that the test design for the GAA adequately assesses the entire breadth of the GaDOE content standards in R/LA, mathematics and science.

	End of Course (EOC) assessments. Department staff disagree that this additional evidence is needed. The requirements for this critical element apply to the alignment of each assessment with the State content standards, not the alignment of the alternate assessment to the general assessment. Subsequent to the peer review, GaDOE provided additional clarification on the range of academic content standards and skills that could be assessed by the GAA test design. After reviewing this evidence, Department staff believe that more evidence is needed to support the way in which the GAA adequately represents the full breadth and depth of GaDOE content standards in all subject areas. Staff note that the design for the GAA requires that only two content standards are assessed in R/LA at each grade level; only two content standards are assessed in mathematics at each grade level; only one content standard is assessed in science in grades 3-8; and only two content standards in science in high school.
2.2 – Item Development	Peers recommended that GaDOE provide additional evidence regarding test item development for the GAA. The GAA is a structured assessment that includes several portfolio based entries for each subject area. The assessment tasks selected for each student are developed by teachers who administer the GAA. Specifically, peers requested evidence that the GaDOE has a coherent system of monitoring the quality of assessment tasks developed by teachers for the GAA. Department staff agree with peers that this additional evidence is required.	n/a

Critical Element	Peer Finding/Department staff Analysis	Additional Evidence Needed
	Subsequent to the peer review, GaDOE cited evidence they originally had submitted in support of critical element 4.4 (scoring) that addressed the concerns raised by the peers in regards to this critical element. In the GAA, there are rubrics used to evaluate the alignment of selected performance tasks in terms of content standards and appropriateness of the assessed skill. GaDOE had not cited this evidence in their original submission. After review of this additional citation, Department staff believe that sufficient evidence does exist to meet the requirement for this critical element.
2.3 – Test Administration	Peers recommended that additional evidence be submitted by GaDOE regarding the Georgia Milestones assessments in all subjects in grades 3-8 and high school. GaDOE administers the Milestones as technology-based assessments. Peers noted that the State provides information in the Test Coordinator Manuals regarding common troubleshooting procedures. Peers stated, however, that it was unclear what contingency plans were in place specifically in Georgia to address possible large-scale, system-wide technology challenges during test administration. Department staff agree with this peer recommendation. Subsequent to the peer review, GaDOE submitted additional evidence that summarized the procedures it had taken when on-line test administration issues occurred in 2014-15 and in 2015-16. These procedures addressed both end-user and system-level	n/a events that occurred. In reviewing this additional evidence, Department staff believe that the State has now demonstrated that it does have procedures in provide for contingencies in the administration of on-line assessments, and that no additional evidence is required.

2.5 – Test Security	Peers recommended that GaDOE provide additional evidence regarding test security. Peers noted that there are many policies and procedures in place for monitoring the security of test administration, but it was not clear how results from these monitoring procedures have been utilized, or how monitoring procedures have been implemented, particularly with regard to on-line monitoring and unannounced onsite observations. Department staff agree with this peer recommendation. Subsequent to the peer review, GaDOE provided additional evidence that addressed all of the concerns raised by peers. Specifically evidence of security monitoring results from school observations and online testing audits were provided. After reviewing this additional evidence, Department staff now believe that GaDOE has demonstrated that its assessment system meets the requirements for this critical element.	n/a
3.1 – Overall Validity, including Validity Based on Content	Peers recommended that GaDOE provide additional evidence related to overall content validity the Georgia Milestone Assessments in all subjects. Peers noted that while an independent alignment study indicated strong content alignment between the State's assessments and the academic content standards, the	For the Georgia Milestone Assessments in R/LA, mathematics and science: • Evidence that documents adequate alignment between the State's assessments and the academic content standards the assessments are designed to measure in study also recommended that the GaDOE address gaps in cognitive complexity (also referred to as Depth of Knowledge-DOK) between test specifications and state content standards. Peers believed that evidence of modifications to the Milestone test item specifications and test blueprints to more explicitly reflect DOK requirements was needed. Department staff agree with this recommendation. Subsequent to the peer review, GaDOE provided additional evidence that it had make some modifications to test item specifications for the Milestone assessments to more explicitly address DOK requirements of the Georgia content standards. In the review of these materials Department staff believe that GaDOE has still not demonstrated that it has explicitly accounted for DOK within the design (blueprints) of the Milestone assessments, and that more evidence is needed. Peers also recommended that GaDOE provide additional evidence for the GAA in all subjects related to the GAA related to content validity. Peers specifically asked for additional evidence that demonstrated how the GAA adequately links to the breadth of the GaDOE academic content standards in light of evidence that the GAA represents a subset of those standards. Peers also noted that much of the evidence provided for GAA is from documents which pre-date GaDOE's content standards revisions. In light of these changes to standards, peers asked that GaDOE provide updated evidence to show adequate	terms of cognitive complexity (e.g., as expressed by explicit Depth of Knowledge (DOK) requirements within test blueprints; as demonstrated by item development that explicitly incorporates DOK requirements); For the GAA of R/LA, mathematics and science: • Evidence that the assessments show adequate linkage to the State's academic content standards in terms of the breadth of content and cognitive complexity determined in test design to be appropriate for students with the most significant cognitive disabilities (e.g., through an independent alignment study or similar evidence).

	alignment to newly revised content standards as well as evidence to support why new achievement standards were not set for the GAA. Department staff partially agree with these recommendation for additional content validity evidence for the GAA. Staff believe that strong evidence of content alignment is needed for the GAA given the number of revisions to GaDOE's content standards over time. Staff believe that evidence to support the GAA's achievement standards is properly placed under critical element 6.3 (achievement standards alignment). Subsequent to the peer review, GaDOE provided additional evidence for the GAA related to content validity. In this evidence, GaDOE sought to demonstrate that revisions to the State's revised academic content standards were evaluated in terms of the impact on the existing GAA test blueprint, and that stakeholder and outside expert reviews established that substantive changes to the GAA blueprint were not necessary given the revisions. In the submission of the additional evidence, GaDOE claims that because revisions to the blueprint are not necessary, additional evidence of alignment are not needed. After reviewing the additional evidence, Department staff still believe that GaDOE should provide additional evidence to support the alignment of the current State academic content standards to the GAA.
3.2 – Validity Based on Cognitive	Peers recommended that GaDOE provide additional evidence regarding the cognitive process validity of the Georgia Milestone Assessments in R/LA,	For the Georgia Milestone Assessments in R/LA, mathematics and science: • Evidence that its assessments tap the Processes	mathematics, and science. Peers noted that in order to adequately measure cognitive processes in the GaDOE academic content standards, DOK levels 1-4 must be represented on the test as proportionate to the full range of cognitive processes required. Peers found limited evidence that the Georgia Milestone Assessments has the necessary distribution of DOK Level 4 items. Department staff agree with this recommendation. Subsequent to the peer review GaDOE provided additional evidence that addressed this requirement for the Georgia Milestone Assessments. However, in reviewing the evidence Department staff did not find that this evidence adequately reflected the feedback expressed by the peers. Peers also recommended that GaDOE provide additional evidence regarding cognitive process validity for the GAA. Peers noted that GAA evidence referenced essential content skills but did not reference cognitive processes for the tests. Department staff agree that additional evidence is required for the GAA regarding this critical element. Subsequent to the peer review GaDOE provided additional evidence that addressed this requirement for the GAA. GaDOE maintains the individualized design of the GAA does assure that the assessment is assessing cognitive processes that are appropriate for students with significant cognitive disabilities. However, in reviewing the evidence Department staff	intended cognitive processes appropriate for each grade level as represented in the State's academic content standards. For the GAA of R/LA, mathematics and science: • Evidence that its assessments tap the intended cognitive processes appropriate for each grade level as represented in the State's academic content standards (or by extension, the State's extended content standards used to support the GAA). 	did not find that it adequately reflected the feedback expressed by the peers.

3.3 – Validity Based on Internal Structure.	Peers recommended that GaDOE provide additional evidence regarding the internal structure validity of the GAA in R/LA, mathematics, and science. Peers noted that the evidence provided by GaDOE for this critical element pre-dated the revisions to the State's academic content standards. Peers believed that validity evidence based on internal structure, including scoring and reporting structures should be updated to ensure consistency with sub-domain structures on newly revised academic content standards. Department staff agree with this recommendation. Subsequent to the peer review, GaDOE provided additional information regarding internal structure validity evidence for the GAA. GaDOE clarified a section within the 2015-16 GAA technical report that indicated the internal structure correlations for the tests were consistent with previous years. GaDOE also provided a more recent (2016-17) technical report which also demonstrated the consistency of the internal structure correlations over time. After reviewing this additional information, Department staff believe that evidence for the GAA now meets the requirements for this critical element.	n/a
3.4 – Validity Based on Relationships with Other Variables.	Peers recommended that GaDOE provide additional evidence regarding the validity based on relationships with other variables of the GAA in R/LA, mathematics, and science. Peers noted that the evidence provided by GaDOE for this critical element pre-dated the revisions to the State's academic content	For the GAA of R/LA, mathematics and science, evidence that the State's assessment scores are related as expected with other variables. 	standards. Peers believed that validity evidence based on relationships with other variables should be updated to reflect any possible changes due to revisions in the State's academic content standards. Department staff agree with this recommendation. Subsequent to the peer review, GaDOE provided clarification to the evidence submitted for this critical element. GaDOE maintained that because the revisions to the academic content standards were evaluated to be minimal to the GAA test design, the validity evidence submitted was generalizable to the current GAA test design. Department staff still believes that GaDOE should provide additional evidence that supports the validity of the GAA based on relationships with other measures.	(e.g., instructional time on content based on grade-level content standards); • Results of analyses that indicate stronger positive relationships with measures of the same construct than with measures of different constructs; • Correlations between proficiency on the high-school AA-AAAS and performance in post-secondary education, vocational training or competitive integrated employment.
4.1 – Reliability	Peers recommended that GaDOE provide additional evidence regarding the reliability of the GAA in R/LA, mathematics, and science. Peers requested evidence that supported GaDOE's claim that the reliability of a portfolio assessment can be bolstered through standardized assessment protocols used in compiling the portfolios, as well as through extensive training for teachers/administrators and test coordinators. Peers again noted that the evidence provided by GaDOE for this critical element pre-dated the revisions to the State's academic content standards. Department staff agree that additional evidence to support the reliability of the GAA is needed. Subsequent to the peer review, GaDOE provided	n/a additional information related to reliability of the GAA. This additional evidence included the more recent (2016-17) GAA technical report which also offered evidence of the consistency of the processes used in administering and scoring the GAA over time. This technical report also provided updated correlational data that demonstrated the consistency (a form of reliability evidence) of the reporting domains and the generalizability (another form of reliability evidence) of the scoring processes. After reviewing this additional information, Department staff believe that evidence for the GAA now meets the requirements for this critical element.

4.3 – Full Performance Continuum	Peers recommended that GaDOE provide additional evidence for the GAA in R/LA, mathematics, and science in terms of the way in which the tests assess the full range of the performance continuum. Peers asked to see additional evidence that the GAA is measuring the full performance continuum on the revised academic content standards. Peers found the evidence submitted by GaDOE was unclear in how the extended standards used to support the GAA were created and their relationship to the state's revised academic content standards. Department staff agree that GaDOE should provide additional evidence for the GAA for this critical element. Subsequent to the peer review, GaDOE provided additional information related to the GAA and the assessment of the full performance continuum. GaDOE provided clarification to some of the evidence that had been originally submitted, and put forth the	For the GAA of R/LA, mathematics and science, evidence that each assessment provides an adequately precise estimate of student performance across the full performance continuum, including for high- and low-achieving students. This may include evidence such as: • For students at the lowest end of the performance continuum (e.g., pre-symbolic language users or students with no consistent communicative competencies), evidence that the assessment system provides appropriate performance information.

	argument that this evidence in fact demonstrated that the GAA measures across the full range of performance for students who participate in the GAA. Department staff reviewed this evidence, and did not share GaDOE's conclusions. Department staff noted that the evidence cited appear to not distinguish among levels of performance, as there was little variability at the extreme ends of the performance scale (most scores received were in the middle of the performance bands).
4.4 – Scoring	Peers recommended that GaDOE provide additional evidence for the GAA in R/LA, mathematics, and science related to scoring. Specifically, peers requested evidence that evaluates the impact of teacher judgment on the accurate measurement of student performance. Peers also noted that validity evidence for scoring of the GAA pre-dated the State's revisions to academic content standards. Department staff does not agree with the peer recommendation, and believe that GaDOE has provided sufficient evidence to support the scoring of the GAA for this critical element. Department staff find that because GaDOE uses an external scoring process that is designed in part to control the impact of teacher judgement, no additional evidence is needed.	n/a
4.5 – Multiple Assessment Forms	Peers recommended that GaDOE provide additional evidence for the GAA in R/LA, mathematics, and science related to use of multiple assessment forms and comparability. Peers noted that GaDOE provided achievement standard setting reports from 2007 and 2011. The peers requested additional updated evidence that supported how GAA scores are comparable across years. Department staff partially agrees with peers that additional evidence to support the GAA achievement standards is needed, given revisions to the academic content standards. However, Department staff disagrees that this evidence is relevant to this critical element, and is better aligned with critical elements 6.2 (achievement standard setting) and 6.3 (aligned achievement standards). Therefore, no additional evidence is required for this critical element for the GAA.

4.6 – Multiple Versions of an Assessment	Peers recommended that GaDOE provide additional evidence for the Georgia Milestone assessments in R/LA, mathematics, and science related to use of multiple assessment versions and comparability. Peers requested that GaDOE provide additional evidence documenting comparability across braille forms. Department staff agree that additional evidence is needed related to comparability of Braille forms of the Georgia Milestone tests. Peers also recommended that GaDOE provide additional evidence for the GAA in R/LA, mathematics, and science related to use of multiple assessment versions and comparability. Specifically, peers requested updated evidence of comparability of the meaning and interpretations of the assessment results for the GAA. Department staff does not agree with this recommendation. As a portfolio assessment, the GAA does not have fixed form versions in the same way as a large scale structured response assessment. Therefore, the criteria for this critical element do not apply in the same way. Department	n/a staff believe that GaDOE's evidence in support of the GAA scoring process is sufficient to meet the requirements for this critical element, and that no additional evidence for the GAA is needed. Subsequent to the peer review, GaDOE provided additional information related to the Georgia Milestones and the comparability of Braille forms. Specifically, GaDOE provided evidence that the test characteristic curves (TCC) for Georgia Milestone Braille forms were consistent across multiple test administrations. Based on this additional information, Department staff now believe that no additional evidence for the Georgia Milestone assessments related to this critical element is needed.

4.7 – Technical Analysis and Ongoing Maintenance	Peers recommended that GaDOE provide additional evidence for the GAA in R/LA, mathematics, and science related to technical analysis and ongoing maintenance. Peers observed that much of the evidence provided for the GAA was not based on the most recent test administration, and asked that GaDOE provide updated evidence to show technical analysis and ongoing maintenance of the alternate assessment. Department staff disagree with this peer recommendation. Department staff note that the evidence of the GAA that is older generally applies to critical elements related to validity (critical elements 2.1, 3.1 through 3.4, 6.2 and 6.3). Department staff finds that GaDOE provided substantial evidence of the technical analysis and ongoing maintenance of the GAA based on the most recent GAA administration. Therefore, no additional evidence is required for the	n/a GAA for this critical element.

5.1 – Procedures for Including Students with Disabilities	Peers recommended that GaDOE provide additional evidence for the GAA in R/LA, mathematics, and science related to the procedures for including students with disabilities. Specifically, peers asked for evidence that GaDOE had revised guidelines for GAA participation to remove references to specific disability categories and review references to instruction focused on application of State standards through relevant life skills. Peers also asked for evidence that GaDOE communicates to parents that students who take the GAA will receive a special education diploma and not a general education diploma. Department staff disagrees with the peers on these recommendations. Department staff found the GAA participation guidelines to be compliant with the requirements for this critical element, in that the guidelines did not require participation on the basis of a specific disability category. Staff further noted that the GaDOE references to instruction were allowable under the requirements for this critical element and not in need of revision. Subsequent to the peer review, GaDOE provided additional information that verified that students who participate in the GAA are eligible to receive the same high school diploma as all other students. Therefore, no additional evidence is required of the GaDOE for this critical element.	n/a
5.3 – Accommodations	Peers recommended that GaDOE provide additional evidence for the GAA in R/LA, mathematics, and science related to accommodations. Specifically,	n/a peers requested evidence that test constructs in the GAA are not altered by varying accommodations. Department staff does not agree with this recommendation. As a portfolio assessment, the GAA is not accommodated in the sense that a large scale structured response assessment is. Furthermore, there is an external scoring of the GAA that in part ensures the alignment of an appropriate instructional task to support the recorded student performance. Department staff believe that GaDOE's evidence in support of the GAA scoring process is sufficient to meet the requirements for this critical element, and that no additional evidence for the GAA is needed.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

Critical Element	Peer Finding/Department staff Analysis	Additional Evidence Needed
5.4 – Monitoring Test Administration for Special Populations	Peers recommended that GaDOE provide additional evidence for the both the Georgia Milestones and the GAA in R/LA, mathematics, and science related to monitoring test administration for special populations. Specifically, peers asked that GaDOE provide evidence that the State monitors the provision of specific accommodations to students with disabilities, students with 504 plans and English learners. Peers also asked for evidence indicating GaDOE monitored to ensure that testing accommodations are consistent with those accommodations provided during instruction and/or practice. Department staff agree with these recommendations. Subsequent to the peer review, GaDOE provided additional information that demonstrated that it monitored LEAs to assure that accommodations assigned during testing were consistent with those used during instruction. However, GaDOE must still	For the entire assessment system: • Evidence that GaDOE monitors test administration in its districts and schools to ensure that appropriate assessments, with or without appropriate accommodations, are selected for students with disabilities under IDEA, students covered by Section 504, and English learners so that they are appropriately included in assessments and receive accommodations that are administered with fidelity to test administration procedures.

6.1 – State Adoption of Academic Achievement Standards for All Students	Peers recommended that GaDOE provide additional evidence for the GAA in R/LA, mathematics, and science related to the adoption of academic achievement standards. Peers asked that GaDOE provide confirmatory evidence that the GAA achievement standards (cut scores) are aligned and valid given changes to the content standards and blueprints over time. Department staff agrees that GaDOE should provide this information, but disagrees that this evidence applies to this critical element. Staff believes this evidence should be requested to support the requirements for critical elements 6.2 (achievement standards setting) and 6.3 (challenging and aligned academic achievement standards). Therefore, no additional evidence is required for this critical element.	n/a
6.2 – Achievement Standards-Setting	Peers recommended that GaDOE provide additional evidence for the Georgia Milestones in high school mathematics related to achievement standard setting. Specifically, peers asked for evidence of the Georgia Technical Advisory Committee (TAC) endorsement/approval (reflected in TAC meeting minutes) of GaDOE's approach to linking two different End of Course Tests (Algebra I/Geometry and Coordinate Algebra/Analytic Geometry) to the same test scale with the same achievement standards. Peers also asked for evidence of the results of an independent evaluation of this linking of the two tests	For the GAA of R/LA, mathematics and science: • Evidence that GaDOE used a technically sound method and process that involved panelists with appropriate experience and expertise for setting its alternate academic achievement standards for each grade of the alternate assessment to ensure they are valid and reliable.

	to the same scale. Department staff agree that this additional evidence is needed. Subsequent to the peer review, GaDOE provided evidence of the TAC discussion of the linking of the two Milestone mathematics End of Course tests to the same test scale using the same achievement standards. GaDOE also provided a confirmatory report of this linking by an independent external review. Based on this additional evidence, Department staff believe the Georgia Milestones in high school mathematics now meet the requirements for this critical element. Peers recommended that GaDOE provide additional evidence for the GAA in R/LA, mathematics, and science related to the setting of academic achievement standards. Peers asked that GaDOE provide evidence that the it used a technical sound process to establish GAA achievement standards (cut scores) that were are aligned and valid given changes to the content standards and blueprints over time. Department staff agrees that GaDOE should provide this information. Subsequent to the peer review, GaDOE provided evidence of a GaDOE TAC discussion that supported GaDOE's contention that a revised achievement standard setting was not necessary. After reviewing this additional evidence against the requirements for this critical element, Department staff still agree with peers that GaDOE must provide additional evidence to support the methods used for achievement standard setting of the GAA, given revisions to the academic content standards.

6.3 – Challenging and Aligned Academic Achievement Standards	Peers recommended that GaDOE provide additional evidence for the GAA in R/LA, mathematics, and science related to challenging and aligned academic achievement standards. Peers specifically asked for evidence that GaDOE has conducted a review of the achievement level descriptors for the GAA to reflect linkage to the State's new grade-level academic content standards. Peers also asked for evidence that show that grade-level differentiation has been demonstrated within the achievement standards for the GAA. Department staff agree with these recommendations. Subsequent to the peer review, GaDOE provided evidence of a GaDOE TAC discussion that supported GaDOE's contention that a revised achievement standard setting was not necessary. GaDOE also provided evidence that it claims support the revision of achievement level descriptors for the GAA to reflect the revised academic content standards. GaDOE also provided evidence that supports its claim that the achievement standards for the GAA do represent grade level differentiation. However, it appears that the score patterns (a standard setting methodology) by GaDOE used to set the GAA achievement standards were based upon grade bands. Therefore, Department staff still believe that GaDOE must provide additional evidence to support the achievement standards for the GAA.	For the GAA of R/LA, mathematics and science: • Documentation of the process by which performance level descriptors were developed. • Evidence that the State's alternate academic achievement standards are linked to the State's grade level academic content standards, such as a description of the process used to develop the alternate academic achievement standards that shows: o The State's grade level academic content standards or grade level extended academic content standards were used as a main reference in writing performance level descriptors for the alternate academic achievement standards OR; o The process of setting cut scores used, as a main reference, performance level descriptors linked to the State's grade-level academic content standards or extended academic content standards OR; o The AA-AAAS cut scores were set and performance level descriptors written to link to the State's grade-level academic content standards or extended academic content standards OR; o A description of steps taken to vertically articulate the alternate academic achievement standards (including cut scores and performance level descriptors)

6.3 – Challenging and Aligned Academic Achievement Standards (additional requirement under section 1111(b)(1)(E) of the ESEA, as amended by the ESSA.	See discussion in main body of memorandum regarding targeted review of ESSA requirements.	For the GAA of R/LA, mathematics and science: • Evidence that the GAA alternate academic achievement standards ensure that students are on track to pursue postsecondary education or employment, as specified in section 1111(b)(1)(E) of the ESEA, as amended by the ESSA. GaDOE should provide this evidence by December 31, 2020.
6.4 – Reporting	Peers recommended that GaDOE provide additional evidence for the both the Georgia Milestones and the GAA in R/LA, mathematics, and science related to reporting. Specifically, peers asked for evidence that reports are available in alternate formats (e.g., Braille or large print) upon request and, to the extent practicable, in a native language that parents can understand. Department staff agree with peers that this additional evidence is needed. Subsequent to the peer review, GaDOE provided evidence that it had resources in place to provide score reports in Braille or large print upon request. The State also provided contracts with a vendor that can provide on demand translation services for translation of score reports as needed. Finally, GaDOE provided samples of a Spanish version of student score report	n/a

A BILL TO BE ENTITLED

AN ACT

To amend Title 20 of the Official Code of Georgia Annotated, relating to education, so as to provide for the establishment of an innovative assessment pilot program; to provide for participating local school systems; to provide exemptions from certain state-wide assessment requirements; to provide for an annual report; to provide for revised accountability requirements; to provide for related matters; to repeal conflicting laws; and for other purposes.

BE IT ENACTED BY THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY OF GEORGIA:

SECTION 1.

Title 20 of the Official Code of Georgia Annotated, relating to education, is amended in Code Section 20-2-281, relating to student assessments in elementary and secondary education, by revising subsection (a) as follows:

"(a) The State Board of Education shall adopt a student assessment program consisting of instruments, procedures, and policies necessary to implement the program and shall fund all costs of providing and scoring such instruments, subject to appropriation by the General Assembly. The student assessment program shall include a comprehensive summative assessment program for grades three through 12. In addition, each local school system shall administer, with state funding, a research based formative assessment with a summative component that is tied to performance indicators in English language arts/reading and mathematics in grades one and two, subject to available appropriations. Such research based assessment shall be selected~~;~~ after consultation with local school systems. Such research based assessment shall provide for real-time data analysis for students, teachers, school leaders, and parents; allow flexible grouping of students based on skill level; and measure student progress toward ~~grade level~~ grade-level expectations throughout the school year. Each local school system may elect to administer, with state funding, nationally ~~norm-referenced~~ norm referenced instruments in reading, mathematics, science, or social studies in grade three, four, or five and in grade six, seven, or eight, subject to available appropriations, with assistance to such local school systems by the State Board of Education with regard to administration guidance, scoring, and reporting of such instruments. Further, the State Board of Education shall adopt a school readiness assessment for students entering first grade and shall administer such assessment pursuant to paragraph (2) of subsection (b) of Code Section 20-2-151. Each local school system is strongly encouraged to develop and implement a program of multiple formative assessments in reading and mathematics for kindergarten through fifth grade to ensure that students entering sixth grade are on track to meet grade-level expectations, including mastery in reading by the end of third grade to prepare for the infusion of literacy in subsequent grades and mastery in basic mathematics skills by the end of fifth grade and in accordance with the local school system's five-year strategic plan, performance indicators, and, if applicable, flexibility contract or other agreement with the State Board of Education for local school systems that are not under a flexibility contract. The State Board of Education shall periodically review, revise, and upgrade the content standards. Following the adoption of such content standards, the State Board of Education shall contract for development of end-of-grade assessments to measure the content standards. As part of the comprehensive summative assessment program, end-of-grade assessments in English language arts/reading and mathematics shall be administered annually to students in grades three through eight, and such tests in science and social studies shall be administered annually to students in grades five and eight; provided, however, that each local school system participating in the innovative assessment pilot program established pursuant to Code Section 20-2-286 shall be required to administer only such end-of-grade assessments as specified in the local school system's flexibility contract, as amended for participation in the innovative assessment pilot program. These tests shall contain features that allow for comparability to other states with ~~whom~~ which establishing such comparison would be statistically sound; provided, however, that no such comparison shall be conducted which would relinquish any measure of control over assessments to any individual or entity outside the state. Further, as part of the comprehensive summative assessment program, the State Board of Education shall adopt and administer, through the Department of Education, end-of-course assessments for students in grades nine through 12 for all core subjects, as determined by the state board; provided, however, that each local school system participating in the innovative assessment pilot program established pursuant to Code Section 20-2-286 shall be required to administer only such end-of-course assessments as specified in the local school system's flexibility contract, as amended for participation in the innovative assessment pilot program. Writing performance shall be assessed, at a minimum, for students in grades three, five, eight, and 11 and may be assessed for students in additional grade levels as designated by the State Board of Education. Such required writing performance assessment may be embedded within the assessments included in the comprehensive summative assessment program. Writing performance results shall be provided to students and their parents. If authorized to establish and operate an innovative assessment system pursuant to 34 C.F.R. Section 200.104, the Department of Education may establish a pilot program for local school systems that have an existing program of multiple formative assessments during the course of the academic year that result in a single summative score that is valid and reliable in measuring individual student achievement or growth and assessing individual student needs or deficiencies, to utilize such local assessments in place of end-of-grade or end-of-course assessments, if provided for in the terms of the local school system's flexibility contract. As used in this subsection, the term 'flexibility contract' means a charter for a charter system or a charter school or a contract entered into with the State Board of Education for a strategic waivers school system."

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

SECTION 2.

Said title is further amended in Part 12 of Article 6 of Chapter 2, relating to effectiveness of educational programs in elementary and secondary education, by adding a new Code section to read as follows:

"20-2-286.

(a) Beginning with the 2018-2019 school year, the State Board of Education shall establish an innovative assessment pilot program to examine one or more alternate assessment and accountability systems aligned with state academic content standards. The pilot program shall span from three to five years in duration, as determined by the state board and may include up to ten local school system participants. A consortium of local school systems implementing the same innovative alternate assessment may participate in the pilot program and shall be counted as one of the ten pilot program participants. The participating local school systems shall be selected by the state board in a competitive process and based on criteria established by the state board, including current compliance with the terms of their charter system contract or strategic waivers school system contract.

(b) The local school systems participating in the pilot program shall be authorized to design and implement an innovative alternate assessment and accountability program which may include, but shall not be limited to, cumulative year-end assessments, competency based assessments, instructionally embedded assessments, interim assessments, performance based assessments, or other innovated assessment designs approved by the State Board of Education. In order to allow the time and resources for the participating local school systems to implement an innovative alternate assessment and accountability program, the state board shall be authorized to reduce the state-wide testing requirements for such local school systems for the duration of the pilot program for end-of-grade and end-of-course assessments as contained in Code Section 20-2-281.

(c) Notwithstanding Code Sections 20-2-82, 20-2-244, and 20-2-2065, the State Board of Education shall be authorized to waive, for the duration of the pilot program, all or a portion of the requirements of Part 3 of Article 2 of Chapter 14 of this title for local school systems participating in the pilot program, but may replace any such accountability requirements with alternate requirements as specified in the local school system's charter system contract or strategic waivers school system contract.

(d) Each local school system participating in the pilot program shall amend its charter system contract or strategic waivers school system contract to reflect the innovative alternate assessment and accountability system that will be utilized during the term of the pilot program. Any local school system in the pilot program that is not complying with the terms of its charter system contract or strategic waivers school system contract may be removed from the pilot program at the sole discretion of the state board and shall be subject to the state-wide assessment requirements contained in Code Section 20-2-281 and the accountability system provided for in Part 3 of Article 2 of Chapter 14 of this title.

(e) The State Board of Education and the Department of Education shall take all reasonable steps to obtain any necessary waivers or approvals and maximum flexibility from the U.S. Department of Education to facilitate the implementation of the innovative assessment pilot program within the confines of federal law, including any appropriate changes to the state-wide accountability system established in the state plan for Georgia pursuant to the federal Every Student Succeeds Act.

(f)(1) The State Board of Education may contract with an external, independent third party with expertise in innovative and flexible approaches to assessment systems to assist in the development and implementation of one or more innovative alternate assessment and accountability systems. Such independent third party shall have access to and expertise from external technical experts, including technical experts in states that have pursued innovative and flexible approaches, in state assessment and accountability systems as well as knowledge and experience in the federal Every Student Succeeds Act and its implementing regulations.

(2) The State Board of Education shall consult with and provide coordination with the Office of Student Achievement in the development and implementation of the pilot program established pursuant to this Code section.

(3) The State Board of Education and the Department of Education shall evaluate and identify a plan to demonstrate comparability between the innovative assessments, including norm referenced assessments, and the state-wide assessments, including for subgroups of students, and shall identify strategies that may be used to scale the innovative assessment to all local school systems state-wide. The State Board of Education shall determine initial performance based baselines and accountability requirements for local school systems participating in the pilot program.

(4) Local school systems participating in the pilot program shall be encouraged to collaborate amongst each other during the course of the pilot program.

(g) No later than December 31, 2019, and annually thereafter for the duration of the pilot program, the Department of Education shall submit a detailed written report, approved by the State Board of Education, on the implementation and effectiveness of the innovative assessment pilot program to the Governor, the Speaker of the House of Representatives, and the President of the Senate. The final report shall also include recommendations as to expansion of the pilot program state-wide and estimated costs of implementation."

SECTION 3.

Said title is further amended by revising Code Section 20-14-31, relating to establishing standard for satisfactory performance under the education accountability assessment, as follows:

"20-14-31.

Except as otherwise provided in this article, the office shall establish the levels of performance on each assessment instrument administered under Code Section 20-2-281 by establishing the standard that should be achieved by students in each subject area at each grade level. Data and information regarding the establishment of the standard shall be included in the annual report provided for in paragraph (2) of subsection (a) of Code Section 20-14-27; provided, however, that local school systems participating in the innovative assessment pilot program established pursuant to Code Section 20-2-286 shall only be measured on the reduced specific end-of-grade and end-of-course assessments as specified in the local school system's flexibility contract, as amended for participation in the innovative assessment pilot program."

SECTION 4.

All laws and parts of laws in conflict with this Act are repealed.

UNITED STATES DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION

OFFICE OF ELEMENTARY AND SECONDARY EDUCATION

DATE: February 9, 2018

TO: Jason Botel,
Principal Deputy Assistant Secretary,
Delegated the Authority to Perform the Functions and Duties of the Assistant Secretary of Elementary and Secondary Education

THROUGH: Patrick Rooney
Deputy Director, Office of State Support (OSS)

FROM: Ashley Briggs and Shauna Knox, Program Officers, OSS

SUBJECT: Grantback award under section 459 of the General Education Provisions Act (GEPA) to the Pennsylvania Department of Education (PDE).

Factual Background

The Department has recovered $7,186,222 from PDE relating to findings in a March 29, 2011 program determination letter (PDL) issued by the Office of Elementary and Secondary Education and Office of Safe and Drug Free Schools. The PDL followed an audit report by the Department's Office of the Inspector General (OIG) of the School District of Philadelphia's (SDP) control over Federal expenditures, covering the audit period July 1, 2005 through June 30, 2006 (Audit Control Number ED-OIG-A03H0010). The audit report contained five findings totaling $138,769,897.50, and the Department addressed the findings and related costs in four subsequent PDLs (dated March 29 and September 29, 2011; July 27, 2012; and March 31, 2014). For all of the costs addressed in the other PDLs, the Department either did not sustain the audit findings or found that the costs fell outside the applicable statute of limitations, and so were not subject to recovery.

The March 29, 2011 PDL dealt with costs arising under just three of the findings: supplanting of Federal funds (Finding 2), inadequate enforcement of policies and procedures (Finding 4), and failure to have written policies and procedures for various processes (Finding 5). The costs in this PDL were related to several programs under the Elementary and Secondary Education Act (ESEA), as amended by the No Child Left Behind Act (NCLB): Part A of Title I, Parts A and D of Title II, and Part A of Title IV (also referred to as the Safe and Drug Free Schools and Communities Act (SDFSCA)). The PDL disallowed a total of $9,968,423.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

Through settlement negotiations, the Department and PDE agreed that $2,782,201 was barred from recovery by the statute of limitations. PDE appealed the remaining $7,186,222 liability to an Administrative Law Judge (ALJ), who held that ED was entitled to recover the full $7,186,222. PDE appealed to the Secretary, who upheld the ALJ's decision. PDE further appealed to the Third Circuit, which declined to review and upheld the Secretary's decision. Finally, PDE filed a writ of certiorari to the Supreme Court, which it denied on October 3, 2016.

In February 2017, SDP paid the full liability to PDE, and in March 2017, PDE paid the full liability to the Department.

On July 17, 2017, PDE applied for a grantback of the Title I, Part A and SDFSCA funds recovered. The grantback request totals $5,389,204, which is approximately 75 percent of the principal amount of the recovered Title I, Part A and SDFSCA funds (of the amount recovered, $7,074,599 resolved findings related to Title I, Part A and $111,007 resolved findings related to SDFSCA).

Following the release of the OIG Audit Report, PDE and SDP have taken steps to ensure that the practices that led to the audit findings would not reoccur. In collaboration with PDE and the Department's Office of Risk Management Services, SDP developed and began implementing five corrective action initiatives directly responsive to the audit findings and has been implementing these procedures since that time. PDE assures that SDP, with the oversight of PDE, has fully resolved the findings from the OIG audit report.

Background on Grantbacks:

Section 459(a) of GEPA, 20 U.S.C. 1234h(a), provides that, whenever the Secretary has recovered funds under an applicable program because the recipient made an expenditure of funds that was not allowable, the Secretary may consider those funds to be additional funds available for the program and may arrange to repay to the grantee affected by that determination an amount not to exceed 75 percent of the recovered funds. The Department does not make grantbacks frequently, and OESE programs account for only a fraction of those grantbacks. Moreover, OESE grantees do not often request grantbacks, as OESE normally works with grantees to resolve findings before a recovery of funds is necessary. The most recent OESE grantback we could identify was in 2001.

The Secretary may enter into this grantback requested by PDE if the Secretary determines that—

a) The practices and procedures that resulted in the audit findings in question have been corrected, and the recipients are in compliance with the requirements of the applicable programs;
b) PDE has submitted to the Secretary a plan for the use of the funds to be awarded under the grantback arrangement that meets the requirements of the program and, to the extent possible, benefits the population that was affected by the failure to comply or by misexpenditures that resulted in the recovery; and
c) The use of funds to be awarded under the grantback arrangement in accordance with that plan would serve to achieve the purposes of the program under which the funds were originally granted.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

Before making a grantback, the Department must publish a notice in the Federal Register indicating that it intends to make a grantback and take public comment for at least 30 days. GEPA section 459(d). If you decide to proceed, we will submit a Federal Register notice into Department clearance.

Analysis:

In accordance with section 459(a)(2) of GEPA, PDE submitted a plan that proposes to use grantback funds for activities authorized under Title I, Part A of the ESEA. While the Every Student Succeeds Act (ESSA) amendments to the ESEA eliminated SDFSCA, activities formerly authorized under SDFSCA can currently be supported through Title I, Part A of the ESEA, as amended by ESSA, and PDE plans to use $85,000 in grantback funds – slightly more than the proportion of grantback funds related to SDFSCA – for activities that would have been authorized under SDFSCA.

SDP plans to use grantback funds for three activities in the 2018-19 school year. First, SDP proposes a math initiative to improve teaching skills and student learning. As proposed, SDP would: (1) provide approximately 1,000 K-12 math teachers with a week-long professional learning institute in the summer of 2018; (2) provide designated math lead teachers in participating schools with compensation for leading planning and professional development sessions outside of the school day; and (3) provide eligible schools (preference given to low-performing schools) that participated in the summer institute with funds for extracurricular salary support for facilitating before and after school sessions for students.

Next, SDP plans to use grantback funds to provide seven full-time reading specialists to support kindergarten through third grade students who are significantly behind their expected reading level. The specialists would work with targeted students at least weekly in small groups using specially designed lesson plans that use best practices to scaffold student learning.

Finally, SDP plans to use grantback funds to support a school climate initiative in five schools. A coach would provide participating schools with training on how to implement a curriculum centered on social and emotional learning as well as bullying prevention. The coach would work with each school to develop a training plan, provide technical assistance in implementing and teaching the lessons, and monitor implementation.

Based on a detailed review of the plan and information submitted by PDE, OSS is satisfied that the SEA has met the conditions imposed by section 459(a) on the award of a grantback and certifies that:

a) PDE has corrected the practices and procedures that resulted in the audit exception, and the PDE and SDP are, in all other respects, in compliance with the requirements of Title I, Part A of the ESEA;

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

b) The plan submitted by PDE meets the requirements of Title I, Part A. Since the misexpenditures that resulted in the audit and PDL findings occurred about twelve years ago, it is unlikely that the population affected by the violations would benefit from the grantback funds. The proposed plan, however, is designed to serve similar children, i.e., those who are residing in low-income areas and who are failing, or at risk of failing, to meet State academic standards.

c) The use of the funds to be awarded under the grantback arrangement would serve to achieve the purposes of Title I, Part A of the ESEA and the SDFSCA.

Following a review of PDE's plan, OSS has determined that it is consistent with the purposes of Title I, Part A. The plan, which details specific activities and contains a budget for the proposed activities, is designed in accordance with Title I, Part A requirements to meet the educational needs to Title I children. OSS's cost analysis of the proposed activities and the budget indicates that the requested amount for the grantback award is justified.

These certifications are based on the fact that PDE supplied OESE with a copy of SDP's 2017 Annual Grant Compliance Monitoring Report, which included a status report (current as of April 2017) of the extensive corrective actions that SDP has taken since the issuance of the OIG audit. In addition to these extensive corrective actions, SDP's FY14-16 Single Audits found no material findings. While the PDE reviewed SDP's Title I, Part A program in the 2016-17 school year and determined that some schools had program or fiscal findings that required corrective action (none of which were related to the OIG audit), SDP provided all necessary responses, and PDE has closed out those findings. PDE and OESE are confident that the practices that led to the issuance of the PDL have been corrected.

Recommendation:

Approve the grantback for PDE to achieve the purposes of ESEA and the SDFSCA.

Subject: Donor Call- Education Update in PR

Dear Jason,

September 20, 2018, marked the one-year anniversary of Hurricane Maria and the catastrophic impact it had on the people of Puerto Rico. Schools served as places of refuge from the impact of the storm and less so as places of education. Due to years of declining enrollment precipitated by the financial crisis, and destruction caused by the hurricane, many schools were closed this year. Despite the devastation, efforts to strengthen education opportunities for students, their families and their teachers are taking effect.

On Friday, October 12, from 1:00 p.m. ET to 2:00 p.m. ET we will host a call for donors to provide an update on progress made, as well as short and long-term priorities. Key points that we will cover include:

- Puerto Rico Department of Education – one year after Hurricane Maria
- Start of 2018-19 school year
- Talent initiatives
- Charter school authorization process and next round of applications
- New school support model through the Regional Offices
- Plan for using the U.S. Department of Education Restart Funds to rebuild and support Puerto Rico schools
- Update on Puerto Rico Education Fund

Since April, The Philanthropy Roundtable hosted several calls with Julia Keleher, Puerto Rico Secretary of Education, during which donors learned about the state of education on the island, legislative reforms that recently took effect, and opportunities to improve the quality of education for all students. Over the last few months, the secretary and her team have been busy providing effective teacher professional development, establishing career ladder opportunities and implementing a teacher recognition program, rolling out an attendance campaign, and preparing to implement project-based and personalized learning curricula.

On August 13, traditional public schools opened their doors to start a new school year. Days following a Puerto Rico Supreme Court decision upholding the Commonwealth's education reform law authorizing charter schools and a voucher program, the island's first charter school, Vimenti School, opened its doors to Kindergartners and first graders where children and their families will receive comprehensive support and services.

To join us, please email Mason Casady at K12Meetings@philanthropyroundtable.org by Wednesday, October 10. If you are unable to participate, please feel free to share this invitation with a colleague within your organization.

Call-in information will be provided when you RSVP. If you have any questions, please do not hesitate to contact me.

I look forward to having you join us on October 12. Thank you again for your interest!

Gratefully,
Katherine

Dear Colleague,

Per your interest, please feel free to join Maureen McLaughlin and me for a meeting with Baroness May Blood and others from Northern Ireland to learn about the Integrated Education Movement in Northern Ireland.

As noted in the attached document: "Parents create integrated schools, not government. Integrated schools seek to provide an inclusive and integrated ethos in the school as well as a religious and cultural mix of pupils from different backgrounds. Catholic children are supported and prepared for the sacraments. Protestant children undertake bible studies. Other world religions are also explored and celebrated. Integrated schools are not secular and encourage participation of different faiths in school life and festivals, as well as respecting those children of no religion."

Feel free to forward this to other ED colleagues who you think may have an interest in this topic. If necessary, I am happy to arrange for a larger room to accommodate interest. However, please note that an RSVP (via Outlook) is necessary.

Members of the delegation

- Baroness May Blood, Campaign Chair of the Integrated Education Fund, Northern Ireland, United Kingdom (see attached bio)
- Paul Caskey, Head of Campaign and Policy, Integrated Education Fund, Northern Ireland

Baroness May Blood Profile

May Blood grew up in a working-class area of Belfast, the richness of family life and strong sense of community more than compensating for the lack of material possessions. At the age of fourteen she became a mill worker and eventually got involved in the trade union movement, struggling to improve working conditions and advance the role of women.

The advent of the Troubles in Northern Ireland was a deeply traumatic experience for her. Brought up in a 'mixed' community she watched in disbelief and horror as that community disintegrated under the impact of inter-communal violence. She became increasingly involved in grassroots community work and an active participant in the developing `peace process'.

In 1999 in recognition of her years of trade union and community endeavors, May Blood was offered a life peerage and a seat in the House of Lords. Her initial response was to decline the offer, for to her the House of Lords was a place where rich old men sat around and slept all day, a place far removed from the everyday realities of working-class Belfast. Nevertheless, she took her seat, hoping that, as 'Baroness May Blood', she could advance the causes she holds so dear.

She has lived to see the end of the Troubles, but a society still deeply divided and one still needing people with her undiminished energy and commitment.

May is the Campaign Chair of the Integrated Education Fund in Northern Ireland, a position she has held since 2002. She has helped to raise over £20 million to support the development and growth of integrated schools where children of all faiths or none are educated together in an environment where religious and cultural diversity is celebrated and encouraged.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

Integrated Education Campaign – Key Facts – Sept 2018

The Integrated Education Movement began in the 1970s when a group of parents came together to argue for change in our education system that would enable more Catholic and Protestant children to be educated together in the same schools. This campaigning group was called All Children Together. They did not set out to create a whole new sector of schools but to encourage existing schools to become integrated. When no schools emerged, they decided to establish their own such school.

The first integrated school, Lagan College, opened in 1981, with 28 pupils in a scout hut on the outskirts of Belfast with no initial government funding. Today that same school is fully government funded and educates over 1,100 children. It is also the most oversubscribed school in Northern Ireland.

The Integrated Education Fund, established in 1992, has contributed more than £25 million in grants to support the growth and development of integrated education.

Since 1998, and the launch of the Integrated Education Fund's first 10 Year Development Plan, the number of integrated schools has grown from 45 to 65, and the provision of places in integrated schools has grown from 3% to 7% of the school population.

Today there are over 23,000 children in integrated schools.

There are currently 65 integrated schools, 20 are colleges (age 11-18) and 45 are primary schools (age 4-11). In addition, there are 19 integrated playgroups/nurseries for 3 and 4 year olds.

Independent opinion polls and surveys have always demonstrated a far greater demand for integrated school places than are currently provided. A majority of people continually express their preference for mixed religion schooling (around 70%). Even allowing for opinion polls to express more moderate opinion, the gap between desire and supply is vast.

Parents create integrated schools, not government. Parents have either set up new schools on 'greenfield' sites or they have voted by parental ballot to 'transform' an existing school into an integrated school. Approximately one third of all integrated schools are schools that transformed to integrated status.

Integrated schools seek to provide an inclusive and integrated ethos in the school as well as a religious and cultural mix of pupils from different backgrounds. Catholic children are supported and prepared for the sacraments. Protestant children undertake bible studies. Other world religions are also explored and celebrated. Integrated schools are not secular and encourage participation of different faiths in school life and festivals, as well as respecting those children of no religion.

Many integrated schools also have a 'social class mix' as well as religious mix – on average around 23% of children are eligible for free school meals.

There is considerable independent evidence demonstrating that integrated education makes a positive contribution to social attitudes, intergroup contact and friendship across the community divide.

Our Vision

A Northern Ireland where, increasingly, children from different traditions learn and play together at school, helping to build a society where there is respect and celebration, not fear, of religious and cultural diversity.

The Integrated Education Fund (IEF) shares the vision, held by the overwhelming majority of people in Northern Ireland, of a united community and a shared future. Many believe that more integration and mixing between communities are essential to building a better and more reconciled society.

67% of people want more integrated education (LucidTalk 2018) - where children from Protestant, Catholic, other faith backgrounds and none, are educated together in the same schools and where the symbols, ethos and traditions of the entire community are valued and respected.

The IEF sees the development of more integrated education in a reformed education system as an essential ingredient of this future –a system which also ensures that young people, including newcomer pupils, LGBTQ pupils, and pupils with additional needs, feel confident and welcome in the school environment. The IEF wants an education system which fully prepares its young people to contribute positively to a modern democracy and be successful citizens in an increasingly complex global society.

The aspiration of parents for more integration must be acted upon. To achieve this needs meaningful reform of the way education is planned, managed and delivered. There have been too many well intentioned projects and minor adjustments which do not sufficiently impact on the core nature of Northern Ireland's archaic, segregated system of schools.

Integration works for everybody.
The education system needs to change.

Where We Want To Be:
Integrated and Effective

ED-17-0431-F-003506

1. Social Benefit: Positive Attitudes

Independent research indicates that children who attend integrated or mixed religion schools are more likely to have positive social attitudes to, and have more friendships with, pupils with a different background to their own.

Integrated schools are more likely to reflect the makeup of society at large, thus helping to prepare children for life after school where many are likely to work and socialise in a mixed environment whether in third level education or employment.

2. Educational Benefit: Preparation for Life

The development of integrated schools has demonstrated that people from all religious, cultural and social backgrounds can work, learn and play together, successfully. It has contributed to the growing acceptance that learning together can enhance an educational experience, adding value to a child's education.

This is not just evidenced by integrated schools. Schools of all types have sought to engage in cross community projects and shared education for decades, because of the very benefits they believe it can bring.

3. Economic Benefit: Effective and Efficient

Maintaining separate school systems based on religious or cultural background comes at a high price for government and many local communities. Having too many schools with too few pupils can make ineffective and inefficient use of resources and put these limited resources under further budgetary pressure. More children attending the same schools which respect and celebrate all traditions will help alleviate some of these pressures.

Moreover, a school system based more on integration would eventually reduce the need for external charitable funding as integration would be mainstreamed, and cross community work would no longer be an 'add on'; it would be an integral part of every school day.

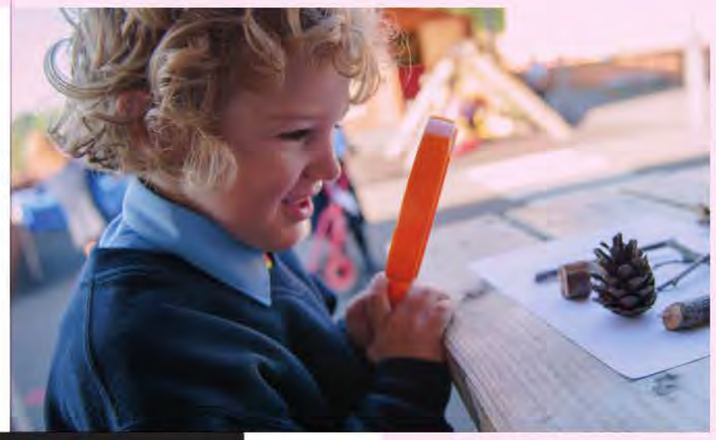
How Can We Make Change Happen?



1. Empowering Parents

The majority of parents in Northern Ireland aspire to integrated education.

Parents want to send their children to what they believe are the 'best schools'.

However, would any school perform less well if it welcomed, and included pupils, teachers and governors from different religious and cultural backgrounds?

Most parents think not, but do not know how they can become involved in creating such a positive change. Even fewer know that legislation allows parents to initiate a process of change in their school, and that almost any school is able to transform to integrated status.

25 schools have already successfully transformed, a number of which are the fastest growing schools in Northern Ireland.

The 'Integrate My School' initiative of the IEF is an innovative way for parents to register their support for integrated status for their child's school.

'Integrate My School' has been created to enable parents to gain information and declare their support whilst providing confidentiality and anonymity in the process.

When 20% of parents from the same school register then, by law, their school must at least consider transforming to integrated status and hold a secret ballot of parents. Schools can only transform with parental support and approval.

Hundreds of parents have already declared their support and there are schools across Northern Ireland of all management types exploring transformation, including Catholic, Controlled and Grammar.

Education planning and provision in Northern Ireland must engage not only with existing education providers and their sectoral bodies, but also with local communities. Local community groups and organisations have an important role to play in our society and are often well placed in understanding the needs of a local area.

To best reflect the needs of communities, education planners need to implement an independent consultation and audit to measure demand for the type of schools in any given area.

The IEF, working with the Education Authority and other education sectors, has invested in piloting a number of local area based consultations and audits across Northern Ireland. This work provides an evidence based approach which we want to see refined and adopted as part of any area based planning process.

The IEF aims to:

Increase awareness among parents of how they can make change happen

Increase the number of parents registering their support for 'Integrate My School'

Increase the level of engagement, awareness and support for integrated education solutions amongst local community groups

2. Empowering Schools

The IEF and the Northern Ireland Council for Integrated Education (NICIE) will support any school in Northern Ireland embarking on the journey to integrated status.

The Department of Education (DE) has a statutory duty to "encourage and facilitate" integrated education and, following a successful legal challenge by Drumragh Integrated College in 2014, now "needs to be alive to this duty at every level, including the strategic".

New guidance from the DE published in 2017 and entitled Integration Works provides a positive and encouraging framework for all schools seeking to transform.

NICIE will provide additional advice and practical support for any school seeking integrated status.

The IEF will provide further support through a focused grant programme which will provide financial assistance to schools exploring and embarking on transformation.

Integrated schools do not receive any additional funding from the DE simply for being integrated. The IEF will continue to support all integrated schools in their development, with particular regard to those integrated schools increasing their enrolments in response to demand. Growth brings with it many challenges and the IEF is often needed to pump prime this growth through the provision of additional teaching resources, equipment and even accommodation until such time as the DE provides the necessary funding.

An integrated ethos does not happen by simply having a mix of pupils. Schools need to continually consider ways to deliver integration in practice. They need to not only reflect on but also develop their practice to ensure all pupils, staff and governors feel welcome and their identity is celebrated, irrespective of their cultural or religious background.

The IEF aims to:

Encourage all schools to consider the new Department of Education guidance Integration Works and support them on their transformation journey to integrated status

Support growth in existing integrated schools to enable parents to access an integrated education for their child

Strengthen ethos by supporting work in integrated schools that celebrates diversity

3. Effecting Policy Change

The IEF wants to see a day when it is no longer needed. That will only happen when integrated education is adequately planned for and the parental demand for it is being met. To bring this day closer we need to continually work with policy makers, influencers, politicians and government. To answer the widespread desire for integrated education, we need to see a government strategy with ambitious targets to grow the numbers of pupils in integrated schools. This strategy needs to be reflected in education planning and in a commitment to reform the structure of the education system.

The 2016 Independent Review of Integrated Education, commissioned by the Minister of Education, recommended a series of steps to support the growth and development of integrated education - adopting these steps would go some way to progressing the IEF vision of the future education system.

To contribute to a more united community and to ensure the most efficient use of the resources available in education the Government must commit to developing integrated education through a growth strategy, major structural change and other specific measures.

Growth Strategy

- The Government should set a target to increase the percentage of pupils in integrated schools from 7% to 10% by 2021, and to 30% by 2031 and plan to meet it.
- The Government plan should include strategic use of the £500m Stormont House Agreement Funding for capital development of shared and integrated education.
- The Education Authority should make integrated education the priority focus of the area planning process where there is clear demand. Planning teams should work with communities and challenge vested interests to ensure such a focus.
- There should be a presumption that any new schools to be established should be integrated, subject to community consultation.

Structural Change

- There are currently two separate statutory planning authorities for education provision in Northern Ireland (the Education Authority and the Council for Catholic Maintained Schools). There should be one single authority for the administration and planning of education.
- The DE should develop and introduce a single model of governance for all schools in Northern Ireland, representative of the wider community and of a range of skills and perspectives.
- The Government should end the duplication and segregation of initial teacher training and establish a single teacher training system open to students of all religions and none.

Other Specific Measures

- The 'Section 75' non-discrimination provisions of the Northern Ireland Act (1998) should be extended to cover all schools.
- Fair employment legislation should be extended to cover the recruitment of teachers.
- Equality and inclusivity should become issues considered in the process of inspection of schools.
- Integrated education should be a significant consideration in the planning of new housing developments, and the Department for Communities and the Department of Education should establish a collaborative, strategic approach to mixed housing and integrated education.

The IEF aims to:

Engage with policy makers, political leaders and government to present the case for building a quality education system based on greater integration

Dear Colleague,

Per your interest, please feel free to join Maureen McLaughlin and me for a meeting with Baroness May Blood and others from Northern Ireland to learn about the Integrated Education Movement in Northern Ireland.

As noted in the attached document: "Parents create integrated schools, not government. Integrated schools seek to provide an inclusive and integrated ethos in the school as well as a religious and cultural mix of pupils from different backgrounds. Catholic children are supported and prepared for the sacraments. Protestant children undertake bible studies. Other world religions are also explored and celebrated. Integrated schools are not secular and encourage participation of different faiths in school life and festivals, as well as respecting those children of no religion."

Feel free to forward this to other ED colleagues who you think may have an interest in this topic. If necessary, I am happy to arrange for a larger room to accommodate interest. However, please note that an RSVP (via Outlook) is necessary.

Baroness May Blood Profile

May Blood grew up in a working-class area of Belfast, the richness of family life and strong sense of community more than compensating for the lack of material possessions. At the age of fourteen she became a mill worker and eventually got involved in the trade union movement, struggling to improve working conditions and advance the role of women.

The advent of the Troubles in Northern Ireland was a deeply traumatic experience for her. Brought up in a 'mixed' community she watched in disbelief and horror as that community disintegrated under the impact of inter-communal violence. She became increasingly involved in grassroots community work and an active participant in the developing `peace process'.

In 1999 in recognition of her years of trade union and community endeavors, May Blood was offered a life peerage and a seat in the House of Lords. Her initial response was to decline the offer, for to her the House of Lords was a place where rich old men sat around and slept all day, a place far removed from the everyday realities of working-class Belfast. Nevertheless, she took her seat, hoping that, as 'Baroness May Blood', she could advance the causes she holds so dear.

She has lived to see the end of the Troubles, but a society still deeply divided and one still needing people with her undiminished energy and commitment.

May is the Campaign Chair of the Integrated Education Fund in Northern Ireland, a position she has held since 2002. She has helped to raise over £20 million to support the development and growth of integrated schools where children of all faiths or none are educated together in an environment where religious and cultural diversity is celebrated and encouraged.

Integrated Education Campaign – Key Facts – Sept 2018

The Integrated Education Movement began in the 1970s when a group of parents came together to argue for change in our education system that would enable more Catholic and Protestant children to be educated together in the same schools. This campaigning group was called All Children Together. They did not set out to create a whole new sector of schools but to encourage existing schools to become integrated. When no schools emerged, they decided to establish their own such school.

The first integrated school, Lagan College, opened in 1981, with 28 pupils in a scout hut on the outskirts of Belfast with no initial government funding. Today that same school is fully government funded and educates over 1,100 children. It is also the most oversubscribed school in Northern Ireland.

The Integrated Education Fund, established in 1992, has contributed more than £25 million in grants to support the growth and development of integrated education.

Since 1998, and the launch of the Integrated Education Fund's first 10 Year Development Plan, the number of integrated schools has grown from 45 to 65, and the provision of places in integrated schools has grown from 3% to 7% of the school population.

Today there are over 23,000 children in integrated schools.

There are currently 65 integrated schools, 20 are colleges (age 11-18) and 45 are primary schools (age 4-11). In addition, there are 19 integrated playgroups/nurseries for 3 and 4 year olds.

Independent opinion polls and surveys have always demonstrated a far greater demand for integrated school places than are currently provided. A majority of people continually express their preference for mixed religion schooling (around 70%). Even allowing for opinion polls to express more moderate opinion, the gap between desire and supply is vast.

Parents create integrated schools, not government. Parents have either set up new schools on 'greenfield' sites or they have voted by parental ballot to 'transform' an existing school into an integrated school. Approximately one third of all integrated schools are schools that transformed to integrated status.

Integrated schools seek to provide an inclusive and integrated ethos in the school as well as a religious and cultural mix of pupils from different backgrounds. Catholic children are supported and prepared for the sacraments. Protestant children undertake bible studies. Other world religions are also explored and celebrated. Integrated schools are not secular and encourage participation of different faiths in school life and festivals, as well as respecting those children of no religion.

Many integrated schools also have a 'social class mix' as well as religious mix – on average around 23% of children are eligible for free school meals.

There is considerable independent evidence demonstrating that integrated education makes a positive contribution to social attitudes, intergroup contact and friendship across the community divide.

Our Vision

A Northern Ireland where, increasingly, children from different traditions learn and play together at school, helping to build a society where there is respect and celebration, not fear, of religious and cultural diversity.

The Integrated Education Fund (IEF) shares the vision, held by the overwhelming majority of people in Northern Ireland, of a united community and a shared future. Many believe that more integration and mixing between communities are essential to building a better and more reconciled society.

67% of people want more integrated education (LucidTalk 2018) - where children from Protestant, Catholic, other faith backgrounds and none, are educated together in the same schools and where the symbols, ethos and traditions of the entire community are valued and respected.

The IEF sees the development of more integrated education in a reformed education system as an essential ingredient of this future –a system which also ensures that young people, including newcomer pupils, LGBTQ pupils, and pupils with additional needs, feel confident and welcome in the school environment. The IEF wants an education system which fully prepares its young people to contribute positively to a modern democracy and be successful citizens in an increasingly complex global society.

The aspiration of parents for more integration must be acted upon. To achieve this needs meaningful reform of the way education is planned, managed and delivered. There have been too many well intentioned projects and minor adjustments which do not sufficiently impact on the core nature of Northern Ireland's archaic, segregated system of schools.

Integration works for everybody.
The education system needs to change.

Integrated and Effective

1. Social Benefit: Positive Attitudes

Independent research indicates that children who attend integrated or mixed religion schools are more likely to have positive social attitudes to, and have more friendships with, pupils with a different background to their own.

Integrated schools are more likely to reflect the makeup of society at large, thus helping to prepare children for life after school where many are likely to work and socialise in a mixed environment whether in third level education or employment.

2. Educational Benefit: Preparation for Life

The development of integrated schools has demonstrated that people from all religious, cultural and social backgrounds can work, learn and play together, successfully. It has contributed to the growing acceptance that learning together can enhance an educational experience, adding value to a child's education.

Dear colleagues,

You may have already heard, but this Friday will be my last day at the Department of Education – I have accepted a position in Nashville, TN and will be moving down next week. While I am very excited for this new chapter of my life, I am also saddened to leave working with so many great people here at ED.

It has truly been an honor to work with each of you over the past year and a half. Please continue to stay in touch – you can always reach me at (b)(6) @gmail.com – and let me know if you ever find yourself in Music City!

Jason,
The topic of Health Education/Physical Health, in general, are both captured resources on the NCSSLE TA Center website. However, feminine hygiene education is not included. A quick search, by NCSSLE, found a study conducted in a public middle school in VA (June 2011) that looked at feminine hygiene waste disposal management , but feminine hygiene education was not part of the study. A link to that report is shown below. Virginia school report: https://www.cdc.gov/niosh/hhe/reports/pdfs/2010-0045-3129.pdf.
Here are a couple of related resources:

- NIH Study Teaching Feminine Hygiene Skills to Young females with Autism Spectrum Disorder and Intellectual Disability: https://www.ncbi.nlm.nih.gov/pmc/articles/PMC4893027/
- How do period-friendly bathrooms help girls stay in school? https://www.oxfamamerica.org/explore/stories/how-do-period-friendly-bathrooms-help-girls-stay-in-school/

The above resources have been added to the NCSSLE website.

Jason,
I checked and we do not currently have any resources specifically on TSS on our TA websites. I looked for something I remembered from the past, but it was not on the sites anywhere. CDC has one particularly interesting resource https://www.cdc.gov/od/science/wewerethere/toxicshock/ that is a podcast of sorts about TSS and the page also offers some other resources. A couple of items you may want share tomorrow:

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

--We can put a link to this podcast on our NCSSLE site straight way
--We can also put a link in our weekly newsletter that goes out (as well as any other Federal resources he believes to be relevant)
--We now have a Federal Partners in School Health, much like School Safety. We are issuing a procurement to fund the development of a website, much like we are also doing in school safety. This should be up and running in about a year (the contract has not yet been awarded). Linking these Federal Resources from our partners will give stakeholders a one-stop shop for school health, including issues like TSS.
--We have worked with the Office of Adolescent and School Health at CDC, which I believe may be a good source of information and support
http://www.cdc.gov/healthyschools/

Let me know if you need anything else. Sorry there isn't more, but thanks for raising my awareness of this issue.

All,

We've tentatively planned 4 additional 90-minute training sessions in an effort to best align with your schedules:

Thursday, July 19 in LBJ, 8:30-10am
Tuesday, July 31 in LBJ, 8:30-10am
Wednesday, August 1 in LBJ, 8:30-10am
Wednesday, August 8 in UCP, 1-2:30pm

As part of our plan to build a more robust Enterprise Risk Management (ERM) capability over the next 10 months, the goal of these training sessions is to provide you with an executive-level understanding of how we intend to implement and leverage ERM to maximize the Department's ability to succeed in achieving our goals and objectives. You also will receive 1.5 hours of credit toward the annual 24-hour leadership training requirement!

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

I'll send calendar invites to you, and please feel free to accept whichever invite works best. If none work, please let me know as soon as possible so I can try to find a better time that might accommodate you.

Regards,

Phillip Juengst, Senior Advisor
Office of the Chief Financial Officer

Subject: ERM Training

Colleagues,

As you are or may be aware, we are beginning the next phase of our implementation of a more robust Enterprise Risk Management (ERM) capability. The Office of the Chief Financial Officer (OCFO) has, in the recent past, delivered 90-minute executive-level training sessions on the senior leader responsibilities for ERM. OCFO will schedule a few more sessions this month (July) in an attempt to accommodate the schedules of those who have not yet completed the training. Please make every effort to attend one of the sessions.

OCFO will also begin to offer very soon more in-depth training for your staff, and in August the Senior Management Council will begin discussions about our corporate appetite for risk to help guide risk management decisions within each principal office.

It is essential that we have your active participation in this effort to ensure a shared understanding of how we plan to manage risk across the Department in a strategic, coordinate way to deliver better results for students, communities, and taxpayers.

A special thanks to those individuals listed below who have already completed the training. For those who have not yet completed the training, I, on behalf of the Office of the Deputy Secretary and OCFO, renew the request to you to complete the training.

Thank you.

Hi Jason,

As you may have heard, I recently accepted a new position with a non-profit organization called EdReports.org. While I am excited to continue working in education policy, I am disappointed to end my time with the School Ambassador Fellowship the first week of July, a bit earlier than planned. I will be in DC on Tuesday and Wednesday next week (June 26-27) and would love to meet with you to hear what aspects of the Fellowship have been most valuable and how I can help prepare the next cohort for success before I officially transition out of the lead Fellow role. Please let me know if you have any availability during that time. It has been a true pleasure to work with you and I greatly appreciate your support through this extraordinary experience.

Kindly,

Melody Arabo

Subject: ERM training for senior leaders and managers

All,

As mentioned in our initial discussions with you about Enterprise Risk Management (ERM), we are going to begin offering 90 minute training sessions to senior leaders and managers. As part of our plan to build a more robust Enterprise Risk Management (ERM) capability over the next 9-12 months, the goal of these training sessions is to provide an executive-level understanding of how we intend to implement and leverage ERM to maximize the Department's ability to succeed in achieving our goals and objectives.

I'll be sending calendar invitations for each of the sessions below. Feel free to accept the invitation that works best for you and decline the others. Please also forward the invitations to any key management officials (division directors, etc) that should attend. If need be due to schedule conflicts, we may add executive-level training sessions in July. We'll also be scheduling training sessions later this summer for POC risk liaisons as well as other supervisors and staff that are interested.

- Session 1: June 13, 1-2:30pm in FB6 1W128
- Session 2: June 14, 3-4:30pm in PCP 5170
- Session 3: June 25, 10:30am-12pm in FB6 1W128
- Session 4: June 25, 2:30-4pm in UCP 1102A/B

If you have any questions about the training, please don't hesitate to reach out.

We are sorry for any confusion, but need to add this meeting back to our calendars. The K12 Restart program team would like to raise two issues related to the FL application for K12 Restart funding. The first is a definitional question of non-public elementary school and how it relates to eligibility for K12 recovery program funds. The second is the proposed award amount for FL based on the data from FL's application.

As decided – we are streamlining this group. Please do not forward this invite, others will be invited depending on the issue discussed. Thanks!

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

U.S. Department of Education Strategic Plan for Fiscal Years 2018–22

ED-17-0431-F-003662

OVERSIGHT

Message from the Secretary

When confronted with any decision at the Department, my first question is always the same: what will most benefit students? Improving education for every student is the entirety of the Department's mission, and this administration remains laser-focused on keeping students at the center of all we do.

In order to better serve students and prepare them for the opportunities and challenges of the 21st century, we can no longer afford to simply tinker around the edges. The U.S. Department of Education's Strategic Plan for Fiscal Years (FY) 2018–22 provides a bold framework for implementing President Trump's education agenda to help our students succeed and strengthen America's global competitiveness. We can take significant strides toward addressing the shortcomings in American education by returning decision-making power to those closest to students: parents, educators, states and local communities.

The Every Student Succeeds Act (ESSA)–signed into law in 2015 and currently in its first year of implementation–does just that. No two states are the same–each has its own unique education challenges and opportunities. And, as in any other sector, the best solutions in education will come from the bottom up, not mandated from the top down. ESSA's organizing principle reflects this reality: states, not the federal government, must lead the way in improving education for every student in America. It is our hope that, in turn, the states will do the right thing and empower parents and local communities.

Implementing ESSA is just the first step in making education more student-centric to serve the inherent unique needs of each child. Every student has different abilities and learns in different ways. Students should have access to a wide range of educational options, and their families should be able to choose the learning environment that best meets the needs of their child. It is imperative all students gain that access, regardless of where they live or how much money their family earns.

But a student's education should not end after graduating from high school. There are many pathways students can choose in their quest for lifelong learning and employment, and the number of students seeking alternatives to a traditional 4-year college degree is expected to grow in the coming years. We are committed to supporting the expansion of available postsecondary education opportunities to better meet students' needs and give them the skills to succeed.

We have started by making Pell Grants available year-round. This gives low-income students the flexibility to complete their education at a faster pace if they so choose, thereby potentially reducing their debt and allowing them to pursue the next chapter of their lives.

Access to federal student aid has allowed millions of students to further their education, yet the customer experience for acquiring and paying off these loans has been subpar at best. Complex applications, confusing notifications and multiple platforms have all led to a lack of clarity and created an onerous process for borrowers. This reality has prompted us to begin transforming Federal Student Aid's service delivery by implementing the Next Generation Processing and Servicing Environment. There is no reason a student should not be able to fill out the Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA) on their phone in one sitting. Our goal is to put in place an environment that will greatly enhance the user experience while protecting taxpayer dollars.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

Finally, it is important for the Department not only to look for avenues where we can help, but also to examine whether we are creating unnecessary burdens on educators, administrators and, most importantly, families. We want to foster a culture of innovation in education, and that begins by reviewing and removing those regulations that make it harder for educators to do what they do best: educate.

Per the President's executive order on regulatory reform, the Department is conducting a thorough review of all regulations and guidance documents currently on the books to ensure they are helping, not hindering, students. After an initial review, we rescinded over 600 outdated subregulatory documents, making it easier for families, educators and administrators to find relevant resources the Department provides.

It is incumbent upon us to bring education up to speed to meet the ever-evolving demands of the 21st century. Thanks to the support of the President, and with the efforts of our entire staff, the Department of Education is poised to do just that.

Betsy DeVos
Secretary of Education

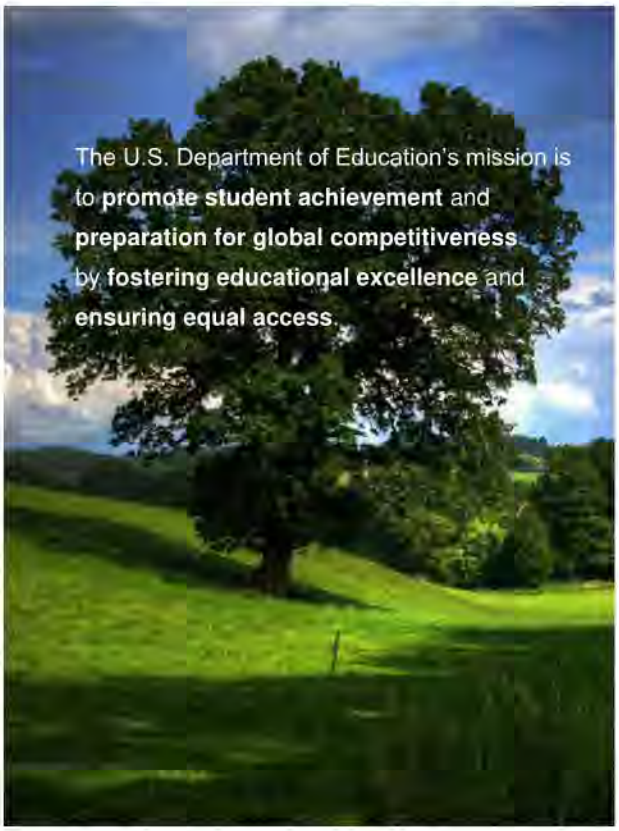
Department's Mission



The U.S. Department of Education (the Department) executes the laws passed by Congress to promote student academic achievement and preparation for global competitiveness. The Department works with parents, students, educational institutions, school districts and states to foster educational excellence and to ensure equal access to education for all students.

The Department pursues its mission by administering programs that provide services throughout an individual's entire lifespan–from early intervention services to employment programs. Many of these programs provide grants to state or local educational agencies and support students and families from vulnerable populations, including children with disabilities and those from disadvantaged backgrounds. These programs also provide grants and loans to postsecondary students and facilitate research that examines ways that schools, districts, states and postsecondary institutions can improve America's education system. In addition, the Department fulfills its mission through the enforcement of civil rights laws that ensure equal access.

While recognizing the primary role of states and school districts in providing high-quality education, the Department is committed to helping ensure students throughout the nation develop skills to succeed in school, pursue postsecondary opportunities and transition to the workforce. Through its Strategic Plan for Fiscal Years (FY) 2018–22, the Department's vision is to support educational institutions, parents, families and communities in developing their capacity to improve outcomes for all students. The Department's Strategic Goals and associated Strategic Objectives are shown in Figure 1.

In addition to establishing the Strategic Goals and Strategic Objectives that will guide the Department's policy, budget and human resource decisions during the next four years, this Strategic Plan aligns with the Agency Reform Plan. Specifically, the implementation strategies that support this Strategic Plan leverage opportunities to manage programs and to deliver services more effectively to the students, parents and communities the Department serves, as well as to create a more productive and rewarding place to work for its employees.

The Department engaged stakeholders during the development of this Strategic Plan and its Agency Reform Plan. Specifically, in July 2017, the Department invited feedback from education stakeholders on how the Department could best serve the needs of America's students, families and educators and implement its mission. The Department also shared the initial draft of the Strategic Plan framework with Congress at that time. This early consultation informed the development of both plans. In November 2017, the Department shared a draft of its Strategic Plan on its website and invited feedback again. This Strategic Plan establishes goals and objectives that aim to improve services to the public by increasing the flexibility and support the Department provides to states, districts and postsecondary institutions in their efforts to provide a high-quality education to all students.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

In collaboration with the Office of Management and Budget (OMB), the Department establishes four Agency Priority Goals (APGs) for FY 2018–19 that align with this Strategic Plan and the Agency Reform Plan. These APGs and the related Strategic Objectives are shown in Figure 2 below.

FY 2018–19 Agency Priority Goals

APG	Related Strategic Objective
Improve the access to, and the quality and transparency of, school choice options for K-12 students. By September 30, 2019, the Charter School Program (CSP) will support the creation and expansion of 300 new charter schools nationally. The CSP will also support the enrollment of 50,000 students in new charter schools. Additionally, by September 30, 2019, the Department will disseminate eight resources, at least one per quarter, on evidence-based and promising practices related to school choice.	Strategic Objective 1.1: Increase high-quality educational options and empower students and parents to choose an education that meets their needs.
Improve borrowers' access to quality customer service. By September 30, 2019, Federal Student Aid will improve customers' access to and availability of quality customer service by decreasing the overall average speed of answer to 60 seconds or less, decreasing abandoned rates to three percent or less and requiring all non-default federal student loan servicers to expand and standardize call center hours.	Strategic Objective 2.4: Improve quality of service for customers across the entire student aid life cycle.
Improve student privacy and data security at Institutions of Higher Education (IHEs) through outreach and compliance efforts. By September 30, 2019, the Department will increase information security program outreach activities to IHEs by 40% in order to help protect IT systems and data privacy and commence audits of IHEs subject to A-133 and Gramm-Leach-Bliley Act (GLBA), resulting in 36 IHEs (from a baseline of zero) completing an audit of GLBA-related information security safeguards with no significant findings.	Strategic Objective 3.2: Improve privacy protections for, and transparency of, education data both at the Department and in the education community.
Provide regulatory relief to education stakeholders. By September 30, 2019, the Department will reduce the regulatory burden on education stakeholders by submitting to OMB no less than 25 deregulatory actions (against a baseline of zero (0) for FYs 2015 and 2016).	Strategic Objective 4.1: Provide regulatory relief to educational institutions and reduce burden by identifying time-consuming regulations, processes and policies and working to improve or eliminate them, while continuing to protect taxpayers from waste and abuse.

Cross-Agency Priority (CAP) Goals

In addition to the APGs, the Department contributes to CAP Goals established by the Administration. These CAP Goals are used by leadership to accelerate progress on a limited number of Presidential priority areas where implementation requires active collaboration among multiple agencies. The Department will contribute to the CAP goals, as appropriate and will include information on its contributions in the FY 2018 Annual Performance Report and FY 2020 Annual Performance Plan.

The Department supports educational institutions, parents and state and local communities in developing their capacity to improve outcomes for all students. As such, the success of this Strategic Plan relies on the resources available for the Department to support these education stakeholders.

Details on annual performance and program evaluations are available in the Department's Annual Performance Reports, available online at https://www2.ed.gov/about/reports/annual/index.html.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

Strategic Goal 1

Support state and local efforts to improve learning outcomes for all P-12 students in every community.

Outcomes

Strategic Goal 1 and Strategic Objectives 1.1-1.4 focus on outcomes related to the transition from the No Child Left Behind Act to implementation of the Every Student Succeeds Act (ESSA), which reauthorized the Elementary and Secondary Education Act in December 2015.

Every Student Succeeds Act* (ESSA) Highlights

- Solidifies high expectations for all students.
- Provides for a balanced approach to testing.
- Provides opportunities for children to access high-quality preschool.
- Invests in evidence-based and innovative local programs.
- Provides intervention and support for schools and students that need the most help.

The hallmark of the ESSA is the flexibility it provides for states. The ESSA maintains important transparency and accountability provisions for all students. Additionally, grants and programs authorized by law help ensure that all students receive a well-rounded education. The ESSA provides the flexibility for states to do what is best for children while preserving important protections for economically disadvantaged students, children with disabilities, English language learners and other vulnerable students. The law requires that states take steps to ensure all students have access to excellent teachers and positive, safe learning environments that equip them for college and career success.

The ESSA requires states to develop program plans with ambitious targets to close student achievement and graduation rate gaps among student groups to meet established goals that require progress for all students.

The Department will annually work with states to ensure that all required public data elements related to student and school performance are being reported in the required timeframe. Increased transparency will empower parents and students and will provide an opportunity for states and other education and community stakeholders to identify areas for targeted technical assistance that the Department can support.

The ESSA ensures that all students have access to excellent teachers and a positive and safe learning environment to equip them for college and career success.

The Department's work on this Strategic Goal and related objectives also supports children with disabilities. Pursuant to the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), the Department works to ensure that all eligible children with disabilities have a free appropriate public education designed to meet their unique needs and prepare them for further education, employment and independent living.

To meet this responsibility, the Department works to protect the rights of children with disabilities and their parents, to promote systemic improvement in the delivery of special education services and related services and of supplementary aids and services and to support the development and implementation of personnel preparation. The Department also provides states and localities with the technical assistance and other support necessary to improve educational results for children with disabilities.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

The Department will provide technical assistance through a variety of modes, by:

- Providing tools, resources and technical support related to understanding the requirements of the laws.
- Engaging in performance reviews to ensure implementation of the laws.
- Providing individual assistance as needed, as well as opportunities for peer-to-peer learning through communities of practice and learning collaboratives to expose educators to subject matter experts and promising practices in other states.

Technical Assistance to Support Strategic Goal 1

- Tools, resources and technical support.
- Performance reviews.
- Individual assistance and peer-to-peer learning through communities of practice.

This technical assistance aims to support states that implement evidence-based practices, continuous improvement, data reporting, engagement of stakeholders, effective allocation of resources and management of performance to maximize opportunity and the impact of federal programs.

Strategic Objective 1.1

Increase high-quality educational options and empower students and parents to choose an education that meets their needs.

The Department will support greater state and local flexibility in elementary and secondary education and encourage state and local educational agencies to increase the number and quality of educational opportunities to provide for meaningful school choice. This Strategic Objective aims to improve access to high-quality K-12 educational options by supporting school choice and providing families, especially families from historically underserved communities, with the information and tools needed to select the option that best meets their children's needs. Regardless of ZIP code or family income, parents and students should have access to high-quality educational options.

Implementation Strategies

To implement this Strategic Objective, the Department will encourage state and local educational agencies to expand school choice by administering programs that increase educational options (e.g., the Charter Schools Program and the Magnet Schools Assistance Program). The Department will also promote the adoption of student-centered funding formulas combined with open enrollment systems. Additionally, the Department will support state and local efforts by providing technical assistance that:

Expanded Educational Options to Support School Choice

- Charter Schools Program.
- Student-centered funding formulas.
- Open enrollment systems.

- Encourages collaboration with external organizations and subject matter experts.
- Supports the implementation of innovative practices.
- Highlights and benchmarks best practices.
- Supports states in the implementation of their ESSA plans.
- Ensures federal funding is dispersed to all schools, including charter schools, both equitably and in accordance with the law.
- Strengthens chartering and charter school quality.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

- Empowers parents and students by disseminating information about school choice options.
- Protects the rights of economically disadvantaged students, children with disabilities, English language learners and other vulnerable learners.

Through this Strategic Objective, the Department will seek to create new opportunities to support school choice, including support for new investments in public and private school choice.

Strategic Objective 1.2

Provide all P-12 students with equal access to high-quality educational opportunities.

This Strategic Objective considers characteristics that are necessary to ensure both access to opportunities and the quality of such opportunities. The ESSA provides a framework to characterize high-quality educational opportunities, including:

- High academic standards and high-quality assessments.
- A well-rounded education that includes a safe and healthy environment and integrated technology.
- Access to effective teachers and strong systems of collaboration among education stakeholders.
- Proper support and interventions for struggling students and opportunities for enrichment experiences before, after and during the school day.

The ESSA provides a framework that characterizes high-quality educational opportunities.

Access to such educational opportunities for all students, regardless of race, color, religion, sex, national origin or disability, is critical for students to have the opportunity to reach their full potential.

Implementation Strategies

School quality, climate and safety are essential components of a high-quality educational opportunity. The primary implementation strategy for this Strategic Objective is to support educational institutions, parents and communities in developing their capacity to improve outcomes for all students. In this support role, the Department will:

- Provide technical assistance and tools to support states and increase their capacity to implement their ESSA state plans.
- Support state and local educational agencies in improving school conditions, thereby increasing access to instructional time and learning.
- Ensure students with disabilities have access to special education and related services and supplementary aids and services that meet their unique educational needs, including appropriately ambitious individualized education program goals and the chance to meet challenging objectives.
- Leverage Department accountability systems, such as the Office of Special Education and Rehabilitative Services' Results Driven Accountability, to support states in improving outcomes for students.
- Support educational agencies as they improve and increase their technology infrastructure, connectivity and professional development to effectively integrate educational technology.
- Support increased access to transformative learning experiences through the use of high-quality digital resources, including openly-licensed resources, particularly for rural students.
- Ensure equal access to education and promote educational excellence across the nation through vigorous enforcement of civil rights and the provision of technical assistance to help schools achieve compliance with the civil rights laws enforced by the Office for Civil Rights (OCR).

- Monitor and share data from ESSA state plans, including data specific to conditions of learning and educator effectiveness, so that the public is aware of state educational agencies' goals and activities.
- Support the implementation of evidence-based strategies in instructional language programs for English learners through technical assistance and dissemination of new research and information on English Language Learner pedagogy.
- Monitor and share data and information from IDEA State Performance Plans, including the State Systemic Improvement Plan, so that the public is aware of the extent to which each state is meeting the requirements of IDEA and improving results for children with disabilities.
- Support state agencies and local providers in improving results for young children with disabilities by providing technical assistance and support.
- Provide evidence-based resources and technical assistance through the Office of Special Education Programs (OSEP) and OSEP-funded technical assistance centers to states, schools, early childhood programs and families to support the smooth transitions of preschoolers with disabilities from early intervention to preschool and from preschool to kindergarten.

Strategic Objective 1.3

Prepare all students for successful transitions to college and careers by supporting access to dual enrollment, job skills development and high-quality science, technology, engineering and mathematics (STEM).

This Strategic Objective will help the Department support state and local educational agencies in the implementation of well-rounded education programs that prepare students for college and careers. All students, including students with disabilities and educationally disadvantaged students, have the right to reach their full potential. Students should have opportunities that prepare them for the transition to college and meaningful careers.

Implementation Strategies

Access to accelerated coursework to earn postsecondary credit while still in high school, such as Advanced Placement and International Baccalaureate courses and dual or concurrent enrollment programs, is critical for students as they prepare for the transition to college and career. Pursuant to the Student Support and Academic Enrichment program authorized under Title IV, Part A, and the ESSA state report card requirements, the Department will support state and local educational agencies in their plans to provide all students a well-rounded education.

The Department's implementation of the Presidential Executive Order on Expanding Apprenticeships in America will also support this Strategic Objective by providing incentives to state and local educational agencies to expand the earn-and-learn models available to secondary students. These models combine a career-oriented academic curriculum, relevant work experience and student financial assistance. Under this Strategic Objective, the Department will encourage grantees to enhance students' access to opportunities that will

Support for Successful Student Transitions to College and Careers

- Accelerated high school coursework to earn postsecondary credit.
- Dual or concurrent enrollment programs.
- Incentives to state and local educational agencies.
- Expansion of earn-and-learn models available to secondary students.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

challenge and prepare them for college and careers.

Additionally, the Department will:

- Provide technical assistance to state and local educational agencies in supporting vulnerable populations, such as students in rural communities, to transition successfully to college and careers.
- Promote the importance of STEM skills (e.g., problem solving, critical thinking) and financial literacy related to career readiness.
- Provide technical assistance designed to support state vocational rehabilitation agencies and third-party apprenticeship entities, employers and training providers that will focus on strategies and related activities to support the participation of individuals with disabilities in both new and existing apprenticeships.
- Provide technical assistance to state and local agencies to support career, technical and adult education.
- Provide technical assistance to states in implementing pre-employment transition services to youth with disabilities to ensure a smooth and effective transition to post-secondary education and/or employment.

Strategic Objective 1.4

Support agencies and institutions in the implementation of evidence-based strategies and practices that build the capacity of school staff and families to support students' academic performance.

This Strategic Objective focuses on public investments in education that result in positive academic outcomes for students. The Department generates, collects and distributes evidence through valid and reliable data, strong research and rigorous evaluations that can help states and school districts identify what works, for which students and under what conditions. Through this Strategic Objective, the Department is also expanding its work to support states as they implement provisions in the ESSA that require the use of evidence when determining what education interventions to implement.

Implementation Strategies

The ESSA recognizes that the primary responsibility for creating, improving and sustaining public education systems lies with state and local educational agencies. Consequently, the implementation strategies for this Strategic Objective focus on providing resources and support to state and local educational agencies to assist them in identifying, implementing and expanding evidence-based strategies. As such, the Department will provide to grantees existing resources supported by evidence and collaborate with external partners to help disseminate resources supported by evidence to their constituents.

To date, the Department has released non-regulatory guidance to serve as a framework for technical assistance related to the implementation of ESSA's evidence provision. The guidance, Using Evidence to Strengthen Education Investments, recommends a five-step decision-making process to promote continuous improvement and support better outcomes for students. This guidance serves as a framework for the Department's technical assistance related to implementation of ESSA's evidence provisions. The Department will continue its outreach to stakeholders. A key principle across these strategies is sustained technical assistance that continuously builds capacity and targets specific state and local needs. The Department will also continue to support efforts to build evidence on effective strategies to improve teaching and learning and to disseminate the results to states, school districts and the public.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

The Department's efforts on this Strategic Objective extend to families by bolstering their ability to assist in their children's academic development. For children with disabilities, the Department will continue to support its nationwide network of Parent Training and Information Centers and Community Parent Resource Centers. These centers provide parents with information and training about disabilities, protections under IDEA and rights under other relevant laws and local, state and national resources to support children with disabilities. Community Parent Resource Centers focus on reaching isolated and underserved parents of children with disabilities, such as those with low incomes or with limited English proficiency, in a specific community.

There are nearly 100 Parent Training and Information Centers and Community Parent Resource Centers in the U.S. and Territories. These centers provide free information to parents of children with disabilities.

Contributing Programs and External Partners for Goal 1

The Office of Elementary and Secondary Education is a primary contributor to this goal, particularly with its management of Title I, Title IV Part A, and the Weighted Student Funding Formula pilot under ESSA. OSERS supports the implementation of the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act, which includes the parent centers, and the Rehabilitation Act of 1973. The Office of Innovation and Improvement implements discretionary grant programs that contribute to this Strategic Objective, including the Charter School Program and the Education and Innovation Research program. Finally, the Institute of Education Sciences, OCR, the Office of English Language Acquisition and the Office of Career, Technical and Adult Education also contribute to this Strategic Goal.

Human Capital Strategies for Goal 1

ESSA promotes local innovation and the use of evidence to ensure that all students in America are prepared to succeed in college and careers. As such, human capital strategies that support this Strategic Goal focus on building the internal capacity of program officers to support states and local educational agencies as they implement state plans under ESSA. To build on this capacity, the Department will conduct needs assessments and provide on-the-job training, classroom training and developmental opportunities to close identified knowledge, skill and competency gaps and improve staff ability to deliver technical assistance and support related to the transition to and implementation of ESSA.

This human capital strategy supports the Department's commitment to ensure human resources are aligned with agency mission, goals and objectives through analysis, planning and investment.

Strategic Goal 2

Expand postsecondary educational opportunities, improve outcomes to foster economic opportunity and promote an informed, thoughtful and productive citizenry.

Outcomes

Strategic Goal 2 and Strategic Objectives 2.1–2.5 focus on expanding the Department's efforts to support innovative, accessible and affordable paths to postsecondary credentials and job-ready skills.

In addition to supporting expanded postsecondary opportunities, the Department has a number of initiatives focused on affordability. These initiatives ensure borrowers have the best information available to make postsecondary program selection and associated borrowing decisions. The Department also continues to help students understand their financial aid options and repayment obligations. It is important that the Department expand its outreach efforts and support states and institutions in developing alternative pathways to postsecondary credentials that lead to employment, particularly for populations with barriers to employment, such as individuals with disabilities. Specifically, the Department will:

Strategic Goal 4

Reform the effectiveness, efficiency and accountability of the Department.

Outcomes

The Department will seek to eliminate outdated, unnecessary or ineffective regulations.

The Department's organizational capacity relies not only on our human capital but also on other resources, including physical, material, financial and informational resources. Strategic Goal 4 and Strategic Objectives 4.1–4.4 focus on improving the Department's processes, such as reviewing regulations, and where appropriate, on repealing, replacing or modifying regulations. Achievement of this goal will eliminate outdated, unnecessary or ineffective regulations; will repeal, replace or modify those regulations that eliminate jobs or inhibit job creation, impose costs that exceed benefits, or otherwise impose undue burdens on regulated parties; and will establish a high-functioning Enterprise Risk Management (ERM) process while also improving Federal Employee Viewpoint Survey scores.

Provide regulatory relief to educational institutions and reduce burden by identifying time-consuming regulations, processes and policies and working to improve or eliminate them, while continuing to protect taxpayers from waste and abuse.

This Strategic Objective will help the Department better serve the public by providing regulatory relief and improving its decision-making processes, including those that impact grant and contract awards and the reporting burden on recipients. This burden reduction and relief effort will both streamline and improve internal processes for a more efficient workplace, which will allow the Department to better serve the public.

Implementation Strategies

Implementation strategies that focus on streamlining and processes that reduce the reporting burden of recipients include:

- Reducing internal transaction costs by reviewing internal processes and identifying opportunities to increase efficiency.
- Identifying opportunities to collaborate with other federal agencies to improve common processes, such as the federal hiring process.
- Using the Regulatory Reform Task Force to identify and, as appropriate, repeal, replace or modify outdated, inconsistent, unnecessary or ineffective regulations that (i) eliminate jobs or inhibit job creation, (ii) impose costs that exceed benefits, or otherwise impose undue burdens on regulated parties, or (iii) continue to rely on executive orders or other Presidential Directives that have been rescinded or substantially modified or are no longer in effect.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

Strategic Objective 4.2

The Path Forward

States, school districts and education institutions have the primary roles in providing high-quality education. As such, the Department is limited in its authority and cannot influence all education outcomes; however, the Department is committed to supporting states, school districts and education institutions in helping students develop skills to succeed in school, pursue postsecondary opportunities and transition to the workforce.

Another factor that impacts this Strategic Plan is the capacity of state and local educational agencies. With responsibility over program administration, these agencies will need to consider their workforce needs. Additionally, in the current economic climate, students' needs and education costs are growing while budgets are contracting. Expanding services and support to address students' academic needs and overall health will continue to be a challenge given fiscal constraints. Finally, the differences in availability of funding and resources at the state and local levels remain a challenge in serving all students, including vulnerable populations. Throughout the implementation of this Strategic Plan the Department will provide technical assistance and partner with institutions to address these external factors.

The Department will continue to use quarterly performance reviews, targeted strategic initiatives and outreach to leaders and education stakeholders to assess progress and garner engagement toward achieving strategic goals and outcomes. Continuous improvement rests on ongoing cycles of assessing performance, examining data and applying lessons learned to improve practices. Strengthening a culture of continuous improvement is at the heart of the Department's efforts to partner with and support educators, administrators and policymakers, with the intent of obtaining better outcomes for all students.

Questions for Department of Education Entrance Conference (102640)
May 4, 2018 at 2:00pm; (b)(6)

I. Introductions and Background

1. Requesters: Rep. Virginia Foxx, Chair, House Education and the Workforce and Rep. Kevin Cramer

2. Current research questions:

    i. To what extent do areas with high concentrations of American Indian and Alaska Native students include school choice options, including public charter schools?

    ii. What is known about the academic achievement of American Indian and Alaska Native students attending traditional schools compared to those attending other types of schools?

II. Education programs related to American Indian and Alaska Native education and school choice

1. Please describe particular programs, if any, operated through the Office of Indian Education that are targeted at public or private school choice for American Indian and Alaska Native (AI/AN) students.

2. Please describe particular programs, if any, operated through the Office of Innovation and Improvement that are targeted to AI/AN students or communities.

3. What, if any, of these programs has Education seen as particularly beneficial to AI/AN students or communities? What, if any, challenges or constraints has the Department experienced related to key school choice programs and AI/AN students or communities?

4. Are there other key Education programs or funding opportunities that could be used to foster choice for AI/AN students? For example, does Impact Aid allow this type of flexibility?

5. Has the Secretary announced any new programs or policy changes related to such flexibilities?

III. Data on school choice for AI/AN students

6. To review public school choice options for AI/AN students, in addition to using the Common Core of Data for enrollment and school type data (i.e., regular public schools, charter, magnet, and virtual schools), are there other datasets that you would suggest we review as part of our inquiry?

7. If we were to include data on private schools serving AI/AN students, would Education's Private School Universe Survey be the most appropriate dataset? Are there other datasets that you would suggest we review for private school data for this population?

8. In the National Indian Education Study (NIES), Education defines a school as a high-density public school for AI/AN students if 25 percent or more of the students in the school were AI/AN. Can you describe how you developed that threshold of a high-density school?

    i. Has Education conducted any other work looking at areas with high concentrations of AI/AN students?

    ii. Has Education used any other measures of "high-density" in its research, such as at the school district or census tract level?

IV. Data on achievement for AI/AN students

9. The NIES contains breakouts of achievement data for all AI/AN students in public schools, compared to Bureau of Indian Education schools and high- or low- density public schools. Has Education analyzed NIES data by any other school types?

    i. For example, in the school questionnaire for the 2015 NIES, there is an option for schools to select "charter school." Could the data be reliably analyzed at this level?

    ii. Is the 2015 NIES data, including confidence intervals/margins of error, available for analyses outside of Education?

10. In our preliminary look at recent years of the National Assessment of Education Progress (NAEP) data for AI/AN students, it appears that data for this population are often unable to be reported when disaggregated by public school type. Is this Education's understanding as well?

    i. Has Education conducted any analyses of NAEP data (other than NIES) by type of school that would include data on AI/AN students?

    ii. Are there other datasets you would suggest we explore in terms of disaggregating academic achievement for AI/AN students by school type?

11. Please describe analyses, if any, that Education has conducted using data from state-level achievement tests, particularly as they relate to AI/AN students.

V. Wrap-up and administrative

12. Are there any other key programs or ongoing efforts at Education related to these topics that we have not yet discussed?

13. Are there any experts in this area the Department would recommend we contact or any particular research studies that we should become familiar with for context?

14. Identifying points of contact for future questions, document requests, assistance with datasets, etc.

"Hi All,
I hope you all had an enjoyable weekend! In addition to Teacher Appreciation Week, it is also Public Service Recognition Week and Mark wanted to do organize an event to show appreciation for all of our OESE colleagues. The event will consist Mark, Jason, and Lisa walking the 3rd floor, handing out TBD "cold treats" (popsicles, ice cream sandwiches – open to your suggestions).

I imagine, Lisa and Jason's schedules get more hectic as the week proceeds, but we were hoping to find a time that works for Jason, Lisa, and Mark. Can you all let me know Jason/Lisa's availability, for 30 minutes during the following dates/times.

Wednesday (5/9): 2:30pm-4pm

(vii) provide for—

(I) the participation in such assessments of all students;

(II) the appropriate accommodations, such as interoperability with, and ability to use, assistive technology, for children with disabilities (as defined in section 602(3) of the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (20 U.S.C. 1401(3))), including students with the most significant cognitive disabilities, and students with a disability who are provided accommodations under an Act other than the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (20 U.S.C. 1400 et seq.), necessary to measure the academic achievement of such children relative to the challenging State academic standards or alternate academic achievement standards described in paragraph (1)(E); and

(III) the inclusion of English learners, who shall be assessed in a valid and reliable manner and provided appropriate accommodations on assessments administered to such students under this paragraph, including, to the extent practicable, assessments in the language and form most likely to yield accurate data on what such students know and can do in academic content areas, until such students have achieved English language proficiency, as determined under subparagraph (G);

(viii) at the State's discretion—

(I) be administered through a single summative assessment; or

(II) be administered through multiple statewide interim assessments during the course of the academic year that result in a single summative score that provides valid, reliable, and transparent information on student achievement or growth;

(ix) notwithstanding clause (vii)(III), provide for assessments (using tests in English) of reading or language arts of any student who has attended school in the United States (not including the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico) for 3 or more consecutive school years, except that if the local educational agency determines, on a case-by-case individual basis, that academic assessments in another language or form would likely yield more accurate and reliable information on what such student knows and can do, the local educational agency may make a determination to assess such student in the appropriate language other than English for a period that does not exceed 2 additional consecutive years, provided that such student has not yet reached a level of English language proficiency sufficient to yield valid and reliable information on what such student knows and can do on tests (written in English) of reading or language arts;

(x) produce individual student interpretive, descriptive, and diagnostic reports, consistent with clause (iii), regarding achievement on such assessments that allow parents, teachers, principals, and other school leaders to understand and address the specific academic needs of students, and that are provided to parents, teachers, and school leaders, as soon as is practicable after the assessment is given, in an understandable and uniform format, and to the extent practicable, in a language that parents can understand;

(xi) enable results to be disaggregated within each State, local educational agency, and school by—

(I) each major racial and ethnic group;

(II) economically disadvantaged students as compared to students who are not economically disadvantaged;

(III) children with disabilities as compared to children without disabilities;

(IV) English proficiency status;

(V) gender; and

(VI) migrant status,

except that such disaggregation shall not be required in the case of a State, local educational agency, or a school in which the number of students in a subgroup is insufficient to yield statistically reliable information or the results would reveal personally identifiable information about an individual student;

(xii) enable itemized score analyses to be produced and reported, consistent with clause (iii), to local educational agencies and schools, so that parents, teachers, principals, other school leaders, and administrators can interpret and address the specific academic needs of students as indicated by the students' achievement on assessment items; and

(xiii) be developed, to the extent practicable, using the principles of universal design for learning.

(C) EXCEPTION FOR ADVANCED MATHEMATICS IN MIDDLE SCHOOL.—A State may exempt any 8th grade student from the assessment in mathematics described in subparagraph (B)(v)(I)(aa) if—

(i) such student takes the end-of-course assessment the State typically administers to meet the requirements of subparagraph (B)(v)(I)(bb) in mathematics;

(ii) such student's achievement on such end-of-course assessment is used for purposes of subsection (c)(4)(B)(i), in lieu of such student's achievement on the mathematics assessment required under subpara-

ED-17-0431-F-003739

graph (B)(v)(I)(aa), and such student is counted as participating in the assessment for purposes of subsection (c)(4)(B)(vi); and

(iii) in high school, such student takes a mathematics assessment pursuant to subparagraph (B)(v)(I)(bb) that—

(I) is any end-of-course assessment or other assessment that is more advanced than the assessment taken by such student under clause (i) of this subparagraph; and

(II) shall be used to measure such student's academic achievement for purposes of subsection (c)(4)(B)(i).

(D) ALTERNATE ASSESSMENTS FOR STUDENTS WITH THE MOST SIGNIFICANT COGNITIVE DISABILITIES.—

(i) ALTERNATE ASSESSMENTS ALIGNED WITH ALTERNATE ACADEMIC ACHIEVEMENT STANDARDS.—A State may provide for alternate assessments aligned with the challenging State academic standards and alternate academic achievement standards described in paragraph (1)(E) for students with the most significant cognitive disabilities, if the State—

(I) consistent with clause (ii), ensures that, for each subject, the total number of students assessed in such subject using the alternate assessments does not exceed 1 percent of the total number of all students in the State who are assessed in such subject;

(II) ensures that the parents of such students are clearly informed, as part of the process for developing the individualized education program (as defined in section 614(d)(1)(A) of the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (20 U.S.C. 1414(d)(1)(A)))—

(aa) that their child's academic achievement will be measured based on such alternate standards; and

(bb) how participation in such assessments may delay or otherwise affect the student from completing the requirements for a regular high school diploma;

(III) promotes, consistent with the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (20 U.S.C. 1400 et seq.), the involvement and progress of students with the most significant cognitive disabilities in the general education curriculum;

(IV) describes in the State plan the steps the State has taken to incorporate universal design for learning, to the extent feasible, in alternate assessments;

(V) describes in the State plan that general and special education teachers, and other appropriate staff—

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

ED-17-0431-F-003740

(aa) know how to administer the alternate assessments; and

(bb) make appropriate use of accommodations for students with disabilities on all assessments required under this paragraph;

(VI) develops, disseminates information on, and promotes the use of appropriate accommodations to increase the number of students with significant cognitive disabilities—

(aa) participating in academic instruction and assessments for the grade level in which the student is enrolled; and

(bb) who are tested based on challenging State academic standards for the grade level in which the student is enrolled; and

(VII) does not preclude a student with the most significant cognitive disabilities who takes an alternate assessment based on alternate academic achievement standards from attempting to complete the requirements for a regular high school diploma.

(ii) SPECIAL RULES.—

(I) RESPONSIBILITY UNDER IDEA.—Subject to the authority and requirements for the individualized education program team for a child with a disability under section 614(d)(1)(A)(i)(VI)(bb) of the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (20 U.S.C. 1414(d)(1)(A)(i)(VI)(bb)), such team, consistent with the guidelines established by the State and required under section 612(a)(16)(C) of such Act (20 U.S.C. 1412(c)(16)(C)) and clause (i)(II) of this subparagraph, shall determine when a child with a significant cognitive disability shall participate in an alternate assessment aligned with the alternate academic achievement standards.

(II) PROHIBITION ON LOCAL CAP.—Nothing in this subparagraph shall be construed to permit the Secretary or a State educational agency to impose on any local educational agency a cap on the percentage of students administered an alternate assessment under this subparagraph, except that a local educational agency exceeding the cap applied to the State under clause (i)(I) shall submit information to the State educational agency justifying the need to exceed such cap.

(III) STATE SUPPORT.—A State shall provide appropriate oversight, as determined by the State, of any local educational agency that is required to submit information to the State under subclause (II).

(IV) WAIVER AUTHORITY.—This subparagraph shall be subject to the waiver authority under section 8401.

(E) STATE AUTHORITY.—If a State educational agency provides evidence, which is satisfactory to the Secretary, that neither the State educational agency nor any other State government official, agency, or entity has sufficient authority, under State law, to adopt challenging State academic standards, and academic assessments aligned with such standards, which will be applicable to all students enrolled in the State's public elementary schools and secondary schools, then the State educational agency may meet the requirements of this subsection by—

(i) adopting academic standards and academic assessments that meet the requirements of this subsection, on a statewide basis, and limiting their applicability to students served under this part; or

(ii) adopting and implementing policies that ensure that each local educational agency in the State that receives grants under this part will adopt academic content and student academic achievement standards, and academic assessments aligned with such standards, which—

(I) meet all of the criteria in this subsection and any regulations regarding such standards and assessments that the Secretary may publish; and

(II) are applicable to all students served by each such local educational agency.

(F) LANGUAGE ASSESSMENTS.—

(i) IN GENERAL.—Each State plan shall identify the languages other than English that are present to a significant extent in the participating student population of the State and indicate the languages for which annual student academic assessments are not available and are needed.

(ii) SECRETARIAL ASSISTANCE.—The State shall make every effort to develop such assessments and may request assistance from the Secretary if linguistically accessible academic assessment measures are needed. Upon request, the Secretary shall assist with the identification of appropriate academic assessment measures in the needed languages, but shall not mandate a specific academic assessment or mode of instruction.

(G) ASSESSMENTS OF ENGLISH LANGUAGE PROFICIENCY.—

(i) IN GENERAL.—Each State plan shall demonstrate that local educational agencies in the State will provide for an annual assessment of English proficiency of all English learners in the schools served by the State educational agency.

(ii) ALIGNMENT.—The assessments described in clause (i) shall be aligned with the State's English language proficiency standards described in paragraph (1)(F).

(H) LOCALLY-SELECTED ASSESSMENT.—

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

(i) IN GENERAL.—Nothing in this paragraph shall be construed to prohibit a local educational agency from administering a locally-selected assessment in lieu of the State-designed academic assessment under subclause (I)(bb) and subclause (II)(cc) of subparagraph (B)(v), if the local educational agency selects a nationally-recognized high school academic assessment that has been approved for use by the State as described in clause (iii) or (iv) of this subparagraph.

(ii) STATE TECHNICAL CRITERIA.—To allow for State approval of nationally-recognized high school academic assessments that are available for local selection under clause (i), a State educational agency shall establish technical criteria to determine if any such assessment meets the requirements of clause (v).

(iii) STATE APPROVAL.—If a State educational agency chooses to make a nationally-recognized high school assessment available for selection by a local educational agency under clause (i), which has not already been approved under this clause, such State educational agency shall—

(I) conduct a review of the assessment to determine if such assessment meets or exceeds the technical criteria established by the State educational agency under clause (ii);

(II) submit evidence in accordance with subsection (a)(4) that demonstrates such assessment meets the requirements of clause (v); and

(III) after fulfilling the requirements of subclauses (I) and (II), approve such assessment for selection and use by any local educational agency that requests to use such assessment under clause (i).

(iv) LOCAL EDUCATIONAL AGENCY OPTION.—

(I) LOCAL EDUCATIONAL AGENCY.—If a local educational agency chooses to submit a nationally-recognized high school academic assessment to the State educational agency, subject to the approval process described in subclause (I) and subclause (II) of clause (iii) to determine if such assessment fulfills the requirements of clause (v), the State educational agency may approve the use of such assessment consistent with clause (i).

(II) STATE EDUCATIONAL AGENCY.—Upon such approval, the State educational agency shall approve the use of such assessment in any other local educational agency in the State that subsequently requests to use such assessment without repeating the process described in subclauses (I) and (II) of clause (iii).

(v) REQUIREMENTS.—To receive approval from the State educational agency under clause (iii), a locally-selected assessment shall—

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

(I) be aligned to the State's academic content standards under paragraph (1), address the depth and breadth of such standards, and be equivalent in its content coverage, difficulty, and quality to the State-designed assessments under this paragraph (and may be more rigorous in its content coverage and difficulty than such State-designed assessments);

(II) provide comparable, valid, and reliable data on academic achievement, as compared to the State-designed assessments, for all students and for each subgroup of students defined in subsection (c)(2), with results expressed in terms consistent with the State's academic achievement standards under paragraph (1), among all local educational agencies within the State;

(III) meet the requirements for the assessments under subparagraph (B) of this paragraph, including technical criteria, except the requirement under clause (i) of such subparagraph; and

(IV) provide unbiased, rational, and consistent differentiation between schools within the State to meet the requirements of subsection (c).

(vi) PARENTAL NOTIFICATION.—A local educational agency shall notify the parents of high school students served by the local educational agency—

(I) of its request to the State educational agency for approval to administer a locally-selected assessment; and

(II) upon approval, and at the beginning of each subsequent school year during which the locally selected assessment will be administered, that the local educational agency will be administering a different assessment than the State-designed assessments under subclause (I)(bb) and subclause (II)(cc) of subparagraph (B)(v).

(I) DEFERRAL.—A State may defer the commencement, or suspend the administration, but not cease the development, of the assessments described in this paragraph, for 1 year for each year for which the amount appropriated for grants under part B is less than $369,100,000.

(J) ADAPTIVE ASSESSMENTS.—

(i) IN GENERAL.—Subject to clause (ii), a State retains the right to develop and administer computer adaptive assessments as the assessments described in this paragraph, provided the computer adaptive assessments meet the requirements of this paragraph, except that—

(I) subparagraph (B)(i) shall not be interpreted to require that all students taking the computer adaptive assessment be administered the same assessment items; and

(II) such assessment—

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

ED-17-0431-F-003744

(aa) shall measure, at a minimum, each student's academic proficiency based on the challenging State academic standards for the student's grade level and growth toward such standards; and

(bb) may measure the student's level of academic proficiency and growth using items above or below the student's grade level, including for use as part of a State's accountability system under subsection (c).

(ii) STUDENTS WITH THE MOST SIGNIFICANT COGNITIVE DISABILITIES AND ENGLISH LEARNERS.—In developing and administering computer adaptive assessments—

(I) as the assessments allowed under subparagraph (D), a State shall ensure that such computer adaptive assessments—

(aa) meet the requirements of this paragraph, including subparagraph (D), except such assessments shall not be required to meet the requirements of clause (i)(II); and

(bb) assess the student's academic achievement to measure, in the subject being assessed, whether the student is performing at the student's grade level; and

(II) as the assessments required under subparagraph (G), a State shall ensure that such computer adaptive assessments—

(aa) meet the requirements of this paragraph, including subparagraph (G), except such assessment shall not be required to meet the requirements of clause (i)(II); and

(bb) assess the student's language proficiency, which may include growth towards such proficiency, in order to measure the student's acquisition of English.

(K) RULE OF CONSTRUCTION ON PARENT RIGHTS.—Nothing in this paragraph shall be construed as preempting a State or local law regarding the decision of a parent to not have the parent's child participate in the academic assessments under this paragraph.

(L) LIMITATION ON ASSESSMENT TIME.—Subject to Federal or State requirements related to assessments, evaluations, and accommodations, each State may, at the sole discretion of such State, set a target limit on the aggregate amount of time devoted to the administration of assessments for each grade, expressed as a percentage of annual instructional hours.

(3) EXCEPTION FOR RECENTLY ARRIVED ENGLISH LEARNERS.—

(A) ASSESSMENTS.—With respect to recently arrived English learners who have been enrolled in a school in one of the 50 States in the United States or the District of Columbia for less than 12 months, a State may choose to—

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

ED-17-0431-F-003745

(i) exclude—

(I) such an English learner from one administration of the reading or language arts assessment required under paragraph (2); and

(II) such an English learner's results on any of the assessments required under paragraph (2)(B)(v)(I) or (2)(G) for the first year of the English learner's enrollment in such a school for the purposes of the State-determined accountability system under subsection (c); or

(ii)(I) assess, and report the performance of, such an English learner on the reading or language arts and mathematics assessments required under paragraph (2)(B)(v)(I) in each year of the student's enrollment in such a school; and

(II) for the purposes of the State-determined accountability system—

(aa) for the first year of the student's enrollment in such a school, exclude the results on the assessments described in subclause (I);

(bb) include a measure of student growth on the assessments described in subclause (I) in the second year of the student's enrollment in such a school; and

(cc) include proficiency on the assessments described in subclause (I) in the third year of the student's enrollment in such a school, and each succeeding year of such enrollment.

(B) ENGLISH LEARNER SUBGROUP.—With respect to a student previously identified as an English learner and for not more than 4 years after the student ceases to be identified as an English learner, a State may include the results of the student's assessments under paragraph (2)(B)(v)(I) within the English learner subgroup of the subgroups of students (as defined in subsection (c)(2)(D)) for the purposes of the State-determined accountability system.

(c) STATEWIDE ACCOUNTABILITY SYSTEM.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—Each State plan shall describe a statewide accountability system that complies with the requirements of this subsection and subsection (d).

(2) SUBGROUP OF STUDENTS.—In this subsection and subsection (d), the term "subgroup of students" means—

(A) economically disadvantaged students;

(B) students from major racial and ethnic groups;

(C) children with disabilities; and

(D) English learners.

(3) MINIMUM NUMBER OF STUDENTS.—Each State shall describe—

(A) with respect to any provisions under this part that require disaggregation of information by each subgroup of students—

(i) the minimum number of students that the State determines are necessary to be included to carry out such requirements and how that number is statistically sound, which shall be the same State-determined number for all students and for each subgroup of students in the State;

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

ED-17-0431-F-003746

(ii) how such minimum number of students was determined by the State, including how the State collaborated with teachers, principals, other school leaders, parents, and other stakeholders when determining such minimum number; and

(iii) how the State ensures that such minimum number is sufficient to not reveal any personally identifiable information.

(4) DESCRIPTION OF SYSTEM.—The statewide accountability system described in paragraph (1) shall be based on the challenging State academic standards for reading or language arts and mathematics described in subsection (b)(1) to improve student academic achievement and school success. In designing such system to meet the requirements of this part, the State shall carry out the following:

(A) ESTABLISHMENT OF LONG-TERM GOALS.—Establish ambitious State-designed long-term goals, which shall include measurements of interim progress toward meeting such goals—

(i) for all students and separately for each subgroup of students in the State—

(I) for, at a minimum, improved—

(aa) academic achievement, as measured by proficiency on the annual assessments required under subsection (b)(2)(B)(v)(I); and

(bb) high school graduation rates, including—

(AA) the four-year adjusted cohort graduation rate; and

(BB) at the State's discretion, the extended-year adjusted cohort graduation rate, except that the State shall set a more rigorous long-term goal for such graduation rate, as compared to the long-term goal set for the four-year adjusted cohort graduation rate;

(II) for which the term set by the State for such goals is the same multi-year length of time for all students and for each subgroup of students in the State; and

(III) that, for subgroups of students who are behind on the measures described in items (aa) and (bb) of subclause (I), take into account the improvement necessary on such measures to make significant progress in closing statewide proficiency and graduation rate gaps; and

(ii) for English learners, for increases in the percentage of such students making progress in achieving English language proficiency, as defined by the State and measured by the assessments described in subsection (b)(2)(G), within a State-determined timeline.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

ED-17-0431-F-003747

(B) INDICATORS.—Except for the indicator described in clause (iv), annually measure, for all students and separately for each subgroup of students, the following indicators:

(i) For all public schools in the State, based on the long-term goals established under subparagraph (A), academic achievement—

(I) as measured by proficiency on the annual assessments required under subsection (b)(2)(B)(v)(I); and

(II) at the State's discretion, for each public high school in the State, student growth, as measured by such annual assessments.

(ii) For public elementary schools and secondary schools that are not high schools in the State—

(I) a measure of student growth, if determined appropriate by the State; or

(II) another valid and reliable statewide academic indicator that allows for meaningful differentiation in school performance.

(iii) For public high schools in the State, and based on State-designed long term goals established under subparagraph (A)—

(I) the four-year adjusted cohort graduation rate; and

(II) at the State's discretion, the extended-year adjusted cohort graduation rate.

(iv) For public schools in the State, progress in achieving English language proficiency, as defined by the State and measured by the assessments described in subsection (b)(2)(G), within a State-determined timeline for all English learners—

(I) in each of the grades 3 through 8; and

(II) in the grade for which such English learners are otherwise assessed under subsection (b)(2)(B)(v)(I) during the grade 9 through grade 12 period, with such progress being measured against the results of the assessments described in subsection (b)(2)(G) taken in the previous grade.

(v)(I) For all public schools in the State, not less than one indicator of school quality or student success that—

(aa) allows for meaningful differentiation in school performance;

(bb) is valid, reliable, comparable, and statewide (with the same indicator or indicators used for each grade span, as such term is determined by the State); and

(cc) may include one or more of the measures described in subclause (II).

(II) For purposes of subclause (I), the State may include measures of—

(III) student engagement;

(IV) educator engagement;

(V) student access to and completion of advanced coursework;

(VI) postsecondary readiness;

(VII) school climate and safety; and

(VIII) any other indicator the State chooses that meets the requirements of this clause.

(C) ANNUAL MEANINGFUL DIFFERENTIATION.—Establish a system of meaningfully differentiating, on an annual basis, all public schools in the State, which shall—

(i) be based on all indicators in the State's accountability system under subparagraph (B), for all students and for each of subgroup of students, consistent with the requirements of such subparagraph;

(ii) with respect to the indicators described in clauses (i) through (iv) of subparagraph (B) afford—

(I) substantial weight to each such indicator; and

(II) in the aggregate, much greater weight than is afforded to the indicator or indicators utilized by the State and described in subparagraph (B)(v), in the aggregate; and

(iii) include differentiation of any such school in which any subgroup of students is consistently underperforming, as determined by the State, based on all indicators under subparagraph (B) and the system established under this subparagraph.

(D) IDENTIFICATION OF SCHOOLS.—Based on the system of meaningful differentiation described in subparagraph (C), establish a State-determined methodology to identify—

(i) beginning with school year 2017–2018, and at least once every three school years thereafter, one statewide category of schools for comprehensive support and improvement, as described in subsection (d)(1), which shall include—

(I) not less than the lowest-performing 5 percent of all schools receiving funds under this part in the State;

(II) all public high schools in the State failing to graduate one third or more of their students; and

(III) public schools in the State described under subsection (d)(3)(A)(i)(II); and

(ii) at the discretion of the State, additional statewide categories of schools.

(E) ANNUAL MEASUREMENT OF ACHIEVEMENT.—(i) Annually measure the achievement of not less than 95 percent of all students, and 95 percent of all students in each subgroup of students, who are enrolled in public schools on the assessments described under subsection (b)(2)(v)(I).

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

(ii) For the purpose of measuring, calculating, and reporting on the indicator described in subparagraph (B)(i), include in the denominator the greater of—

(I) 95 percent of all such students, or 95 percent of all such students in the subgroup, as the case may be; or

(II) the number of students participating in the assessments.

(iii) Provide a clear and understandable explanation of how the State will factor the requirement of clause (i) of this subparagraph into the statewide accountability system.

(F) PARTIAL ATTENDANCE.—(i) In the case of a student who has not attended the same school within a local educational agency for at least half of a school year, the performance of such student on the indicators described in clauses (i), (ii), (iv), and (v) of subparagraph (B)—

(I) may not be used in the system of meaningful differentiation of all public schools as described in subparagraph (C) for such school year; and

(II) shall be used for the purpose of reporting on the State and local educational agency report cards under subsection (h) for such school year.

(ii) In the case of a high school student who has not attended the same school within a local educational agency for at least half of a school year and has exited high school without a regular high school diploma and without transferring to another high school that grants a regular high school diploma during such school year, the local educational agency shall, in order to calculate the graduation rate pursuant to subparagraph (B)(iii), assign such student to the high school—

(I) at which such student was enrolled for the greatest proportion of school days while enrolled in grades 9 through 12; or

(II) in which the student was most recently enrolled.

(5) ACCOUNTABILITY FOR CHARTER SCHOOLS.—The accountability provisions under this Act shall be overseen for charter schools in accordance with State charter school law.

(d) SCHOOL SUPPORT AND IMPROVEMENT ACTIVITIES.—

(1) COMPREHENSIVE SUPPORT AND IMPROVEMENT.—

(A) IN GENERAL.—Each State educational agency receiving funds under this part shall notify each local educational agency in the State of any school served by the local educational agency that is identified for comprehensive support and improvement under subsection (c)(4)(D)(i).

(B) LOCAL EDUCATIONAL AGENCY ACTION.—Upon receiving such information from the State, the local educational agency shall, for each school identified by the State and in partnership with stakeholders (including principals and other school leaders, teachers, and parents), locally develop and implement a comprehensive support and improvement plan for the school to improve student outcomes, that—

ED-17-0431-F-003750

(i) is informed by all indicators described in subsection (c)(4)(B), including student performance against State-determined long-term goals;

(ii) includes evidence-based interventions;

(iii) is based on a school-level needs assessment;

(iv) identifies resource inequities, which may include a review of local educational agency and school-level budgeting, to be addressed through implementation of such comprehensive support and improvement plan;

(v) is approved by the school, local educational agency, and State educational agency; and

(vi) upon approval and implementation, is monitored and periodically reviewed by the State educational agency.

(C) STATE EDUCATIONAL AGENCY DISCRETION.—With respect to any high school in the State identified under subsection (c)(4)(D)(i)(II), the State educational agency may—

(i) permit differentiated improvement activities that utilize evidence-based interventions in the case of such a school that predominantly serves students—

(I) returning to education after having exited secondary school without a regular high school diploma; or

(II) who, based on their grade or age, are significantly off track to accumulate sufficient academic credits to meet high school graduation requirements, as established by the State; and

(ii) in the case of such a school that has a total enrollment of less than 100 students, permit the local educational agency to forego implementation of improvement activities required under this paragraph.

(D) PUBLIC SCHOOL CHOICE.—

(i) IN GENERAL.—A local educational agency may provide all students enrolled in a school identified by the State for comprehensive support and improvement under subsection (c)(4)(D)(i) with the option to transfer to another public school served by the local educational agency, unless such an option is prohibited by State law.

(ii) PRIORITY.—In providing students the option to transfer to another public school, the local educational agency shall give priority to the lowest-achieving children from low-income families, as determined by the local educational agency for the purposes of allocating funds to schools under section 1113(a)(3).

(iii) TREATMENT.—A student who uses the option to transfer to another public school shall be enrolled in classes and other activities in the public school to which the student transfers in the same manner as all other students at the public school.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

(iv) SPECIAL RULE.—A local educational agency shall permit a student who transfers to another public school under this paragraph to remain in that school until the student has completed the highest grade in that school.

(v) FUNDING FOR TRANSPORTATION.—A local educational agency may spend an amount equal to not more than 5 percent of its allocation under subpart 2 of this part to pay for the provision of transportation for students who transfer under this paragraph to the public schools to which the students transfer.

(2) TARGETED SUPPORT AND IMPROVEMENT.—

(A) IN GENERAL.—Each State educational agency receiving funds under this part shall, using the meaningful differentiation of schools described in subsection (c)(4)(C)—

(i) notify each local educational agency in the State of any school served by the local educational agency in which any subgroup of students is consistently underperforming, as described in subsection (c)(4)(C)(iii); and

(ii) ensure such local educational agency provides notification to such school with respect to which subgroup or subgroups of students in such school are consistently underperforming as described in subsection (c)(4)(C)(iii).

(B) TARGETED SUPPORT AND IMPROVEMENT PLAN.—Each school receiving a notification described in this paragraph, in partnership with stakeholders (including principals and other school leaders, teachers and parents), shall develop and implement a school-level targeted support and improvement plan to improve student outcomes based on the indicators in the statewide accountability system established under subsection (c)(4), for each subgroup of students that was the subject of notification that—

(i) is informed by all indicators described in subsection (c)(4)(B), including student performance against long-term goals;

(ii) includes evidence-based interventions;

(iii) is approved by the local educational agency prior to implementation of such plan;

(iv) is monitored, upon submission and implementation, by the local educational agency; and

(v) results in additional action following unsuccessful implementation of such plan after a number of years determined by the local educational agency.

(C) ADDITIONAL TARGETED SUPPORT.—A plan described in subparagraph (B) that is developed and implemented in any school receiving a notification under this paragraph from the local educational agency in which any subgroup of students, on its own, would lead to identification under subsection (c)(4)(D)(i)(I) using the State's methodology under subsection (c)(4)(D) shall also identify resource inequities (which may include a review of local educational agency and school level budgeting), to be addressed through implementation of such plan.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

(D) SPECIAL RULE.—The State educational agency, based on the State's differentiation of schools under subsection (c)(4)(C) for school year 2017–2018, shall notify local educational agencies of any schools served by the local educational agency in which any subgroup of students, on its own, would lead to identification under subsection (c)(4)(D)(i)(I) using the State's methodology under subsection (c)(4)(D), after which notification of such schools under this paragraph shall result from differentiation of schools pursuant to subsection (c)(4)(C)(iii).

(3) CONTINUED SUPPORT FOR SCHOOL AND LOCAL EDUCATIONAL AGENCY IMPROVEMENT.—To ensure continued progress to improve student academic achievement and school success in the State, the State educational agency—

(A) shall—

(i) establish statewide exit criteria for—

(I) schools identified by the State for comprehensive support and improvement under subsection (c)(4)(D)(i), which, if not satisfied within a State-determined number of years (not to exceed four years), shall result in more rigorous State-determined action, such as the implementation of interventions (which may include addressing school-level operations); and

(II) schools described in paragraph (2)(C), which, if not satisfied within a State-determined number of years, shall, in the case of such schools receiving assistance under this part, result in identification of the school by the State for comprehensive support and improvement under subsection (c)(4)(D)(i)(III);

(ii) periodically review resource allocation to support school improvement in each local educational agency in the State serving—

(I) a significant number of schools identified for comprehensive support and improvement under subsection (c)(4)(D)(i); and

(II) a significant number of schools implementing targeted support and improvement plans under paragraph (2); and

(iii) provide technical assistance to each local educational agency in the State serving a significant number of—

(I) schools implementing comprehensive support and improvement plans under paragraph (1); or

(II) schools implementing targeted support and improvement plans under paragraph (2); and

(B) may—

(i) take action to initiate additional improvement in any local educational agency with—

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

ED-17-0431-F-003753

(I) a significant number of schools that are consistently identified by the State for comprehensive support and improvement under subsection (c)(4)(D)(i) and not meeting exit criteria established by the State under subparagraph (A)(i)(I); or

(II) a significant number of schools implementing targeted support and improvement plans under paragraph (2); and

(ii) consistent with State law, establish alternative evidence-based State determined strategies that can be used by local educational agencies to assist a school identified for comprehensive support and improvement under subsection (c)(4)(D)(i).

(4) RULE OF CONSTRUCTION FOR COLLECTIVE BARGAINING.—Nothing in this subsection shall be construed to alter or otherwise affect the rights, remedies, and procedures afforded to school or local educational agency employees under Federal, State, or local laws (including applicable regulations or court orders) or under the terms of collective bargaining agreements, memoranda of understanding, or other agreements between such employers and their employees.

(e) PROHIBITION.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—Nothing in this Act shall be construed to authorize or permit the Secretary—

(A) when promulgating any rule or regulation, to promulgate any rule or regulation on the development or implementation of the statewide accountability system established under this section that would—

(i) add new requirements that are inconsistent with or outside the scope of this part;

(ii) add new criteria that are inconsistent with or outside the scope of this part; or

(iii) be in excess of statutory authority granted to the Secretary;

(B) as a condition of approval of the State plan, or revisions or amendments to, the State plan, or approval of a waiver request submitted under section 8401, to—

(i) require a State to add any requirements that are inconsistent with or outside the scope of this part;

(ii) require a State to add or delete one or more specific elements of the challenging State academic standards; or

(iii) prescribe—

(I) numeric long-term goals or measurements of interim progress that States establish for all students, for any subgroups of students, and for English learners with respect to English language proficiency, under this part, including—

(aa) the length of terms set by States in designing such goals; or

(II) specific academic assessments or assessment items that States or local educational agencies use to meet the requirements of subsection (b)(2) or otherwise use to measure student academic achievement or student growth under this part;

(III) indicators that States use within the State accountability system under this section, including any requirement to measure student growth, or, if a State chooses to measure student growth, the specific metrics used to measure such growth under this part;

(IV) the weight of any measure or indicator used to identify or meaningfully differentiate schools, under this part;

(V) the specific methodology used by States to meaningfully differentiate or identify schools under this part;

(VI) any specific school support and improvement strategies or activities that State or local educational agencies establish and implement to intervene in, support, and improve schools and improve student outcomes under this part;

(VII) exit criteria established by States under subsection (d)(3)(A)(i);

(VIII) provided that the State meets the requirements in subsection (c)(3), a minimum number of students established by a State under such subsection;

(IX) any aspect or parameter of a teacher, principal, or other school leader evaluation system within a State or local educational agency;

(X) indicators or specific measures of teacher, principal, or other school leader effectiveness or quality; or

(XI) the way in which the State factors the requirement under subsection (c)(4)(E)(i) into the statewide accountability system under this section; or

(C) to issue new non-regulatory guidance that—

(i) in seeking to provide explanation of requirements under this section for State or local educational agencies, either in response to requests for information or in anticipation of such requests, provides a strictly limited or exhaustive list to illustrate successful implementation of provisions under this section; or

(ii) purports to be legally binding; or

(D) to require data collection under this part beyond data derived from existing Federal, State, and local reporting requirements.

(2) DEFINING TERMS.—In carrying out this part, the Secretary shall not, through regulation or as a condition of approval of the State plan or revisions or amendments to the State plan, promulgate a definition of any term used in this part, or otherwise prescribe any specification for any such term, that is inconsistent with or outside the scope of this part or is in violation of paragraph (1).

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

ED-17-0431-F-003755

(f) EXISTING STATE LAW.—Nothing in this section shall be construed to alter any State law or regulation granting parents authority over schools that repeatedly failed to make adequate yearly progress under this part, as in effect on the day before the date of the enactment of the Every Student Succeeds Act.

(g) OTHER PLAN PROVISIONS.—

(1) DESCRIPTIONS.—Each State plan shall describe—

(A) how the State will provide assistance to local educational agencies and individual elementary schools choosing to use funds under this part to support early childhood education programs;

(B) how low-income and minority children enrolled in schools assisted under this part are not served at disproportionate rates by ineffective, out-of-field, or inexperienced teachers, and the measures the State educational agency will use to evaluate and publicly report the progress of the State educational agency with respect to such description (except that nothing in this subparagraph shall be construed as requiring a State to develop or implement a teacher, principal, or other school leader evaluation system);

SEC. 1113. [20 U.S.C. 6313] ELIGIBLE SCHOOL ATTENDANCE AREAS.

(a) DETERMINATION.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—A local educational agency shall use funds received under this part only in eligible school attendance areas.

(2) ELIGIBLE SCHOOL ATTENDANCE AREAS.—For the purposes of this part—

(A) the term "school attendance area" means, in relation to a particular school, the geographical area in which the children who are normally served by that school reside; and

(B) the term "eligible school attendance area" means a school attendance area in which the percentage of children from low-income families is at least as high as the percentage of children from low-income families served by the local educational agency as a whole.

(3) RANKING ORDER.—

(A) RANKING.—Except as provided in subparagraph (B), if funds allocated in accordance with subsection (c) are insufficient to serve all eligible school attendance areas, a local educational agency shall—

(i) annually rank, without regard to grade spans, such agency's eligible school attendance areas in which the concentration of children from low-income families exceeds 75 percent from highest to lowest according to the percentage of children from low-income families; and

(ii) serve such eligible school attendance areas in rank order.

(B) EXCEPTION.—A local educational agency may lower the threshold in subparagraph (A)(i) to 50 percent for high schools served by such agency.

(B) serve such eligible school attendance areas in rank order either within each grade-span grouping or within the local educational agency as a whole.

(5) MEASURES.—

(A) IN GENERAL.—Except as provided in subparagraph (B), a local educational agency shall use the same measure of poverty, which measure shall be the number of children aged 5 through 17 in poverty counted in the most recent census data approved by the Secretary, the number of children eligible for a free or reduced price lunch under the Richard B. Russell National School Lunch Act (42 U.S.C. 1751 et seq.), the number of children in families receiving assistance under the State program funded under part A of title IV of the Social Security Act, or the number of children eligible to receive medical assistance under the Medicaid Program, or a composite of such indicators, with respect to all school attendance areas in the local educational agency—

(i) to identify eligible school attendance areas;

(ii) to determine the ranking of each area; and

(iii) to determine allocations under subsection (c).

(B) SECONDARY SCHOOLS.—For measuring the number of students in low-income families in secondary schools, the local educational agency shall use the same measure of poverty, which shall be—

(i) the measure described under subparagraph (A); or

(ii) subject to meeting the conditions of subparagraph (C), an accurate estimate of the number of students in low-income families in a secondary school that is calculated by applying the average percentage of students in low-income families of the elementary school attendance areas as calculated under subparagraph (A) that feed into the secondary school to the number of students enrolled in such school.

(C) MEASURE OF POVERTY.—The local educational agency shall have the option to use the measure of poverty described in subparagraph (B)(ii) after—

(i) conducting outreach to secondary schools within such agency to inform such schools of the option to use such measure; and segregation plan or a plan that continues to be implemented in accordance with a State-ordered or court-ordered desegregation plan, if—

(A) the number of economically disadvantaged children enrolled in the school is at least 25 percent of the school's total enrollment; and

(B) the Secretary determines on the basis of a written request from such agency and in accordance with such criteria as the Secretary establishes, that approval of that request would further the purposes of this part.

(b) LOCAL EDUCATIONAL AGENCY DISCRETION.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—Notwithstanding subsection (a)(2), a local educational agency may—

(A) designate as eligible any school attendance area or school in which at least 35 percent of the children are from low-income families;

(C) designate and serve a school attendance area or school that is not eligible under this section, but that was eligible and that was served in the preceding fiscal year, but only for 1 additional fiscal year; and

(iii) the funds expended from such other sources equal or exceed the amount that would be provided under this part.

(2) SPECIAL RULE.—Notwithstanding paragraph (1)(D), the number of children attending private elementary schools and secondary schools who are to receive services, and the assistance such children are to receive under this part, shall be determined without regard to whether the public school attendance area in which such children reside is assisted under subparagraph (A).

(c) ALLOCATIONS.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—A local educational agency shall allocate funds received under this part to eligible school attendance areas or eligible schools, identified under subsections (a) and (b), in rank order, on the basis of the total number of children from low-income families in each area or school.

(B) EXCEPTION.—A local educational agency may reduce the amount of funds allocated under subparagraph (A) for a school attendance area or school by the amount of any supplemental State and local funds expended in that school attendance area or school for programs that meet the requirements of section 1114 or 1115.

(3) RESERVATION OF FUNDS.—

(A) IN GENERAL.—A local educational agency shall reserve such funds as are necessary under this part, determined in accordance with subparagraphs (B) and (C), to provide services comparable to those provided to children in schools funded under this part to serve—

(ii) prior to any allowable expenditures or transfers by the local educational agency.

(C) HOMELESS CHILDREN AND YOUTHS.—Funds reserved under subparagraph (A)(i) may be—

(i) determined based on a needs assessment of homeless children and youths in the local educational agency, taking into consideration the number and needs of homeless children and youths in the local educational agency, and which needs assessment may be the same needs assessment as conducted under section 723(b)(1) of the McKinney-Vento Homeless Assistance Act (42 U.S.C. 11433(b)(1)); and

(ii) used to provide homeless children and youths with services not ordinarily provided to other students under this part, including providing—

(B) EXCEPTION.—A school that serves an eligible school attendance area in which less than 40 percent of the children are from low-income families, or a school for which less than 40 percent of the children enrolled in the school are from such families, may operate a schoolwide program under this section if the school receives a waiver from the State educational agency to do so, after taking into account how a schoolwide program will best serve the needs of the students in the school served under this part in improving academic achievement and other factors.

(2) IDENTIFICATION OF STUDENTS NOT REQUIRED.—

(A) IN GENERAL.—No school participating in a schoolwide program shall be required to identify—

(i) particular children under this part as eligible to participate in a schoolwide program; or under paragraphs (2) and (3) for that fiscal year, the Secretary shall ratably reduce those amounts.

(5) USES.—Grant funds awarded under paragraph (1)(A) may be used only—

(A) for programs described in this Act, including teacher training, curriculum development, instructional materials, or general school improvement and reform; and

(B) to provide direct educational services that assist all students with meeting the challenging State academic standards.

(c) DEFINITIONS.—For the purpose of this section, the term "outlying area" means the United States Virgin Islands, Guam, American Samoa, and the Commonwealth of the Northern Mariana Islands.

(d) ALLOTMENT TO THE SECRETARY OF THE INTERIOR.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—The amount allotted for payments to the Secretary of the Interior under subsection (a)(2) for any fiscal year shall be used, in accordance with such criteria as the Secretary may establish, to meet the unique educational needs of—

(B) out-of-State Indian children in elementary schools and secondary schools in local educational agencies under special contracts with the Department of the Interior.

(2) PAYMENTS.—From the amount allotted for payments to the Secretary of the Interior under subsection (a)(2), the Secretary of the Interior shall make payments to local educational agencies, on such terms as the Secretary determines will best carry out the purposes of this part, with respect to out-of-State Indian children described in paragraph (1). The amount of such payment may not exceed, for each such child, the greater of—

(A) 40 percent of the average per-pupil expenditure in the State in which the agency is located; or

(B) 48 percent of such expenditure in the United States.

(e) LIMITATION ON APPLICABILITY.—If, by reason of the application of subsection (a) for any fiscal year, the total amount available for allocation to all States under this part would be less than the amount allocated to all States for fiscal year 2016 under this part, the Secretary shall provide assistance to the outlying areas and the Secretary of the Interior in accordance with this section, as in effect on the day before the date of enactment of the Every Student Succeeds Act.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

ED-17-0431-F-003798

(2) an amount equal to the amount made available to carry out section 1124A for fiscal year 2001 shall be allocated in accordance with section 1124A; and

(3) an amount equal to 100 percent of the amount, if any, by which the total amount made available under this subsection for the current fiscal year for which the determination is made exceeds the total amount available to carry out sections 1124 and 1124A for fiscal year 2001 shall be used to carry out sections 1125 and 1125A and such amount shall be divided equally between sections 1125 and 1125A.

(b) ADJUSTMENTS WHERE NECESSITATED BY APPROPRIATIONS.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—If the sums available under this subpart for any fiscal year are insufficient to pay the full amounts that all local educational agencies in States are eligible to receive under sections 1124, 1124A, and 1125 for such year, the Secretary shall ratably reduce the allocations to such local educational agencies, subject to subsections (c) and (d) of this section.

(2) ADDITIONAL FUNDS.—If additional funds become available for making payments under sections 1124, 1124A, and 1125 for such fiscal year, allocations that were reduced under paragraph (1) shall be increased on the same basis as they were reduced.

(c) HOLD-HARMLESS AMOUNTS.—

(1) AMOUNTS FOR SECTIONS 1124, 1124A, AND 1125.—For each fiscal year, the amount made available to each local educational agency under each of sections 1124, 1124A, and 1125 shall be—

(A) not less than 95 percent of the amount made available for the preceding fiscal year if the number of children counted for grants under section 1124 is not less than 30 percent of the total number of children aged 5 to 17 years, inclusive, in the local educational agency;

(B) not less than 90 percent of the amount made available for the preceding fiscal year if the percentage described in subparagraph (A) is between 15 percent and 30 percent; and

(C) not less than 85 percent of the amount made available for the preceding fiscal year if the percentage described in subparagraph (A) is below 15 percent.

(2) PAYMENTS.—If sufficient funds are appropriated, the amounts described in paragraph (1) shall be paid to all local educational agencies that received grants under section 1124A for the preceding fiscal year, regardless of whether the local educational agency meets the minimum eligibility criteria for that fiscal year described in section 1124A(a)(1)(A) except that a local educational agency that does not meet such minimum eligibility criteria for 4 consecutive years shall no longer be eligible to receive a hold harmless amount referred to in paragraph (1).

(3) APPLICABILITY.—Notwithstanding any other provision of law, the Secretary shall not take into consideration the hold-harmless provisions of this subsection for any fiscal year for purposes of calculating State or local allocations for the fiscal year under any program administered by the Secretary other than a program authorized under this part.

(4) POPULATION DATA.—For any fiscal year for which the Secretary calculates grants on the basis of population data for counties, the Secretary shall apply the hold-harmless percentages in paragraphs (1) and (2) to counties and, if the Secretary's allocation for a county is not sufficient to meet the hold-harmless requirements of this subsection for every local educational agency within that county, the State educational agency shall reallocate funds proportionately from all other local educational agencies in the State that are receiving funds in excess of the hold-harmless amounts specified in this subsection.

(d) RATABLE REDUCTIONS.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—If the sums made available under this subpart for any fiscal year are insufficient to pay the full amounts that local educational agencies in all States are eligible to receive under subsection (c) for such year, the Secretary shall ratably reduce such amounts for such year.

(2) ADDITIONAL FUNDS.—If additional funds become available for making payments under subsection (c) for such fiscal year, amounts that were reduced under paragraph (1) shall be increased on the same basis as such amounts were reduced.

(e) DEFINITION.—For the purpose of this section and sections 1124, 1124A, 1125, and 1125A, the term "State" means each of the 50 States, the District of Columbia, and the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico.

SEC. 1124. [20 U.S.C. 6333] BASIC GRANTS TO LOCAL EDUCATIONAL AGENCIES.

(a) AMOUNT OF GRANTS.—

(1) GRANTS FOR LOCAL EDUCATIONAL AGENCIES AND PUERTO RICO.—Except as provided in paragraph (4) and in section 1126, the grant that a local educational agency is eligible to receive under this section for a fiscal year is the amount determined by multiplying—

(A) the number of children counted under subsection (c); and

(B) 40 percent of the average per-pupil expenditure in the State, except that the amount determined under this subparagraph shall not be less than 32 percent, or more than 48 percent, of the average per-pupil expenditure in the United States.

(2) CALCULATION OF GRANTS.—

(A) ALLOCATIONS TO LOCAL EDUCATIONAL AGENCIES.—The Secretary shall calculate grants under this section on the basis of the number of children counted under subsection (c) for local educational agencies, unless the Secretary and the Secretary of Commerce determine that some or all of those data are unreliable or that their use would be otherwise inappropriate, in which case—

(i) the two Secretaries shall publicly disclose the reasons for their determination in detail; and

(B) ALLOCATIONS TO LARGE AND SMALL LOCAL EDUCATIONAL AGENCIES.—

(i) For any fiscal year to which this paragraph applies, the Secretary shall calculate grants under this section for each local educational agency.

(ii) The amount of a grant under this section for each large local educational agency shall be the amount determined under clause (i).

(iii) For small local educational agencies, the State educational agency may either—

(I) distribute grants under this section in amounts determined by the Secretary under clause (i); or

(II) use an alternative method approved by the Secretary to distribute the portion of the State's total grants under this section that is based on those small agencies.

(iv) An alternative method under clause (iii)(II) shall be based on population data that the State educational agency determines best reflect the current distribution of children in poor families among the State's small local educational agencies that meet the eligibility criteria of subsection (b).

(v) If a small local educational agency is dissatisfied with the determination of its grant by the State educational agency under clause (iii)(II), it may appeal that determination to the Secretary, who shall respond not later than 45 days after receipt of such appeal.

(vi) As used in this subparagraph—

(I) the term "large local educational agency" means a local educational agency serving an area with a total population of 20,000 or more; and

(II) the term "small local educational agency" means a local educational agency serving an area with a total population of less than 20,000.

(3) ALLOCATIONS TO COUNTIES.—

(A) CALCULATION.—For any fiscal year to which this paragraph applies, the Secretary shall calculate grants under this section on the basis of the number of children counted under subsection (c) for counties, and State educational agencies shall suballocate county amounts to local educational agencies, in accordance with regulations issued by the Secretary.

(B) DIRECT ALLOCATIONS.—In any State in which a large number of local educational agencies overlap county boundaries, or for which the State believes it has data that would better target funds than allocating them by county, the State educational agency may apply to the Secretary for authority to make the allocations under this subpart for a particular fiscal year directly to local educational agencies without regard to counties.

(C) ALLOCATIONS TO LOCAL EDUCATIONAL AGENCIES.—If the Secretary approves the State educational agency's application under subparagraph (B), the State educational agency shall provide the Secretary an assurance that such allocations shall be made—

(i) using precisely the same factors for determining a grant as are used under this subpart; or

(ii) using data that the State educational agency submits to the Secretary for approval that more accurately target poverty.

(D) APPEAL.—The State educational agency shall provide the Secretary an assurance that it will establish a procedure through which a local educational agency that is dissatisfied with its determinations under subparagraph (B) may appeal directly to the Secretary for a final determination.

(4) PUERTO RICO.—

(A) IN GENERAL.—For each fiscal year, the grant that the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico shall be eligible to receive under this section shall be the amount determined by multiplying the number of children counted under subsection (c) for the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico by the product of—

(i) subject to subparagraph (B), the percentage that the average per-pupil expenditure in the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico is of the lowest average per-pupil expenditure of any of the 50 States; and

(ii) 32 percent of the average per-pupil expenditure in the United States.

(B) MINIMUM PERCENTAGE.—The percentage in subparagraph (A)(i) shall not be less than—

(i) for fiscal year 2002, 77.5 percent;

(ii) for fiscal year 2003, 80.0 percent;

(iii) for fiscal year 2004, 82.5 percent;

(iv) for fiscal year 2005, 85.0 percent;

(v) for fiscal year 2006, 92.5 percent; and

(vi) for fiscal year 2007 and succeeding fiscal years, 100.0 percent.

(C) LIMITATION.—If the application of subparagraph (B) would result in any of the 50 States or the District of Columbia receiving less under this subpart than it received under this subpart for the preceding fiscal year, the percentage in subparagraph (A) shall be the greater of—

(i) the percentage in subparagraph (A)(i);

(ii) the percentage specified in subparagraph (B) for the preceding fiscal year; or

(iii) the percentage used for the preceding fiscal year.

(b) MINIMUM NUMBER OF CHILDREN TO QUALIFY.—A local educational agency is eligible for a basic grant under this section for any fiscal year only if the number of children counted under subsection (c) for that agency is both—

(1) 10 or more; and

(2) more than 2 percent of the total school-age population in the agency's jurisdiction.

(c) CHILDREN TO BE COUNTED.—

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

ED-17-0431-F-003802

(1) CATEGORIES OF CHILDREN.—The number of children to be counted for purposes of this section is the aggregate of—

(A) the number of children aged 5 to 17, inclusive, in the school district of the local educational agency from families below the poverty level as determined under paragraph (2);

(B) the number of children (determined under paragraph (4) for either the preceding year as described in that paragraph, or for the second preceding year, as the Secretary finds appropriate) aged 5 to 17, inclusive, in the school district of such agency in institutions for neglected and delinquent children (other than such institutions operated by the United States), but not counted pursuant to subpart 1 of part D for the purposes of a grant to a State agency, or being supported in foster homes with public funds; and

(C) the number of children aged 5 to 17, inclusive, in the school district of such agency from families above the poverty level as determined under paragraph (4).

(2) DETERMINATION OF NUMBER OF CHILDREN.—For the purposes of this section, the Secretary shall determine the number of children aged 5 to 17, inclusive, from families below the poverty level on the basis of the most recent satisfactory data, described in paragraph (3), available from the Department of Commerce. The District of Columbia and the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico shall be treated as individual local educational agencies. If a local educational agency contains two or more counties in their entirety, then each county will be treated as if such county were a separate local educational agency for purposes of calculating grants under this part. The total of grants for such counties shall be allocated to such a local educational agency, which local educational agency shall distribute to schools in each county within such agency a share of the local educational agency's total grant that is no less than the county's share of the population counts used to calculate the local educational agency's grant.

(3) POPULATION UPDATES.—

(A) IN GENERAL.—In fiscal year 2002 and each subsequent fiscal year, the Secretary shall use updated data on the number of children, aged 5 to 17, inclusive, from families below the poverty level for counties or local educational agencies, published by the Department of Commerce, unless the Secretary and the Secretary of Commerce determine that the use of the updated population data would be inappropriate or unreliable. If appropriate and reliable data are not available annually, the Secretary shall use data which are updated every 2 years.

(B) INAPPROPRIATE OR UNRELIABLE DATA.—If the Secretary and the Secretary of Commerce determine that some or all of the data referred to in subparagraph (A) are inappropriate or unreliable, the Secretary and the Secretary of Commerce shall publicly disclose their reasons.

(C) CRITERIA OF POVERTY.—In determining the families that are below the poverty level, the Secretary shall use the criteria of poverty used by the Bureau of the Census in compiling the most recent decennial census, as the criteria have been updated by increases in the Consumer Price Index for All Urban Consumers, published by the Bureau of Labor Statistics.

(4) OTHER CHILDREN TO BE COUNTED.—

(A) For the purpose of this section, the Secretary shall determine the number of children aged 5 to 17, inclusive, from families above the poverty level on the basis of the number of such children from families receiving an annual income, in excess of the current criteria of poverty, from payments under a State program funded under part A of title IV of the Social Security Act; and in making such determinations, the Secretary shall use the criteria of poverty used by the Bureau of the Census in compiling the most recent decennial census for a family of four in such form as those criteria have been updated by increases in the Consumer Price Index for All Urban Consumers, published by the Bureau of Labor Statistics.

(B) The Secretary shall determine the number of such children and the number of children aged 5 through 17 living in institutions for neglected or delinquent children, or being supported in foster homes with public funds, on the basis of the caseload data for the month of October of the preceding fiscal year (using, in the case of children described in the preceding sentence, the criteria of poverty and the form of such criteria required by such sentence which were determined for the calendar year preceding such month of October) or, to the extent that such data are not available to the Secretary before January of the calendar year in which the Secretary's determination is made, then on the basis of the most recent reliable data available to the Secretary at the time of such determination.

(C) Except for the data on children living in institutions for neglected or delinquent children, the Secretary of Health and Human Services shall collect and transmit the information required by this subparagraph to the Secretary not later than January 1 of each year.

(D) For the purpose of this section, the Secretary shall consider all children who are in correctional institutions to be living in institutions for delinquent children.

(5) ESTIMATE.—When requested by the Secretary, the Secretary of Commerce shall make a special updated estimate of the number of children of such ages who are from families below the poverty level (as determined under paragraph (1)(A)) in each school district, and the Secretary is authorized to pay (either in advance or by way of reimbursement) the Secretary of Commerce the cost of making this special estimate. The Secretary of Commerce shall give consideration to any request of the chief executive of a State for the collection of additional census information.

(d) STATE MINIMUM.—Notwithstanding section 1122, the aggregate amount allotted for all local educational agencies within a State may not be less than the lesser of—

(1) 0.25 percent of the total amount allocated to States under this section for fiscal year 2001, plus 0.35 percent of the total amount allocated to States under this section in excess of the amount allocated for fiscal year 2001; or

(2) the average of—

(A) the amount calculated in paragraph (1), above; and

(B) the number of children in such State counted under subsection (c) in the fiscal year multiplied by 150 percent of the national average per-pupil payment made with funds available under this section for that year.

(1) IN GENERAL.—(A) Except as otherwise provided in this paragraph, each local educational agency which is eligible for a grant under section 1124 for any fiscal year is eligible for an additional grant under this section for that fiscal year if the number of children counted under section 1124(c) in the agency exceeds either—

(i) 6,500; or

(ii) 15 percent of the total number of children aged 5 through 17 in the agency.

(B) Notwithstanding section 1122, no State shall receive less than the lesser of—

(i) 0.25 percent of the total amount allocated to States under this section for fiscal year 2001, plus 0.35 percent of the total amount allocated to States under this section in excess of the amount allocated for fiscal year 2001; or

(ii) the average of—

(I) the amount calculated under clause (i); and

(II) the greater of—

(bb) the number of children in such State counted for purposes of this section in that fiscal year multiplied by 150 percent of the national average per-pupil payment made with funds available under this section for that year.

(2) DETERMINATION.—For each county or local educational agency eligible to receive an additional grant under this section for any fiscal year, the Secretary shall determine the product of—

(A) the number of children counted under section 1124(c) for that fiscal year; and

(B) the amount in section 1124(a)(1)(B) for each State except the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico, and the amount in section 1124(a)(4) for the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico.

(3) AMOUNT.—The amount of the additional grant for which an eligible local educational agency or county is eligible under this section for any fiscal year shall be an amount which bears the same ratio to the amount available to carry out this section for that fiscal year as the product determined under paragraph (2) for such local educational agency for that fiscal year bears to the sum of such products for all local educational agencies in the United States for that fiscal year.

(4) LOCAL ALLOCATIONS.—(A) Grant amounts under this section shall be determined in accordance with section 1124(a)(2), (3), and (4).

(B) For any fiscal year for which the Secretary allocates funds under this section on the basis of counties, a State may reserve not more than 2 percent of its allocation under this section to make grants to local educational agencies that meet the criteria of paragraph (1)(A)(i) or (ii) and are in ineligible counties that do not meet these criteria.

(b) SMALL STATES.—In any State for which on the date of enactment of the No Child Left Behind Act of 2001 the number of children counted under section 1124(c) is less than 0.25 percent of the number of those children counted for all States, the State educational agency shall allocate funds under this section among the local educational agencies in the State either—

(1) in accordance with paragraphs (2) and (4) of subsection (a); or

(2) based on their respective concentrations and numbers of children counted under section 1124(c), except that only those local educational agencies with concentrations or numbers of children counted under section 1124(c) that exceed the statewide average percentage of such children or the statewide average number of such children shall receive any funds on the basis of this paragraph.

SEC. 1125. [20 U.S.C. 6335] TARGETED GRANTS TO LOCAL EDUCATIONAL AGENCIES.

(a) ELIGIBILITY OF LOCAL EDUCATIONAL AGENCIES.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—A local educational agency in a State is eligible to receive a targeted grant under this section for any fiscal year if—

(A) the number of children in the local educational agency counted under section 1124(c), before application of the weighted child count described in subsection (c), is at least 10; and

(B) if the number of children counted for grants under section 1124(c), before application of the weighted child count described in subsection (c), is at least 5 percent of the total number of children aged 5 to 17 years, inclusive, in the school district of the local educational agency.

(2) SPECIAL RULE.—For any fiscal year for which the Secretary allocates funds under this section on the basis of counties, funds made available as a result of applying this subsection shall be reallocated by the State educational agency to other eligible local educational agencies in the State in proportion to the distribution of other funds under this section.

(b) GRANTS FOR LOCAL EDUCATIONAL AGENCIES, THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA, AND THE COMMONWEALTH OF PUERTO RICO.—

(2) PUERTO RICO.—For each fiscal year, the amount of the grant the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico is eligible to receive under this section shall be equal to the number of children counted under subsection (c) for the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico, multiplied by the amount determined in section 1124(a)(4) for the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico.

(c) WEIGHTED CHILD COUNT.—

(1) WEIGHTS FOR ALLOCATIONS TO COUNTIES.—

under this paragraph shall not be greater than the total number of children counted under section 1124(c) multiplied by 1.82.

(2) WEIGHTS FOR ALLOCATIONS TO LOCAL EDUCATIONAL AGENCIES.—

(A) IN GENERAL.—For each fiscal year for which the Secretary uses local educational agency data, the weighted child count used to determine a local educational agency's grant under this section is the larger of the two amounts determined under subparagraphs (B) and (C).

(B) BY PERCENTAGE OF CHILDREN.—The amount referred to in subparagraph (A) is determined by adding—

(i) the number of children determined under section 1124(c) for that local educational agency who constitute not more than 15.58 percent, inclusive, of the agency's total population aged 5 to 17, inclusive, multiplied by 1.0;

(i) the number of children determined under section 1124(c) who constitute not more than 691, inclusive, of the agency's total population aged 5 to 17, inclusive, multiplied by 1.0;

(ii) the number of such children between 692 and 2,262, inclusive, in such population, multiplied by 1.5;

(iii) the number of such children between 2,263 and 7,851, inclusive, in such population, multiplied by 2.0;

(2) EFFORT FACTOR.—

(A) IN GENERAL.—Except as provided in subparagraph (B), the effort factor for a State shall be determined in accordance with the succeeding sentence, except that such factor shall not be less than 0.95 nor greater than 1.05. The effort factor determined under this sentence shall be a fraction the numerator of which is the product of the 3-year average per-pupil expenditure in the State multiplied by the 3-year average per capita income in the United States and the denominator of which is the product of the 3-year average per capita income in such State multiplied by the 3-year average per-pupil expenditure in the United States.

(B) COMMONWEALTH OF PUERTO RICO.—The effort factor for the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico shall be equal to the lowest effort factor calculated under subparagraph (A) for any State.

(3) EQUITY FACTOR.—

(i) IN GENERAL.—Except as provided in subparagraph (B), the Secretary shall determine the equity factor under this section for each State in accordance with clause (ii).

(ii) COMPUTATION.—

(I) IN GENERAL.—For each State, the Secretary shall compute a weighted coefficient of variation for the per-pupil expenditures of local educational agencies in accordance with subclauses (II), (III), and (IV).

(II) VARIATION.—In computing coefficients of variation, the Secretary shall weigh the variation between per-pupil expenditures in each local educational agency and the average per-pupil expenditures in the State according to the number of pupils served by the local educational agency.

(III) NUMBER OF PUPILS.—In determining the number of pupils under this paragraph served by each local educational agency and in each State, the Secretary shall multiply the number of children counted under section 1124(c) by a factor of 1.4.

(IV) ENROLLMENT REQUIREMENT.—In computing coefficients of variation, the Secretary shall include only those local educational agencies with an enrollment of more than 200 students.

(B) SPECIAL RULE.—The equity factor for a State that meets the disparity standard described in section 222.162 of title 34, Code of Federal Regulations (as such section was in effect on the day preceding the date of enactment of the No Child Left Behind Act of 2001) or a State with only one local educational agency shall be not greater than 0.10.

(c) USE OF FUNDS; ELIGIBILITY OF LOCAL EDUCATIONAL AGENCIES.—All funds awarded to each State under this section shall be allocated to local educational agencies under the following provisions. Within local educational agencies, funds allocated under this section shall be distributed to schools on a basis consistent with section 1113, and may only be used to carry out activities under this part. A local educational agency in a State is eligible to receive a targeted grant under this section for any fiscal year if—

(1) the number of children in the local educational agency counted under section 1124(c), before application of the weighted child count described in paragraph (3), is at least 10; and

(2) if the number of children counted for grants under section 1124(c), before application of the weighted child count described in paragraph (3), is at least 5 percent of the total number of children aged 5 to 17 years, inclusive, in the school district of the local educational agency.

For any fiscal year for which the Secretary allocates funds under this section on the basis of counties, funds made available as a result of applying this subsection shall be reallocated by the State educational agency to other eligible local educational agencies in the State in proportion to the distribution of other funds under this section.

(d) ALLOCATION OF FUNDS TO ELIGIBLE LOCAL EDUCATIONAL AGENCIES.—Funds received by States under this section shall be allocated within States to eligible local educational agencies on the basis of weighted child counts calculated in accordance with paragraph (1), (2), or (3), as appropriate for each State.

(1) STATES WITH AN EQUITY FACTOR LESS THAN.10.—In States with an equity factor less than .10, the weighted child counts referred to in subsection (d) shall be calculated as follows:

(A) WEIGHTS FOR ALLOCATIONS TO COUNTIES.—

(i) IN GENERAL.—For each fiscal year for which the Secretary uses county population data to calculate grants, the weighted child count used to determine a county's allocation under this section is the larger of the two amounts determined under clauses (ii) and (iii).

(3) WAIVER AUTHORITY.—A State may request, and the Secretary shall review such request and may grant, a delay of the withdrawal of authority under subsection (i) for the purpose of providing the State with the time necessary to implement the innovative assessment system statewide, if, at the conclusion of the State's approved demonstration authority period and 2-year extension—

(A) the State has met all of the requirements of this section, except transition to full statewide use of the innovative assessment system; and

(B) the State continues to comply with the other requirements of this section, and demonstrates a high-quality plan for transition to statewide use of the innovative assessment system in a reasonable period of time.

(iii) include assessment tasks that determine proficiency or mastery of State-approved competencies aligned to challenging State academic standards;

(B) effective supports for local educational agencies and school staff to implement innovative assessment systems;

(C) effective engagement and support of teachers in developing and scoring assessments and the use of high-quality professional development;

(D) effective supports for all students, particularly each of the subgroups of students, as defined in section 1111(c)(2), participating in the innovative assessment system; and

(E) standardized and calibrated scoring rubrics, and other strategies, to ensure inter-rater reliability and comparability of determinations of mastery or proficiency across local educational agencies and the State.

(1) To assist States in supporting high-quality and comprehensive educational programs and services during the school year and, as applicable, during summer or intersession periods, that address the unique educational needs of migratory children.

(2) To ensure that migratory children who move among the States are not penalized in any manner by disparities among the States in curriculum, graduation requirements, and challenging State academic standards.

(3) To ensure that migratory children receive full and appropriate opportunities to meet the same challenging State academic standards that all children are expected to meet.

(4) To help migratory children overcome educational disruption, cultural and language barriers, social isolation, various health-related problems, and other factors that inhibit the ability of such children to succeed in school.

(5) To help migratory children benefit from State and local systemic reforms.

SEC. 1302. [20 U.S.C. 6392] PROGRAM AUTHORIZED.

SEC. 1303. [20 U.S.C. 6393] STATE ALLOCATIONS.

(a) STATE ALLOCATIONS.—Except as provided in subsection (c), each State (other than the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico) is entitled to receive under this part an amount equal to the product of—

(1) the sum of—

(A) the average number of identified eligible migratory children aged 3 through 21 residing in the State, based on data for the preceding 3 years; and

(B) the number of identified eligible migratory children, aged 3 through 21, who received services under this part in summer or intersession programs provided by the State during the previous year; multiplied by

(2) 40 percent of the average per-pupil expenditure in the State, except that the amount determined under this paragraph shall not be less than 32 percent, nor more than 48 percent, of the average per-pupil expenditure in the United States.

(b) HOLD HARMLESS.—Notwithstanding subsection (a), for each of fiscal years 2017 through 2019, no State shall receive less than 90 percent of the State's allocation under this section for the preceding fiscal year.

(c) ALLOCATION TO PUERTO RICO.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—For each fiscal year, the grant that the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico shall be eligible to receive under this part shall be the amount determined by multiplying the number of children who would be counted under subsection (a)(1) if such subsection applied to the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico by the product of—

(A) the percentage that the average per-pupil expenditure in the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico is of the lowest average per-pupil expenditure of any of the 50 States, subject to paragraphs (2) and (3); and

(B) 32 percent of the average per-pupil expenditure in the United States.

(2) MINIMUM PERCENTAGE.—The percentage described in paragraph (1)(A) shall not be less than 85 percent.

(3) LIMITATION.—If the application of paragraph (2) for any fiscal year would result in any of the 50 States or the District of Columbia receiving less under this part than it received under this part for the preceding fiscal year, then the percentage described in paragraph (1)(A) that is used for the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico for the fiscal year for which the determination is made shall be the greater of the percentage in paragraph (1)(A) for such fiscal year or the percentage used for the preceding fiscal year.

(d) RATABLE REDUCTIONS; REALLOCATIONS.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—

(A) RATABLE REDUCTIONS.—If, after the Secretary reserves funds under section 1308(c), the amount appropriated to carry out this part for any fiscal year is insufficient to pay in full the amounts for which all States are eligible, the Secretary shall ratably reduce each such amount.

(B) REALLOCATION.—If additional funds become available for making such payments for any fiscal year, the Secretary shall allocate such funds to States in amounts that the Secretary determines will best carry out the purposes of this part.

(2) SPECIAL RULE.—

(A) FURTHER REDUCTIONS.—The Secretary shall further reduce the amount of any grant to a State under this part for any fiscal year if the Secretary determines, based on available information on the numbers and needs of migratory children in the State and the program proposed by the State to address such needs, that such amount exceeds the amount required under section 1304.

(B) REALLOCATION.—The Secretary shall reallocate such excess funds to other States whose grants under this part would otherwise be insufficient to provide an appropriate level of services to migratory children, in such amounts as the Secretary determines are appropriate.

(e) CONSORTIUM ARRANGEMENTS.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—In the case of a State that receives a grant of $1,000,000 or less under this section, the Secretary shall consult with the State educational agency to determine whether consortium arrangements with another State or other appropriate entity would result in delivery of services in a more effective and efficient manner.

(2) PROPOSALS.—Any State, regardless of the amount of such State's allocation, may submit a consortium arrangement to the Secretary for approval.
